KIN SEEK $2,000,000 LEFT BY MRS. EDDY

Five Lawyers Say Bequest to Mother Church Is Void and Court Proceedings Begin.

FORBIDDEN BY STATE LAWS

New Hampshire and Massachusetts Statutes Both Provide Against Large Gifts to Churches.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 12.—Five lawyers have united in an opinion that Mrs. Mary G. Baker Eddy's bequest of $2,000,000 to the "Mother Church" of Christian Scientists is void. They are former Senator William E. Chandler, Hannis Taylor, former Minister to Spain and Professor of International and Constitutional Law at George Washington University; William L. Chambers of Washington; John W. Kelley of Portsmouth and De Witt C. Howe of Concord.

They point out that the law of New Hampshire, in which Mrs. Eddy was a resident, forbids any gift to a church which involves an income of more than $5,000 a year, while the Massachusetts law governing the church puts the amount at $2,000. As the legacy is void, they hold, the $2,000,000 will go to the kin of Mrs. Eddy, and the contract made with her before her death will have no effect.

In consequence of this opinion Mr. Chandler started court proceedings in behalf of George W. Glover, the son, and Dr. E. J. Foster Eddy, adopted son of Mrs. Eddy. There is no contest of the will, but a request for the Superior Court to construe the bequest to the church, which will be effective in bringing the matter to an issue without breaking the agreement that the relatives should not attempt to break the will.

Mr. Chandler, in one of the papers given out to-night, declares that Mrs. Eddy believed her sons were directing malignant animal magnetism on her.

New Hampshire's Ban on Bequest.

The opinion was written by Prof. Taylor and concurred in by the others. It was requested in a long letter written to him by Mr. Chandler, reviewing the facts in the case. Prof. Taylor in the beginning quotes the New Hampshire statute, as follows:

> The income of any grant or donation made to or for the use of a church shall not exceed $5,000 a year, exclusive of the income of any parsonage land granted to or for the use of the ministry.

Continuing the opinion, says in part:

"It is difficult to understand how any one could have imagined in the presence of the positive prohibitions of such statutes, that a testatrix domiciled in New Hampshire and governed by its laws could give by will to a single church, in Massachusetts, governed by its laws, a single bequest of nearly $2,000,000—a sum nearly twenty times as great as that permitted as a gift to any one church by the laws of New Hampshire. As that State was the domicile of the testatrix its law determines, in the first instance, her capacity to give by will to a particular purpose. As the statutes of New Hampshire positively forbade the testatrix to make so large a gift to a single church, it is, of course, void. The right to make such a statute and to enforce it belongs to New Hampshire alone.

"Moreover, if the bequest was not void for lack of power in the testatrix to make it, still it would be void by reason of the lack of power on the part of the legatee, a Massachusetts corporation, to take it. The Massachusetts statute is much more severe than that of New Hampshire. It expressly provides that 'the income of the gifts, grants, bequests, and devises made to or for the use of any one church shall not exceed $2,000 a year, exclusive of the income of any parsonage land, granted to or for the use of the ministry,' while that of New Hampshire permits a gift to any one church the income of which shall not exceed $5,000 a year.

Bequest Falls Under Laws.

"If it be true that the testatrix has defied the law of New Hampshire by attempting to give to a single church the income of a vast sum of money to be used for all time by it as 'residuary legatee for the purpose of more effectually promoting and extending the religion of Christian Science as taught by me,' what is the legal consequence of such a violation of positive law?

"There is no ambiguity; the gift is to a single church for a single purpose. That church is to maintain for all time a propaganda of a new and peculiar form of religious belief. There is no pretense that this endowment is for any charitable or artistic or educational purpose. Neither charity nor art, nor education have any place in the scheme whatever. The testatrix designed to create a vast and perpetual endowment for the purpose of 'promoting and extending the religion of Christian Science as taught by me.' It was just such perpetual endowment in the hands of a single church for the propagation of any form of religious belief that the statutes of New Hampshire and Massachusetts designed to make impossible.

"Therefore, the prohibitions of these statutes fix the stamp of nullity upon the residuary clause, (1) because the testatrix was forbidden expressly to make such gift; (2) because the legatee was forbidden expressly to receive such gift. The legal result inevitably is that the residuary clause of the will is null and void. As to the void gift the testatrix died intestate and its subject matter passed on her death to her next of kin under the New Hampshire statutes of distribution.

"There will be no claim made that the heirs at law of the testatrix ever saw her will, or a copy of it, prior to her death. Neither her heirs nor their representatives were informed as to its contents prior to that time. They had no right to assume that she would attempt to make a disposition of her property contrary to the express provisions of the statutes of New Hamshire and Massachusetts. If they had been so informed it would have been impossible for them to legalize any act upon her part by contract in any form of contract to make such a will as the law of the domicile forbids."

Mrs. Eddy Feared Her Sons.

The letter of Mr. Chandler requesting an opinion from Mr. Taylor on the question whether "the church can take the legacy under the New Hampshire law prohibiting such a bequest to a church of over $5,000 annually," is dated at Washington, Dec. 24, 1910, and says in part:

"Prior to the making by Mrs. Eddy of her will on Sept. 13, 1901, she had taken up the delusion that her son George had become possessed by evil spirit under the influence of what she called malicious animal magnetism, and had become hostile to her, and she had declared her intention to disinherit him, and she had also gone on to conceive the same delusion concerning her adopted son, Dr. Foster Eddy, and had kept them both out of her presence and away from the city of her residence, and had allowed to be expelled Dr. Foster Eddy from the Chris-

WIFE WIRES SIMS TO QUIT.

Naval Commander Reported to Have an Offer from a Steel Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—When Commander W. S. Sims, who was recently reprimanded by President Taft for his Guildhall (London) speech, arrives at Guantanamo with his ship, the Minnesota, which is with the Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, he will find awaiting him a telegram from his wife urging him to sever his connection with the naval service.

Mrs. Sims, who is the daughter of the late Ethan Allen Hitchcock, Ambassador to Russia under President McKinley and Secretary of the Interior for eight years under both McKinley and Roosevelt, is now living in St. Louis. Official and society life appeal to her very little, she having pronounced domestic tastes. Commander Sims, as a naval officer, must take a sea voyage every few years, and may be ordered to a tour on the Asiatic station not long after he is relieved of his present command. This prospect his wife is said to view with disfavor.

Commander Sims has been more or less a reformer, which characteristic commended him to President Roosevelt. As naval aid to Mr. Roosevelt, he was able to overturn many well-laid plans of his brother officers of the line, who are now having their own way with Secretary Meyer and President Taft, who confess that they have little knowledge of the navy, and are likely to know only what the small group of officers surrounding the Secretary tell them. It is considered safe conjecture that Commander Sims will not have met his only humiliation when the Secretary's riprimand is read to him on the quarterdeck of the Connecticut soon after the fleet reaches Guantanamo.

A few weeks ago, while the fleet was in European waters, one of the largest manufacturing steel corporations, which has large Government contracts and for years has employed the best consulting engineers, tendered Commander Sims this position in view of the retirement of the present incumbent early this year. It is said that the salary offered is nearly four times that which Mr. Sims now receives after thirty-four years' service in the navy. It is expected that he will reply to this offer shortly after the expiration of his present tour.

COMMITTEE UPHOLDS PEARY.

But Pressure Compels Amendment Modifying His Official Reward.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The sub-committee of the House Committee on Naval Affairs which considered the various propositions respecting the recognition and reward of Civil Engineer Peary as the discoverer of the north pole, will report favorably the Senate bill with an amendment.

The Senate bill, which was introduced by Senator Hale, Chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, was passed last Winter with rare promptness. It provided for the retirement of Mr. Peary as an Admiral of the Line. This honor the Secretary of the Navy and the President in conference approved as proper recognition of a remarkable exploit.

As soon, however, as the line of the navy was aware of this, opposition was prompt and decided. The House Naval Committee has now yielded and the Senate bill has been amended so that Peary will be retired with the rank and pay of an Admiral, but not actually as an Admiral of the Line.

The difference lies in the ancient and cherished distinction that while he may wear a prescribed uniform and have the same honors in ceremonies he cannot be regarded as an officer who has had command.

There were but four of the sub-committee present—Messrs. Butler, Bates, Dawson, and Englebright. Macon, Roberts, and Gregg absented themselves.

The controversy in regard to Peary's achievement will be aired on the floor of the House, unless in the congested condition of business all opportunity for this is lost.

LOST $1,000 AT BANK DOOR.

Poor Bootblack's Ignorance and Groundless Fears Cost Him Dear.

Louis Marcesso had been so worried by all the talk of banks closing that he and his wife discussed moving their life savings, $1,066 from a savings bank and keeping it at home till all danger was over. So Marcesso set out yesterday from his home at 2,897 Eighth Avenue, leaving some one else in charge of his bootblack stand in the barber shop on the ground floor, and went to the bank.

He got his money from the cashier, wrapped it in a handkerchief and hurried home where he gave the roll of bills to his wife. She took the money and counted it. Then she exclaimed, affrightedly:

"Why, Louis, there's only $66 here."

Louis grabbed the roll of bills. Sure enough the $1,000 was gone. It had been in one bill of that denomination. Panic stricken Marcesso hurried back to the bank. He recalled then that a piece of what he had thought was paper had fluttered out of his hands onto the floor of the bank and he had paid no attention to it.

But his $1,000 was not at the bank. None of the officers had seen it and Louis went home again, heart-broken. Last night he had been compelled to take to his bed for grief at the loss of the savings of a lifetime. Mrs. Marcesso was as disconsolate as her husband.

"What will my babies do if we don't get it back?" was Mrs. Marcesso's fear. The couple have four small children.

On the advice of friends they put an advertisement in the Lost and Found column of THE TIMES, offering a reward for the return of the bill.

"What reward will I pay?" said Marcesso last night, "Oh, almost anything that anyone wants. I will be liberal. I am sick now and I cannot work much longer anyway. If I lose my money, my wife and children may starve."

FIGHTS OFF A MAD DOG.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Jan. 12.—Benneville Hauser of Little Falls rode five miles in a wagon to this town to-day with a mad dog by his side, and for nearly the entire distance he fought to keep the animal from biting him. It was a large bull dog named Sport.

This morning the dog appeared to be ill, and Hauser, wishing to save its life, decided to bring it to the Montclair Veterinary Hospital. He put the dog in the seat beside him. Shortly after he left home the dog grew so hostile that Hauser seized it by the collar and kept it at a safe distance. The dog grew ferocious, and Hauser was compelled to hold the brute with both hands, guiding the horse by placing the reins around his neck.

Hauser was almost exhausted when he arrived here, as well as being badly scared by his experience, particularly when he was told that the animal was suffering from rabies. Attendants of the hospital slipped a leash over the dog's neck, and after Dr. James B. McDonough had made an examination he shot the dog.

HYDE IN SECLUSION ON HIS HOUSEBOAT?

THE MAN HURRIED BELOW

And Wife and Father-in-Law Deny Hyde Is There—New Theory That He's Avoiding Gardner Trial.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTONA, Fla., Jan. 12.—Charles H. Hyde is said here to be on the houseboat Stop-a-While, which belongs to his father-in-law, John Wiswell, and this afternoon was making slow progress toward this city through the canals from St. Augustine. The houseboat is stuck in the mud about twenty miles north of Daytona this afternoon, her crew endeavoring to release the vessel to hurry the trip down the canal.

Several New Yorkers who in a launch passed the houseboat in the canal this afternoon asserted positively afterward that they saw Mr. Hyde on deck with his wife and father-in-law, but that he immediately hurried below.

In reply to questions it was stated that Mr. Hyde was not on board, but left the boat at Beaufort, N. C. It is now believed Mr. Hyde took the inland route by rail from Beaufort and boarded the houseboat at Jacksonville. THE TIMES correspondent was informed, however, that he had left the boat again immediately after boarding it there.

The correspondent was told that nobody on the boat knows the present whereabouts of Mr. Hyde, although when the boat spokesman was told that the reporter had a message for Mr. Hyde, anxious inquiry was made as to where the message came from. It was stated that the destination of the boat is Palm Beach.

Mr. Wiswell, Mrs. Hyde, and one or two other men and three or four women are now on board the boat. Unless more trouble with shallow water is experienced the boat should reach here to-morrow.

Talk of Hyde as Ill.

On the forty-fourth day of the absence from the city of its Chamberlain, Charles H. Hyde, there was still no information forthcoming yesterday concerning his whereabouts. Mr. Hyde's friends, who at first took his sudden disappearance from the jurisdiction of the legislative Graft Investigating Committee rather as a joke, are now beginning to feel apprehensive about him.

Since he has been gone Mr. Hyde has not communicated with either his friends or the members of his office staff, so far as can be learned. His private secretary, John V. Smith, and Deputy Chamberlain Henry J. Walsh have insisted all along that they have not only not heard from Mr. Hyde, but that they haven't the slightest idea where he is. Mayor Gaynor, who is a close personal friend of the missing Chamberlain, besides being his former law partner, was quoted yesterday as having said that he knew that Mr. Hyde was ill and was soon to undergo an operation for the removal of gall stones; also that he was threatened with Bright's disease, and might probably never return to the city.

The Mayor is said to have spoken feelingly about his absent friend and subordinate and to have declared that Mr. Hyde's condition is so serious that he may not recover. If he does, the Mayor declared that Mr. Hyde will remain down South until he has regained his health, even though it takes months.

Along with these statements regarding Mr. Hyde the Mayor is averred to have said that he himself intended to take a trip South within a short time, and if he did it would be with the intention of meeting Mr. Hyde there. One report yesterday was that the Mayor intended to meet Mr. Hyde and accept his resignation as City Chamberlain, so that the latter would be under no necessity of returning to New York until he felt inclined to do so.

When asked about these statements yesterday Mayor Gaynor refused absolutely to discuss them. He said that the reporters who asked him knew as much about Mr. Hyde's condition as he did, and therefore it was not necessary to discuss it. He also declined to discuss the rumor that he was soon to take a vacation. Assuming that Mr. Hyde is really ill, it was pointed out that his condition could not be very grave or his wife would visit him. Mrs. Hyde and her children left their home at Roslyn, L. I., last Monday, and are now in St. Augustine, Fla. Her husband has not joined her, although his houseboat, the Stop-a-While, arrived there last night, and Mr. Hyde himself had reserved rooms at the Hotel Ponce de Leon, St. Augustine, some time ago, with the intention of meeting Mrs. Hyde there.

A number of Mr. Hyde's friends here declared yesterday that the City Chamberlain had long suffered from gall stones, and that he had been very ill from this complaint several times. It was to recover from one of these attacks that he went to Europe last Summer, it was declared. If he is so ill, however, these friends argue that there is no apparent reason why Mr. Hyde should not reveal the true state of affairs, particularly to his close friends and business associates.

Surety Companies Not Alarmed.

There was a rumor yesterday that the surety companies which went on Mr. Hyde's bond as City Chamberlain were beginning to worry because of his long absence. He is bonded for $300,000, and the amount is divided as follows: People's Surety Company of New York, $50,000; the National Surety Company, $100,000; the Title Guaranty and Surety Company, $100,000, and the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, $50,000. The People's Surety Company took the entire bond in the first place, but as the amount in which a company is allowed to insure an official is limited by law, the bond was divided with the other companies. William J. Griffin, Vice President of the National Surety Company, said yesterday that he was not worried about Mr. Hyde's absence.

"I have known Mr. Hyde intimately for a number of years," said Mr. Griffin, "and my opinion is that he will return before long. We are not at all alarmed over the report that Mr. Hyde intends to forfeit his bond, and the other companies are not worrying about it either, so far as I know. If Mr. Hyde is sick, as Mayor Gaynor is said to have stated, I think he is in a hospital somewhere.

GIULIA MOROSINI WEDS EX-POLICEMAN

MARRIED IN SOMERVILLE, N. J.

The Bridegroom, Whom His Former Wife Had Divorced, Had Been Superintendent of the Morosini Estate.

Miss Giulia P. Morosini, daughter of the late Giovanni P. Morosini, was married yesterday in Somerville, N. J., to Arthur Maurice Werner, the former policeman who for several years has been Superintendent of the Morisini place in Kingsbridge. Mr. Werner met his bride five years ago when, while a member of the Mounted Squad in the Police Department, he stopped a runaway horse she was driving in the Speedway. He was then married, but a year or two later his wife divorced him.

There were two ceremonies in the marriage of Miss Morosini yesterday, the first, a civil ceremony, being performed by W. R. Sutphen of Somerville, and the religious ceremony by the Rev. Nathaniel Brooks of 38 West Forty-fourth Street, Bayonne, N. J.

Yesterday was the birthday of both Mr. Werner and of Miss Morosini, and for some days they had determined to be married on that day. Arrangements were made with Mr. Sutphen over the telephone several days ago to perform the civil ceremony, and Dr. Brooks likewise was informed of the service that would be required of him.

Then yesterday Mr. Werner and Miss Morosini invited Mrs. Joseph Benedick, a sister of Mr. Werner, and Giovanni P. Morosini, Miss Morosini's brother, to accompany them on an automobile ride.

Since before the death of Mr. Morosini, Mr. Werner has managed the Morosini estate at Riverdale. The post was given to him by the late banker in appreciation of his having saved the life of the woman who became his wife yesterday. To give Werner this token of appreciation Mr. Morosini and his daughter had to visit the Kingsbridge Police Station, where Miss Morosini picked Werner out of a group of mounted policemen. After saving her he had gone away without giving her his name.

The acquaintance formed in this way became closer as Mr. Werner's duties necessitated his constant attendance at the Morosini home, so the relatives of the couple were not surprised at yesterday's invitation but accepted without suspecting the purpose of the ride.

It was not until the automobile reached Somerville that the purpose of the trip was divulged. Then there were congratulations on all sides, and Mrs. Benedick and Mr. Morosini acted as witness as well as best man and bridesmaid.

It has been Miss Morosini's custom for several years to have a few intimate friends help celebrate her birthdays at her home, and last night the usual friends were invited. They found the house decked with flowers, but none had the least suspicion of the wedding until Mr. Werner introduced the hostess as his wife.

SLEEPERS TRAPPED BY FIRE.

Midnight Rescue of a Dozen Families in a Tenement Blaze.

While sixteen families were asleep last night in the six-story tenement at 562 Seventh Avenue, a fire started on the third floor and within five minutes had eaten its way to the roof by way of the halls and stairways. The tenants aroused by the road of the flames opened their doors to encounter a mass of fire which drove them, screaming, to the fire escapes.

Ladders were raised by Engine 24, the first on the scene, and by other companies which responded to a second alarm, and all the tenants were taken out in safety, but presently the parents of thirteen-year-old Teresa Glimbizzi could not find their daughter and word was passed around that the child had been left in the building.

Firemen risked their lives seeking through the blazing rooms, but the child could not be found. Her parents were frantic with grief, when, suddenly, the little girl turned up. She had been saved with the others, though none had noticed her in the excitement.

For an hour the firemen worked at the blaze before they had it under control, although by that time the flames had destroyed the top three floors and had eaten through the roof of the building. Next door is the plant of the Standard Engraving Company, where many chemicals are stored. Part of the work of the firemen was to keep the flames from getting a hold on this building.

CANADIAN ENVOYS' MISTAKE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Representative Mann's recent introduction "by request" of 15 free trade bills in the House has brought on an amusing situation in the pending reciprocity negotiations between the United States and Canada.

To an American the mere fact that Mr. Mann consented to oblige a constituent by introducing bills placing nearly every important food product on the free list is proof positive that the Speaker's right hand man on the floor is confident that the bills will end their days in a pigeon hole of the Ways and Means Committee. But the Canadian emissaries seem to have taken them seriously as a straw indicating the direction of the political wind. At any rate, they seem to feel that if free trade is to be the policy of both parties—as the Mann bills, seriously regarded, might lead them to suppose—they need offer no concessions in order to get a free market in this country for what Canadian products they may wish to send.

The result is that, to the annoyance of tariff reformers here, the Canadian Ministers for the moment seem inclined to make great demands for American concessions and at the same time to offer little in the way of a lower tariff on shipments from the United States.

BIG AUDIENCE CHEERS ATTACKS ON GAYNOR

CROWD PACKS COOPER UNION

Mitchel Joins Prendergast in Criticism—Board of Estimate Let Subways Go Unnoticed Yesterday.

Before an audience which packed Cooper Union to the doors, Controller Prendergast and President Mitchel of the Aldermen began last night with personal and pointed attacks on Mayor Gaynor their public campaign for the construction by the city of an independent subway system. The attacks on the Mayor were cheered to the echo by the crowd brought together by the People's Institute. The Controller and President Mitchel were assisted in their discussion by Timothy Healy, President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Engineers, who declared that the labor men of the city were emphatically in favor of more subways and against monopoly, which they believed would only perpetuate the present congestion of traffic.

The meeting was uproarious throughout, with frequent interruptions of the speakers by sympathizers in the audience, and the name of the missing City Chamberlain, Charles H. Hyde, was bandied back and forth, while the big crowd shouted its approval. The session reached its climax in point of enthusiasm during the speech of Controller Prendergast, who began by repeating a question asked by President Mitchel of the Aldermen, why the Interborough Rapid Transit Company should receive a 999-year lease on their third tracking of the elevated roads.

"I know of no reason," commented the Controller, "unless it was because at the end of that time the City Chamberlain may be back attending to his duties.

Speaks of Broken Pledges.

"I don't ask any credit for keeping my pledges," the Controller went on, "but there are some gentlemen who seem to think they are entitled to credit for breaking their pledges to the people. A new mechanical device has recently been invented. I shall call it a handy reversible pledge. I wonder who invented it."

"Who? Who?" came from all over the hall.

"I mention his name with hesitancy," the Controller replied, "but I have an idea that he is one who sits constantly by the shrine of Epictetus. Now, the city belongs to the people, not to a small portion of them, and this transit question should be decided as the people desire, and not in a way to satisfy a few of them. We everyday members of the Board of Estimate are daily informed that when committees of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association favor the Interborough proposition, that really settles the question."

"But I want to say," continued the Controller, "that Mr. Mitchel was elected President of the Aldermen and I Controller, and we are going to vote as we think right, and there isn't any interest in the city big enough or powerful enough to make us do otherwise.

"We are told that effective public control of a subway monopoly can be secured through the regulations of the Public Service Commission. About a week ago, in addressing a delegation said to be composed of the representatives of labor, the Mayor made this statement: 'There is no order standing to-day that has not been obeyed by the existing company. I have no personal knowledge of that, but I am told so by the Public Service Commission.' I have no doubt that he had no personal knowledge, for when we prodded him for the facts he put it on the Public Service Commission. That's the way my distinguished colleague gets out from under.

Compares Gaynor's Statements.

"But this remarkable statement was made almost simultaneously with the announcement that the Interborough Company did not intend to obey the order in case No. 1,211, and less than a week before Mr. Gaynor's statement was made, the commission served the company with papers in a penalty suit based on this refusal. That suit is now pending, and this is the innocent and law-abiding corporation to which our friend, the Mayor, wants to hand over the transit system for the next fifty years.

"In his now famous article in Pearson's Magazine in May, 1909, the Mayor, then expecting to be a candidate for office, said, referring to subways: 'For my part I think it will be for the best interests of the community for the city to build them all on a uniform and comprehensive plan. It would only mean the expenditure of $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 a year to do it at the present time. That is about all that could be spent in a year with due diligence, and in eight or ten years the work would be fairly complete.'

"Now, I am going to speak plainly. Either the Mayor did not know what he was talking about then or he does not know now, when he says that an independent, city-built system would cost from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000. This distinguished jurist came before the people in 1909 and said he had been studying municipal problems for fifteen years and had made himself a master of the situation and knew all about it. If he knew all about it then he has learned something since, but while adding to his own knowledge he has not added to our enlightenment.

Down to Practical Things.

"Now, one of our best papers, which publishes only the 'news that is fit to print,' says that we are idealists, and we harangue the people and talk principles and not practical things. Let us now talk a few practical things. The city has on hand at the present time $57,000,000 of borrowng capacity available for subways, and we will shortly add enough more to raise the total available subway credit to over $60,000,000. It is estimated that there will be an addition during the next five years of $192,000,000, assuming that at least $9,000,000 of the $89,000,000 recent increase will be canceled.

"By applying to our present subway borrowing capacity $12,000,000 of our increased power each year for the next five years (which would leave us available for general purposes an average annual outlay of $26,400,000) we would have, in addition to the amount now available for subways $60,000,000 additional, or a total of $120,000,000 for subway building. The Public Service Commission estimated the cost of the triborough route, planned on a most expensive scale, at $147,000,000. I am reliably informed and believe that for approximately $100,000,000 to $120,000,000 such a subway can be built, and I leave you to judge of the city's ability to build it."

At this point there was handed to Mr. Prendergast a card which had been circulated in the audience, which read: "A Traction Confidence Game. Watch closely the actions of Prendergast, Mitchel, and Hearst."

"I don't object to being associated with

PEKING, Jan. 12.—Bubonic plague in Manchuria is spreading rapidly.

Reports received here state that hundreds of persons are dying every day and that the number of fatalities is increasing. A French plague expert has succumbed to the disease.

The Chinese Government has appealed to the foreign community for assistance in combating the epidemic, and four missionary doctors, one an American and the others British, have volunteered their services.

It is planned to quarantine the railways and the Great Wall in the hope of arresting the spread of the scourge southward.

DETECTIVES MEET A LINER.

They Were Looking for a Passenger Said to be a $60,000 Embezzler.

Private detectives went down the bay last night to meet the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm, and it was learned that they were looking for a second-class passenger named Willi Fecht.

He is believed to be wanted in Germany for embezzling $60,000 and to be so eagerly sought that a reward of $5,000 has been offered for his apprehension. He was traveling in company with a Miss Kathe Maringer, but Marshal Henkel said last night that no extradition warrant had yet been sworn out against him, which would be necessary before his arrest on a criminal charge.

The immigration authorities, however, detained the pair. Fecht expressed his willingness to marry Miss Maringer at once, but they were taken to Ellis Island, where they will be examined to-day. It is expected that they will be detained there long enough for the necessary legal steps to be taken on the criminal charge.

AUTO PARTY IN A SMASH-UP.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 12.—Coming across the Meadow Boulevard this afternoon at the rate of thirty miles an hour, a touring car containing a party of two women and three men bound from New York to this city crashed into a telephone pole near the Albany Avenue bridge, catapulting one of the men seated in front through the plate-glass front of the car.

Although badly shaken up and cut and bruised, the two women in the car hurried to the assistance of their companion, who lay in the roadway. They bandaged up his wounds as best they could with strips torn from their clothing, and the injured man and the other members of the party were brought into the city by another automobile. They are said to have registered at a beach front hotel, but secrecy is being observed as to their whereabouts.

CAUGHT FEVER AT DANCE.

Several Young People Who Attended a Party Stricken.

Several young men and girls, prominent in society on the west side, are ill of scarlet fever, as a result of attending a Christmas dance in a house where there was a case of the disease. Among those who have fallen ill since the dance is Evelyn Mulqueen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Mulqueen of 43 West Eighty-fifth Street, and niece of Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions.

Miss Mulqueen, who is 17 years old, is at her parents' home, although she was to have returned to Vassar on Jan. 5. It was said at the Mulqueen home last night that Miss Mulqueen's condition was favorable.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mulqueen are indignant over the way in which their daughter acquired the disease. They decline, however, to reveal the name of the hostess who entertained fifty or sixty young people while a scarlet fever patient lay ill in the house.

"The dance at which I believe Evelyn contracted her illness," said Mrs. Mulqueen last night, "was held on Dec. 27, just four days before I gave a dance here for my daughter. It was not until after our own dance that the illness developed and then we learned for the first time that there had been a case of scarlet fever in the very room next to that in which the girls left their wraps at the December dance. No mention was made of this at the time, of course, so that many young girls were submitted to the possibility of contagion."

Mrs. Mulqueen said that she knew of several other cases which had followed the attendance of young people at the first dance, but she declined to give the names of the victims. Some of them, however, she said, had been taken to the Minturn Hospital because their families lived in hotels or apartment houses.

NATIONAL LEADERS TO MOVE IN ALBANY

Dix Still Refuses to Take Any Open Position on Senate Contest and Murphy Men Remain Confident.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—With the contest for the seat of Chauncey M. Depew in the United States Senate engrossing the attention of Democrats in every section of the State, word reached the Capital to-night that the result has become a matter of vital interest and importance with men high in the councils of the Democratic Party in other States as well. The information received here on the subject makes it clear that several Democratic members of the United States Senate have made the Senatorial contest in this State the subject of conferences during the last twenty-four hours, and that a Senator from a Southern State has been selected to assume the leadership in a movement to prevent the election of William F. Sheehan as a step that would seriously endanger the Democratic chances of a National victory in 1912.

As yet, so far as could be learned to-night, no representations on the subject have been made either to Gov. Dix, who beyond the borders of the State of New York is looked upon by Democrats of prominence as the real leader of their party in this State, or to Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, who so firmly controls the State organization that his word seems to be law to every Democrat looking for political preferment.

Shepard Men Take Heart.

According to the friends of William F. Sheehan and Mr. Murphy, the situation affecting the Senatorship has undergone no change since last night, when the election of Mr. Sheehan as the successor of Chauncey M. Depew was accepted as a foregone conclusion by a majority of the Democratic politicians and members of the Legislature at the Capitol. The friends of Edward M. Shepard, on the other hand, declare to-night that the prospects of their candidate have not been so good at any time in the last two weeks as they are at the present moment.

What the foundation for this restored feeling of confidence is Thomas Mott Osborne, head of the Shepard movement, would not say. Mr. Osborne was in conference with Gov. Dix for some time to-day. The Governor afterward stated that they had not discussed the Senatorship. But Mr. Osborne seemed to be in a very happy frame of mind as he left the executive chamber. Mr. Murphy also had a talk with Gov. Dix, in which again the Senatorial situation was ignored, according to the Governor, who declared that he had discussed civil service and prison reforms with Tamany Leader Murphy and Daniel F. Cohalan, and had found them in happy accord with his views on these subjects.

If one is to place reliance in the statements emanating from the Murphy camp, the friends of the Tammany leader and of Mr. Sheehan feel confident that under no circumstances will the Governor come out with a public indorsement of Mr. Shepard or any other candidate for the United States Senate. But they are not by any means so certain that the Governor will not at the opportune time publicly declare against the election of Mr. Sheehan as a menace to future party success.

Murphy to Stay in Albany.

Mr. Murphy has made it known that he intends to remain here and watch the Senatorial situation with a supervisory eye until everything has been settled.

Meantime it became known to-night that the presence of Mr. Murphy here and the open display he makes of his power, as well as the frequent visits to the executive chamber by the Tammany leader or his emissaries, have become exceedingly distasteful to some persons very close to Governor Dix. No one would express any surprise if before long Mr. Murphy received a quiet tip that if from now on he would give the Capitol the absent treatment, it would be greatly appreciated in certain high quarters.

Somehow it is felt by those interested in the Senatorship at the Capitol to-night that something is going to drop in the next twenty-four hours. While Governor Dix reiterated to-day that he cannot conceive of anything possible to change his attitude of non-interference, many friends of Mr. Shepard feel that the Governor in his individual capacity is dealing with the situation in his own way. They feel that what quiet influence the Governor may feel justified in exercising will be in favor of Mr. Shepard.

Charge Influence Behind Murphy.

Late to-night after Thomas M. Osborne and William Church Osborn had talked at length with the Governor the following statement was made public at Shepard headquarters in the Ten Eyck:

> The Shepard Committee does not consider it necessary to issue any extended statement at this time. The attempt to eliminate Mr. Shepard as a Senatorial candidate has utterly failed. Its sponsors calculated upon weakening the strong support for Mr. Shepard which the Senators and Assemblymen are bringing to Albany from their home districts, making a misleading demonstration of opposition to Mr. Shepard.
> We are in a position to state positively that the position taken by Mr. Murphy was not enforced upon him by his district leaders. The real interests which forced Mr. Murphy to make his statement, as we believe against his better judgment, have not been disclosed. The effort to draw the legislators away from the expressed views of their constituents in the country districts is plainly seen. The committee assignments are being held up and the hopes of patronage are being used to set aside, if possible, the immense impression made by the popular movement for Mr. Shepard. Man after man has told us that he does not know how he can face his district if he votes against Mr. Shepard.
>
> The experienced men here recognize that the powers of the State are not in the hands of the leaders of any county organization, and while the members of the Legislature do not express their opinion plainly in public, they are refusing to commit themselves, and they are not in a mood to be "delivered" in caucus or on the balloting. It is generally recognized that the demand for Mr. Shepard's election has arisen spontaneously from all parts of the State, from those who are anxious for continued Democratic growth and development. The Assemblymen who must face their constituents next Fall will not throw away their chances of re-election by taking sides against public opinion.
>
> The committee reiterates its continued and unqualified belief in the election of Mr. Shepard as United States Senator.

Osborne Says Shepard Will Win.

Early in the evening Mr. Osborne, in an interview, said:

"I saw Gov. Dix this afternoon and talked with him regarding the Senate contest. I stand in a peculiarly confidential relationship to the Governor, which renders it impossible for me to speak as frankly as I have been doing on this matter."

"Do you believe Mr. Shepard will be elected United States Senator?" Mr. Osborne was asked.

"I do," he replied.

"Oh, I can well conceive of circumstances under which the place would go to Mr. Sheehan, but we expect Mr. Shepard to win. I think all his friends regard the situation as entirely satisfactory to-night."

Mr. Osborne was asked if he had seen Murphy.

"Yes, I saw him just for a minute in the lobby, but I did not make any reference to the Senatorial contest in my talk with him. In view of his statement last night I do not see where there is any common ground on which we could meet."

At the interview Gov. Dix granted the newspaper correspondents to-day the Senatorial contest was the salient feature. The first interview immediately followed an hour's conference between the Governor, Mr. Murphy, and Daniel F. Cohalan.

"The Senatorship was not mentioned during Mr. Murphy's call" the Governor said. "We talked over conditions in the State prisons and civil service matters."

"Your attitude on the Senatorship is the same now as it has been?"

"Absolutely. As an official I don't propose to make any public statement. I expect to see Mr. Murphy later in the day."

"Will you speak to him about the Senatorship?"

"I expect to do so some time before he leaves Albany."

"Will you say what your position will be in your talk to him?"

"That is hardly a fair question. I want to know the situation in New York City."

Other callers at the Executive Chamber to-day included Chairman Huppuch of the Democratic State Committee, Frank Patterson and Montgomery Hare.

"The only one who spoke of the Senatorial situation was Mr. Hare," Gov. Dix said. "As to my attitude on the Senatorship I told him just what I have said to you."

Dix Not at One With Wilson.

At an interview given this evening Gov. Dix was asked if he had seen Mr. Murphy again. The Governor said he had been too busy to see him.

"I wish to make it plain," said the Governor, "that I stand ready to discuss the question with anybody, political leader or individual, but I cannot conceive of any situation that would change my attitude of non-interference."

"It has been suggested that you are the real leader of the Democratic Party in this State by virtue of your position and that you should take a stand on this question just as Dr. Woodrow Wilson in New Jersey has done," some one told the Governor.

"I do not wholly agree with Dr. Wilson," the Governor replied. "Nor do I think the situation here is identical with the situation in Dr. Wlson's State. I think this situation is wholly up to the Legislature and the Legislature is perfectly competent to deal with it. The legislators will have to answer to their constituents for anything they do. The responsibility rests with them."

The Governor's view that the Democratic majority in the Legislature will have much to say as to who shall be the next United States Senator from this State has caused some quiet amusement among those familiar with the real situation. The fact is that of the Democratic legislators who have been flocking about the headquarters of Tammany Leader Murphy at the Hotel Ten Eyck, those who venture to express an opinion with reference to the Senatorship are exceptions. One need only talk with them to be convinced that as far as the Senatorship is concerned, at least, they will be the merest automata—the rubber stamps for the Tammany boss.

In both branches of the Legislature to-night resolutions were adopted providing for the election in each house of a United States Senator at the session on Tuesday of next week, and for the final election by joint ballot at noon on Wednesday. The joint caucus will be held on Monday night.

POOR WOMAN'S PURSE STOLEN

Thieves Set Upon Mrs. Ebstein, 75 Years Old, Who Peddles for a Living.

Mrs. Fannie Ebstein, 75 years old, was tired when she left the home of a customer at 143d Street and Lenox Avenue, where she had collected $6.05 for a month's supply of coffee, at 11 o'clock last night, but since her 80-year-old husband, Leonard, had been unable to work at his trade as a tailor, and she has had to support him and herself by peddling coffee and tea to a small group of customers, money has been scarce, so the aged woman determined to walk twenty-eight blocks to her home at 17 East 115th Street. Under arm she carried a jug of vinegar she had purchased and in her hand was her purse in which was the $6.05, all the money she had.

At 141st Street three youths came along, and as they passed her they joggled her arm. Mrs. Ebstein let the jug of vinegar fall, as well as a package of coffee she was carrying, and then she felt a tug at her hand and realized, as the three young men darted away in opposite directions, that they had taken her purse.

Mrs. Ebstein cried out for help, but the street was deserted, and she started after one of the youths, who had turned east into 140th Street, as fast as she could go. The young man was half way down the block to Fifth Avenue when Mrs. Ebstein reached the corner, but, just as she had abandoned hope of catching him, Policeman Johansen of the East 126th Street Station, turned into the street from Fifth Avenue, saw the fugitive and grabbed him.

With the young man by the collar the policeman went to an areaway into which he had seen his prisoner toss something, and found there the purse with the $6.05 still in it. With Mrs. Ebstein, who had come up, Johansen took his prisoner to the station, where he said he was Philip Hoffman, 21 years old, and lived in a lodging house at 136th Street and Third Avenue. He was charged with larceny after Mrs. Ebstein had identified him as the one who stole her purse. The two other young men escaped.

As her purse and the money had to be kept in the station house as evidence, Mrs. Ebstein could not have ridden home had she wished, but Johansen was detailed by Lieut. Kelleher to escort her home, and the policeman put her on a trolley car and rode to 115th Street with her. Mrs. Ebstein said she wouldn't fail to be in the Harlem Court to-day to prosecute Hoffman.

SHAW OUT OF WATER BOARD.

Early Resignation of Commissioner Chadwick Is Also Looked For.

Charles A. Shaw, of Brooklyn, who has been a member of the Board of Water Supply since it was created by the Legislature in 1905, to build the great Catskill water system, resigned yesterday under pressure from Mayor Gaynor, it was said, and there are indications that the remaining member of the Board, Charles N. Chadwick, also of Brooklyn, will also be forced out. Mr. Chadwick was appointed with Mr. Shaw.

"Yes, I am out, and I am glad it's all over," said Mr. Shaw at his home last night. "I am sick and tired of the whole business. I have worked early and late and done my work conscientiously only to be faced with false acusations and trouble."

The Mayor had no comment to make. He said he had not made up his mind about the selection of the two new Commissioners.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick started an investigation of the affairs of the board some time ago. He would not talk of the work of his men so far yesterday, and said that no details would be made public until he filed his report with the Mayor.

The Commissionerships each pay $12,000 a year, and have enormous patronage.

ALDRICH IS ILL IN BED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator Aldrich is to-day reported quite ill at his home here.

He has not been in the Senate since the holidays, and while first it was announced that he was suffering from a slight attack of tonsilitis, it is now said that he is abed and does not receive even his secretary.

To Discuss Child Welfare.

Homer Folks will speak about the child welfare movement next Saturday night before the Acorn Civic Forum in the building of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Lexington Avenue and Ninety-second Street. Besides his address there will be a musical programme. The public is invited to attend. The Acorn Civic Forum is made up of the young men of the Young Men's Hebrew Association who are interested in civic work.

LEGISLATORS DODGE CHOICE FOR SENATOR

SULLIVANS OUT FOR SHEEHAN

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—Few Democratic Senators and Assemblymen from the political bailiwick of Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy venture to commit themselves on the Senatorship, or even to admit that they have leanings toward any of the candidates now in the running for the seat of Senator Chauncey M. Depew in the United States Senate.

Although the caucus where the question is to be settled is only two days off, nearly every legislator from New York who was asked by representatives of THE NEW YORK TIMES who he intended to support for United States Senator, or to state at least whom he personally preferred, declared that he "had not made up his mind," that "he would vote with the organization," that "he would wait until the real candidate is known," or other equally non-committal, ambiguous or evasive replies.

One legislator, however, was more frank, saying:

"You know as well as I do who gives orders. I am waiting for word from Murphy and so are all the rest. He is the boss all right."

The two Sullivans, "Big" Tim and "Chrystie," came out openly for William F. Sheehan.

Another legislator ventured to say that he had received many requests from constituents to vote for Mr. Shepard, but took the precaution of adding that he would "vote with the organization."

Parker, Cram, Cohalan, Herrick, and Gerard each had stray advocates among the members polled, but the vast majority were mum.

Wagner Non-Committal.

Robert F. Wagner, president pro tem. of the Senate, was asked by a correspondent for THE TIMES:

"Who is your choice for United States Senator from New York?"

"I won't make any statement at this time," Senator Wagner replied.

"But surely you have some preference."

"Yes, but I do not care to state my choice until after I have conferred with my colleagues."

The same questions were asked Assemblyman Alfred E. Smith of the second New York District, majority leader of the Assembly.

"I sent a long telegram to THE TIMES some time ago," said Mr. Smith. "In that telegram I said that my mind was open. That is my attitude to-day. I am willing to wait for the caucus before I make up my mind how to vote."

Senator Dennis J. Harte, Second District, (Queens,) said he had no personal preference among the candidates mentioned for the place, and that he would vote with the organization.

Senator James H. O'Brien of the Tenth District declared: "I will be guided by the majority of our party."

"Have you any personal choice?" he was asked.

"I have ideas about the qualifications for the United States Senate, but I do not care to say at this time who I particularly favor. I shall vote for a Democrat, however."

The Sullivans for Sheehan.

Senator Christopher D. Sullivan of the Eleventh District said he had not made up his mind as to the Senatorship until to-night.

"I have decided to vote for William F. Sheehan in the caucus," he said in reply to a question as to his choice.

Senator Tim D. Sullivan, Twelfth Senatorial District, was asked whom he would support for Senator in the caucus.

"William F. Sheehan, in all probability," was his reply.

"He is your choice for the Senatorship?"

"Well, I shall support Mr. Sheehan; that's all I care to say."

Senator James D. McClelland of the Thirteenth District said: "I am a new member and do not care to force my views on my party. I shall probably accept the judgment of the majority in the caucus."

"Have you a personal choice?"

"I should like to see Judge Parker elected Senator," was the reply.

Senator Thomas F. Grady, who was deposed as the leader of the Democratic Senators when they took control of the Senate this year, was asked whom he would vote for in the caucus for Senator.

"That is a very serious question," he said. "I shall have to give it careful study."

The Assembly Poll.

Assemblyman Moritz Graubard, Eighth District, New York, was asked whom he would support in the caucus for United States Senator.

"I don't know," said Mr. Graubard. "I will abide by anything the caucus does."

John C. Hackett, Ninth District, New said: "I don't know who is the candidate. I will wait and see."

Assemblyman James A. Foley of the Twelfth New York District, where Tammany Leader Murphy lives, was among the few whose answer was not altogether non-committal. Mr. Foley declared that he favored either William F. Sheehan of Justice James W. Gerard.

"Of the two men whom would you prefer to see selected" Mr. Foley was asked.

Assemblyman James J. Hoey of the Thirteenth New York District said: "My personal choice for United States Senator to succeed Depew is Supreme Court Justice Gerard of New York City, and I shall vote for him in the caucus. Whether I or some other Assemblyman from New York City shall present his name to the caucus has not yet been decided upon. There is a great deal of sentiment in New York City among business men, lawyers, merchants, and other professional men in favor of sending Judge Gerard to the United States Senate. I shall do everything that I possibly can to bring about Judge Gerard's nomination, and I know of other influential men in the Legislature who are doing all that they can and will continue to do for the selection of Judge Gerard. While my personal choice for the Senatorship is known, at the same time I shall abide by the decision of the caucus."

Ashton Parker For Cram.

Ashton Parker of the Fifteenth New York District said: "My district indorsed Cram and instructed me to vote for him. Therefore, my choice is Cram."

"After Cram, who do you favor?"

"I had a personal leaning to Judge Gerard, but I am for the organization candidate and will be bound by the Democratic caucus."

Martin G. McCue of the Sixteenth New York District: "My choice is the choice of the Tammany Hall caucus. My hope is that he will be a good Tammany Hall organization man. I believe in organization to the fullest extent. I have received many letters from residents of my district, many of whom I do not know, asking me to support Shepard. But the sentiment of my district, Cram out of the way, is for Sheehan."

Thomas A. Brennan of the Twenty-fourth New York District: "I am for Daniel F. Cohalan. Why? Because he is my personal friend, and therefore my personal choice. After him, I am for the organization's choice."

Walter R. Herrick of the Twenty-seventh New York District: "My choice for United States Senator is Judge D Cady Herrick, who is my half brother."

Harold J. Friedman of the Twenty-ninth New York District said: "I am unqualifiedly for Edward M. Shepard. The sentiment of my district is unmistakably for Shepard and against Sheehan."

Louis A. Cuvillier of the Thirtieth district: "Have not decided whom to support for United States Senator. I will go into the caucus prepared to abide by what ever action it takes. I have no preference and am willing to let the caucus decide."

Thomas F. Turley of the Thirty-second New York district: "I have no choice."

John Gerhardt, Thirty-third District; "To tell the truth, I haven't given the matter thought. To be perfectly plain, I don't like either Shepard or Sheehan. I may spring an entirely new name, some outsider, in the caucus. I can do that, I guess."

Assemblyman Seymour Mork of the Thirty-fourth New York had this to say: "I have no personal preference for United States Senator. I want to wait until the names of all the candidates are announced. I want to be fair to all, not to prejudge any one, or limit myself to favoring any one candidate until all are carefully considered."

Thomas F. Egan of the Thirty-fifth New York District said: "I have no personal choice. I am going to wait for the announcement of all the candidates before making up my mind."

Where Queens Men Stand.

Andrew Zorn, First District, Queens, was asked:

"Who is your candidate for United States Senator from New York?"

"I am not in a position to say," was the reply.

"Have you no personal preference?"

"Owen E. Fitzpatrick, Third District, Queens:

"I have not made up my mind. I cannot commit myself."

"Of all the candidates in the field you have not picked out any whom you would prefer to see elected?"

"Well, so much literature has been sent out about this matter that it has become quite confusing. I want time to study the personal character and qualifications of the various candidates before I make up my mind."

A great number of the Democratic Assemblymen from New York City failed to appear at the session to-night when it was known that no important business would be transacted.

BIG AUDIENCE CHEERS ATTACKS ON GAYNOR

Mr. Hearst," declared the Controller. "Mr. Hearst elected the reform ticket in 1909, and I want to say of him that during all his newspaper career I have never known him to stand for a steal."

There was prolonged applause and cheering at this point. The Controller pointed out in answer to other newspaper comment that the recent increases in realty valuations, which have been laid at his door as made "in order to defeat a good subway plan and take up a bad one," were made by Tax Commissioners appointed by the Mayor, acting under the Mayor's express instructions, and who have received the Mayor's public thanks.

Takes Up the Mayor's Report.

The Controller next referred to the Mayor's minority report to the Estimate Board on subways, in which the report of the majority was quoted as saying that the credit of the city should not be "loaned" to any existing company for extensions. "This can only mislead those who don't know the law of the case," said the Mayor's report. "The city is not permitted to loan its money or its credit to any company."

Against this the Controller quoted again from the Mayor's article in Pearson's Magazine, in which these lines were found:

> In other words, the city, in effect, loaned its funds to the company at not to exceed 4½ per cent. interest to build the tunnel, the company to have the tunnel when built for seventy-five years, and after that the city to have it back instead of the principal of the loan being paid back to it.

"Let us be very particular when we refer to what Mr. Gaynor says, as he desires to have no misleading statements made and that our people should all have a clear understanding of the different phases of this great question," the Controller continued. "If we don't have a comma in the right place, we will be guilty of forgery. I wonder what a Mayor is guilty of who doesn't keep his City Chamberlain in the right place, and what would be done if it were only a poor sweeper or a policeman. Would not all the thunders of civic righteousness be turned loose upon him—but we must speak gently of poor Charlie.

"But let us consider some more of the Mayor's accuracy. In speaking of the Manhattan-Brooklyn subway the Mayor said in his minority report to the Board of Estimate: 'The city put in only $2,000,000, the company putting in the balance.' For the purposes of accuracy, if nothing else, I might say that the actual cash expended by the city on the Brooklyn extension to Dec. 31, 1910, was $4,166,059, that there are claims amounting to $5,500,000 more and prospective claims of $1,500,000.

Audience With the Speakers.

"This fight is worth the making," declared the Controller, finally. "It is time that we found out who is running the city. In all Judge Gaynor's speeches during the campaign, as Mr. Mitchel will recall, these words frequently occurred: 'I would be uncomfortable in the Board of Estimate, sitting with two men who had Parsons and Woodruff nudging them all the time.' You are entirely competent to judge for yourselves whether any one is nudging Mr. Mitchel or myself. But who is nudging Mayor Gaynor?"

Both Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Prendergast were enthusiastically received by the audience. Mr. Mitchel devoted a considerable part of his speech to the discussion of the pledges of the last campaign, and various statements made by the Mayor from time to time. He narrated in support of his argument that the Interborough's present subway offer was not made in good faith in its proposed employment of $53,000,000 of city credit, an incident of the subway negotiations of last year which had never previously been told.

After remarking that the minds of Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission and President Shonts of the Interborough had met in the Spring of 1909 on a plan of building on the Interborough's credit up Madison Avenue and down Seventh Avenue, with Brooklyn and Bronx extensions, Mr. Mitchel declared that Mr. Shonts had told Mr. Willcox he didn't know about getting his financing, if the city proposed to build a competing road.

"Mr. Willcox said," continued Mr. Mitchel, "'I will meet Mr. Morgan,' (I have his word for it.) He saw Mr. Morgan, and Mr. Morgan said he was convinced and would furnish the money to the Interborough to build its extensions, even if the city were building an independent line. Then, for some reason which I don't know, but I'd like to know, the Directors of the Interborough repudiated Mr. Shonts's agreement and withdrew the offer. I don't know what the reason was, but I'd like to know."

Speaks of "a Gold Brick."

"Ask Charles H. Hyde!" some one shouted from the floor.

"I would do so," rejoined Mr. Mitchel, "but I can't find him."

Mr. Mitchel renewed his argument that under the Interborough offer as it stands the city could not after ten years take back the extensions as an independent system, and would be financially unable to pay the Interborough $75,000,000 for them in the event of such acquisition. He had a lantern slide of the proposed extensions to illustrate. The universal five-cent care he called the most specious of all Interborough arguments, "put out to make the city buy a gold brick."

He considered the theory that the Interborough offer would give quicker relief because allowing the immediate construction of the extensions in the outlying boroughs, and declared that one or two things would happen in such a case; either the extensions, if connected with the present line before the new trunk lines were completed, would crowd the Subway past all endurance, or else, if this situation prevented such connections being made, the early construction of these extensions would be a tremendous financial drain upon the system before they could be put in operation.

J. Aspinwall Hodge, Chairman of the Forum Committee of the People's Institute, presided at the meeting, and it was voted at an early date to ask William G. McAdoo to address the People's Institute on the subway question.

NO ESTIMATE BOARD ACTION.

Mayor's Minority Report Not Brought Up and Prendergast Taunts Him.

Yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate, at which it was expected another clash would occur on the subway question on account of the minority report of Mayor Gaynor as a member of the board's Transit Committee, passed off without so much as a ripple to disturb the procedeings. The session was entirely given over to routine business, and the Mayor's minority report which, as given to the newspapers on Wednesday night, wound up with a declaration for immediate action on subways, was not even mentioned.

There was a large public attendance at the meeting as on the meeting day of last week. Many of those present were persons interested in the subway situation. They followed the hour and a half of routine business with impatience, and when the calendar was finished and Mayor Gayonr rose in his chair every one supposed that the second round of the subway battle was at hand. But, instead of calling for the reading of his report in favor of accepting the Interborogh subway offer, Mayor Gaynor announced the meeting adjourned and started out of the room.

Controller Prendergast, who got out a statement on Wednesday night answering the Mayor's minority report, and President Mitchel of the Aldermen, the other member of the Board of Estimate committee to the Triborough, both smiled broadly, and the Controller remarked:

"Who's ducked now?"

"Is that for publication?" the Controller was asked.

"It is," said the Controller. "Mr. Mitchel and I prepared a report on the Interborough which we read to the board and offered for discussion. A minority report has been prepared and printed in the newspapers before the board met, but at the meeting of the board, to whom the report was addressed, nothing was said about it. I repeat: 'Who's ducked now?'"

It was explained in the Mayor's office later that the Mayor sent his minority report to the Secretary of the board, and did not think it incumbent upon him to bring the matter up at this particular meeting. His position was that if any member of the board wanted the minority report read he might call for it. Yesterday afternoon Mayor Gaynor called a meeting of the board as a Committee of the Whole for next Tuesday at 11 o'clock to consider the communication of the Public Service Commission recommending the acceptance of the Interborough offer "and all papers relating thereto," which now include both the majority and the minority reports of the Transit Committee.

After yesterday's meeting President McAneny of the Borough of Manhattan, who has declared that he would not vote to approve any action which would exclude consideration of any subway proposals, had this to say:

"As I understand it, the technical situatnon is that the Mayor's communication was sent to the Secretary of the Board of Estimate, and was not received in time for printing on the calendar. Accordingly the board had no official knowledge that the Mayor had prepared a report.

Controller Prendergast offered a resolution, which was carried, petitioning the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to exempt from the debt limit as self-supporting the $3,614,000 city bonds issued in connection with its share in the cost of constructing the Brooklyn extension of the present subway.

OUT FOR INDEPENDENT SUBWAY

People's Institute Urges the City to Build the Triborough Route.

The Forum Committee of the People's Institute issued yesterday in pamphlet form a communication to the Board of Estimate declaring itself in favor of an independent subway constructed by the city. The Institute, among other things, declares its opposition to any surrender of Lexington Avenue to the Interborough, urges that the Interborough proposal for elevated extensions and third tracking be considered separately from its subway proposal and that the Public Service Commission be immediately requested to prepare plans and advertise for bids on a trunk line subway following the Triborough route in the main, on a construction scale substantially reduced from the present plans.

The modifications in route which the People's Institute suggests for the Tri-Borough are practicaly those suggested by William G. McAdoo in the equipment and operation proposal which he made to the Public Service Commission in November. Its discussion of the matter embraces many of the arguments used by Controller Prendergast and President Mitchell in their majority report as members of the Transit Committee of the Board of Estimate.

STOP CIRCULAR CAMPAIGN.

Boy Distributing the Anti-Ticket Papers Arrested—Backer Escapes.

Special Policeman Walsh in the Grand Central Subway station yesterday pushed his way through a swirl of the circulars described a few days ago in THE TIMES, which call upon the traveling public to revolt against the "Traction Trust" in subway and elevated roads. The policeman saw two small messenger boys holding a bag of the revolutionary circulars and a third distributing them to passengers in the station. He arrested the distributer on a charge of annoying passengers and littering up the Subway cars.

The circulars call upon New Yorkers to "be men and not sheep," to "refuse to buy foolish pieces of paper," and insist on throwing nickels instead of tickets into the ticket choppers' boxes.

A well-dressed man who, the prisoner said, had given the boys the circulars, with directions to distribute them, pushed his way up to the policeman and ordered him to release the boy. When the policeman didn't, the well-dressed man turned quickly away and disappeared in the crowd.

In the Children's Court the boy, 15-year-old Charles Fucci of 179 Sixteenth Street, Jersey City, was paroled by Justice Wyatt until the policeman could produce the man who had instigated the distribution of the circulars.

HYDE IN SECLUSION ON HIS HOUSEBOAT?

for the $200,000 of city money which is tied up in the Northern Bank, and we stand ready to pay the amount of the bond at any time. In fact, I have asked the Corporation Counsel for a bill of particulars, but so far the city has shown no disposition to collect the bond. Of course, we will have to pay over the whole amount of the bond and take our chances to be reimbursed by the bank. The last report I heard was that they will pay at least seventy-five cents on the dollar."

Frederick C. Williams, resident manager of the Title Guaranty & Surety Company, and Daniel McCann, Secretary of the People's Surety Company, declared that they were not losing any sleep over Mr. Hyde's long continued absence, and that they looked for him to return almost any day. They declared that they would feel no apprehension until they were officially notified that Mr. Hyde was gone for good and all.

Avoiding Gardner's Trial.

While some of Mr. Hyde's friends were trying yesterday to excuse his absence on the ground of illness, others declared that the City Chamberlain had only one motive in keeping away from New York and that was to avoid giving testimony before the graft investigating committee or at the trial of ex-Senator Frank J. Gardner who is under indictment on the charge of attempting to bribe Otto G. Foelker in connection with bills affecting race tracks when Mr. Foelker was a State Senator.

Mr. Gardner's trial is set for Feb. 14. At this trial the whole story of the use of a large corruption fund to attempt to defeat the Agnew-Hart anti-racing bills before the Legislature in 1908 is expected to come out. Mr. Gardner was arrested in Scranton, Penn., last October, brought here, and released under $10,000 bail. The indictment was based mainly on an affidavit of ex-Senator Foelker, in which he stated that one day in April, 1908, while on a train coming from Albany to New York while the race-track bills were pending in the Legislature, he was informed that Mr. Gardner desired to speak to him in one of the staterooms. Foelker testified that when he met Gardner the latter said:

"Otto, we need your vote against the Race Track bill. I want you to vote against it, and I will take care of you from a financial standpoint if you do. In fact. I will treat you better than I have some of the other Senators. If you will stand and vote against the bill I will give you $2,000 more."

When Foelker said he wouldn't vote against the bills, he said Gardner called him a fool for not "getting all the money I could out of it." He also declared that Gardner said he would assist him, through his Democratic friends, to a re-election.

In the court proceedings at Saratoga it was stated that a well-known official in New York City had held $325,000 subscribed to defeat the anti-racing bill, and that this official had been at a meeting at Delmonico's when the fund was collected. The whole proceedings against Gardner were started by Assistant District Attorney Robert H. Elder of Brooklyn, who testified before the Grand Jury that Gardner had confessed to him that he, Gardner, and "a prominent city official" had handled a corruption fund of $500,000 to attempt to defeat the anti-race track bills. Mr. Elder also asserted that Gardner informed him that he, Gardner, attempted to bribe Foelker.

At the time the information about the alleged bribing was printed, City Chamberlain Hyde was in the city. He was asked if he was the city official who, it was rumored, would be summoned to testify before the Legislative Investigating Committee and the Grand Jury.

"Not a word," was all Mr. Hyde would say. He admitted that he had read the charges made by Representative Foelker. Then he was asked: "The reports hint at a man higher up. Do you know who that man is?"

"Nothing to say," was Mr. Hyde's rejoinder.

Vanishing $500,000 Fund.

Although subpoenaed to appear before the graft investigating committee, ex-Senator Gardner refused to testify. He said he would divulge everything he knew about the race track bills at his trial. Assistant District Attorney Elder went on the stand, however, and told in detail a story which he said Gardner had told him. It was in part that a number of men, of whom City Chamberlain Hyde was one, were present at a meeting at Delmonico's one night when the race track bills were pending, and ways and means were discussed for the handling of a fund of $500,000 for the defeat of the bills.

Mr. Hyde's interest in the proceedings was due to the fact, it was explained, that at that time he was counsel for the Brighton Beach Racing Association. He took an active part in the sessions at Albany when the race track legislation was under consideration. When the District Attorney of Brooklyn decided to enforce the anti-betting laws and indicted several of the Brighton officials Mr. Hyde was counsel for all of them. Among the men besides Hyde who, Assistant District Elder was informed, were at the Delmonico meeting were James R. Keene, Harry Payne Whitney, David Mitchell, Schuyler S. Parsons, and Eugene Wood. None of these men appeared before the investigating committee. Mr. Hyde was in New York when the testimony involving his name came out, but no effort was made to subpoena him.

Finally, on Dec. 1, he left the city. No importance was attached to his absence until he had been gone almost two weeks. Then the members of the investigating committee awoke to the fact that Mr. Hyde was not within reach. Inquiries brought to light the fact that he had departed on a duck hunting expedition through the Chesapeake and Delaware mrashes. He left Philadelphia on his house-boat, the Stop-a-While, on Dec. 3, and has not been seen or heard from since, so all inquirers, including the members of the graft investigating committee, have been daily informed. Last Friday the committee ended its hearings. It has until Jan. 15 to prepare its report. On Wednesday it decided to ask the Legislature to extend for a year its time for taking testimony so that it would have a chance to reach Mr. Hyde.

Gardner Gone, Too.

It developed yesterday for the first time that ex-Senator Gardner, at whose trial Mr. Hyde, if he returns, will probably be an important witness, has also disappeared. A search of the city failed to reveal any trace of him, but it was rumored that Mr. Gardner and Mr. Hyde were together in Philadelphia about the time the City Chamberlain started from that place on his houseboat. Several persons are said to have seen them together there. What became of Mr. Gardner when he left Philadelphia, if he actually did leave there, is as much a mystery as the present whereabouts of Mr. Hyde. Henry J. Goldsmith, Mr. Gardner's attorney, said yesterday that Mr. Gardner was in New York.

"Where can he be found?" Mr. Goldsmith was asked.

"He cannot be found until he is wanted," replied the lawyer.

"Will he be present when the trial begins?" he was asked.

"Yes, he will be on hand then," he replied, "but I cannot tell you where he is at present. It wouldn't be professional to do so."

"Was he away from the city in December?"

"No, he was not. He wasn't in Philadelphia, or any other place. He has been in New York all the time and he is here now."

Despite the lawyer's positive assertion, no one could be found who has seen Mr. Gardner since election. A man who is close to both Hyde and Gardner declared yesterday that Mr. Hyde did not fear the Graft Investigating Committee so much as he did the possibility of having to appear as a witness at the trial of Gardner. For this reason, he said, Mr. Hyde had no intention of returning to the city until the trial is over.

No one concerned in the fight to defeat the anti-racing bills before the Legislature in 1908 can shed as much information upon it as can Mr. Hyde, so members of the graft investigating committee say. The only reason Mr. Hyde wasn't subpoenaed when he was in town, so it was explained yesterday, was that Chief Examiner Linn Bruce did not think he would have any difficulty in reaching Mr. Hyde whenever he wanted him.

"We did not believe," said Mr. Bruce, "that it would be necessary to serve a subpoena on a man of Hyde's position. He knew, however, that his name had been figuring in the charges, and that at any time we would have been only too glad to hear any statement he might care to make. So far as our own plans were concerned, we wanted to make Hyde the last of the witnesses we heard in the matter.

"Then when the time set apart for our public hearings drew to a close, we found he was absent from the city; that, so far as we knew, it would not be possible for us even to send a messenger to him saying that we were anxious to give him every opportunity to make whatever reply he wished to the intimations that had been made before us."

Court Moneys Protected.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court took action yesterday to protect court money handed over to the City Chamberlain for safe keeping. It filed with the County Clerk an addition to the rules of practice of the Supreme Court, Special Term, First Division, as follows:

> The Chamberlain of the City of New York, within thirty days after it shall have been received by him, shall invest all moneys paid into court by deposit with him in bonds of the United States, bonds of the State of New York, or bonds of the stock of the City of New York, and cause the same to be duly registered in the name of such Chamberlain; and hereafter no money so paid into court shall be invested in securities other than those hereinbefore specified.
> And the Chamberlain is hereby required to file in the office of the Clerk of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the First Department, on or before the first day of February in each year, a report showing the securities into which money that has been paid into court has been invested and the date at which the investment was made.

The amended rule is signed by Presiding Justice Ingraham and all the other Justices of the Appellate Division, First Department. Heretofore the City Chamberlain has been allowed to invest moneys received by him on deposit in court proceedings in real estate mortgages. There has been no rule of the courts laid down governing his handling of such moneys, however. Deputy Chamberlain Walsh said yesterday that the court money now on deposit amounts to about $2,000,000.

BIG DUTY FRAUD OFFERS.

Washington Says They Are $1,000,000 and Loeb $500,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—It was learned to-day that Secretary MacVeagh has before him offers of compromise aggregating fully $1,000,000 from New York importers of woolens, laces, millinery, silks, &c., who have been suspected of undervaluation frauds upon the customs.

One of the offers alone is said to carry a compromise of more than $500,000.

Since a thorough and systematic investigation of the frauds began several weeks ago the offers have been coming in steadily.

Collector Loeb, when asked last night to confirm the above report from Washington, said that he could not give any figures, but the offers of compromise he had received amounted to over $500,000. It was not correct that he had received an individual offer from any firm amounting to half a million dollars.

DROP IN CHAMPAGNE IMPORTS

The customs returns for 1910, just issued, show that the importation of champagne into the United States has decreased 47 per cent., compared with the previous year. In 1909 481,777 cases were imported into this country from France, and last year the number amounted to only 254,475. J. B. Martin of the Café Martin expressed the opinion last night that the decrease in the consumption of champagne was due to the increase in price put on last year.

"All restaurants charged $2.25 for pints instead of $2, and for quarts the price was raised from $4 to $4.25 or $4.50," said Mr. Martin. "The dining-out public resented this addition. I have put back the price, and expect many other restaurants will follow suit."

ROBERT CALDWELL DEAD.

Notorious as a Maker of False Affidavits in Two Famous Cases.

Robert Caldwell, who gained notoriety by the false affidavits he made in connection with the estate of the late A. T. Stewart and a law suit involving the identity of the Duke of Portland in England, died yesterday in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island. Mr. Caldwel was seventy-six years old. For two years he had had what doctors called a "twist of the brain."

His illness led to his removal to the hospital on Ward's Island although he was not insane despite the hallucinations to which he appeared to be subject at times, and in which, his friends agreed, he himself firmly believed. He was indicted for his Portland testimony in London, but never went to trial.

He was born in Ireland, worked for some time in London and coming here in 1871 got a job in the store of A.T. Stewart. He was advanced to a clerkship afterward and served in the store till Mr. Stewart's death. Then he came forward with affidavits which he tried to sell to newspapers, first declaring that Mr. Stewart's body had been stolen and afterward offering to prove that the Stewart will was a forgery.

In the Portland case, he testified that the Duke had led a double life under the name of Druce, and that when the supposed Druce was given out as dead, a coffin was filled with lead and buried. The coffin was exhumed and the story proved false. Then Caldwell returned to this country, where he lived on Staten Island.

He leaves a daughter at St. George, S. I.

Meantime Re-elects Wagstaff, Who, However, Has Some Other Interests.

MILITARY OR NAVAL MAN

One Who'd Be at Work at 5 on a Bad Morning for the Horses—Gen. Grant Suggested.

Alfred Wagstaff was re-elected President of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals yesterday, but on the distinct understanding that he is to retire as soon as a majority of the Board of Managers have agreed on his successor. Members of the board are casting about for just the right man to put in his place and are in a mood to invite suggestions.

The opposition to Col. Wagstaff's continuance is based on the fact that he is not in a position to devote his entire time to the affairs of the society, as a salaried officer would be. Furthermore, it is desired by a majority of the board that a man of distinction in a line especially fitting him for the work of the position should be selected. It has been suggested that a retired army officer would be well qualified for the place and would be fitted by profession and training, not only to carry out the general purpose of the society, but, as one member expressed it, "when we have one of those stormy, sleety mornings that make an extraordinary amount of work in taking care of fallen and disabled horses he would be at his desk at 5 o'clock if necessary."

Bingham or Grant.

In all this there is no criticism of Col. Wagstaff, but a desire to put the Presidency of the society on a different basis. The post has not yet been definitely offered to anybody, but as soon as the right man can be found the change will be made. Gen. Theodore A. Bingham, former Police Commissioner and previous major domo of the White House, is one of those who have been discussed but without any authority from him, and it not known whether he would consider such an offer. Gen. Howe, who is soon to retire from the army, and one or more retired Admirals of the navy have also been suggested.

"Such a man as Gen. Frederick D. Grant," said one member of the board last night, "would be just what we are looking for. Gen. Grant will reach the age for retirement before long. During his term as Police Commissioner his services were especially valuable in connection with the care of the animals used by the mounted men. He has the social connections which would give the society prestige, and he would be capable of keeping it before the public by public addresses and in other ways that would greatly strengthen it. Of course, it is not known whether Gen. Grant would consider the place, even after retirement, but I mention him as the sort of man the majority of the Directors want to see at the head of the society."

Chaffee Wanted Once.

Sentiment along the line indicated among members of the board dates back as far as the time when Col. Wagstaff first became President, three or four years ago. There was a movement then to put Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U. S. A., retired, at the head of the society, and it is said that Gen. Chaffee was willing to take the place, but a majority of the board at that time was opposed to making any change, and the matter was dropped. The idea has persisted, however, and when the board met yesterday, just before the annual meeting of the society, it developed that it was shared by a majority of the Directors.

The session was an executive one, but it is known that although several members urged the continuation of Col. Wagstaff as President, the majority was in favor of the choice of a salaried executive who would give all his time to the affairs of the society. There was no agreement, however, on the man, and it was decided to re-elect Col. Wagstaff to serve for the time being. His election was unanimous, and on taking the chair he said:

"Gentlemen, in accepting re-election as President, I wish to state that I am ready to retire whenever a majority of the Board of Directors shall agree on my successor."

Why a Change Is Needed.

"Col. Wagstaff has made an excellent President, and has given freely of his time to the society. His services have been most valuable, and the only object in making a change would be to obtain the entire time of some man exceptionally fitted for the work. We hope to induce some such man to take the place."

Leonard Opdyke, another member of the board, said:

"Gen. Bingham is the only man with just the right qualifications who has occurred to me, and I don't know whether he would take it or not. Only a member of the board can be elected President, so that if Gen. Bingham were decided upon, it would first be necessary to make him a Director, and then elect him President."

Col. Walgstaff's own accession as President came after a war had been waged for months to get rid of his predecessor, J. P. Haines. The uprising against Mr. Haines started in January, 1906. The members of the society, to whom for years Mr. Haines had denied any participation in its affairs, rebelled under the leadership of Leonard Opdyke against his administration. Charges of mismanagement and irregularities were made, and Mr. Haines resigned in March, in doing so criticizing bitterly some of those responsible for his downfall. Col. Walgstaff, as senior Vice President, succeeded temporarily to the office.

Vivisection Bogey Up.

Following the meeting of the board yesterday the annual meeting of the society was held. It was enlivened by some spirited discussion of the vivisection question. Mr. Opdyke argued that the society was not sufficiently active in the effort to prevent the unnecessary suffering of animals in the cause of science. He called for more active measures to enforce the idea of the society. Some time ago the Board of Managers passed resolutions condemning the indiscriminate practice of vivisection, and a committee was appointed, consisting of Jefferson Seligman, Lorillard Spencer, Jr., and John H. Iselin, to arouse public sentiment and seek legislation on the subject. All the society has asked from the Legislature at any time has been an investigation and the regulation of the practice by putting it under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Regents or in some other suitable way. The bill for this purpose failed to pass last year and will again be introduced this year.

Mr. Seligman reported that the committee had been unable to see Gov. Dix when he was in this city recently, as he was too busy with his annual message to receive visitors. On the motion of Mr. Opdyke it was recided to add to the society two members from other societies having the same object in view.

"No criticism should apply to the committee," said Henry W. Shoemaker, one of the Board of Managers, last night, "as it has published a good deal of literature on the subject and has done much missionary work. Public opinion is still with the vivisectionists and needs a good deal of education. The opposition of nearly all of the medical profession also will have to be overcome before any law can be enacted."

Worthless Cruel Experiments.

In his annual report President Wagstaff, after citing other policies adopted by the Board of Managers, had this to say on the subject of vivisection:

> The third is the declaration of the board that it is the duty of the society to draw public attention to the subject of vivisection, to cause the alleged cruelties of the practice to be investigated by the State authorities, and hereafter to try to secure the passage of legislation which, while not prohibiting entirely such animal experimentation, will penalize all acts which are properly characterized as cruel; and in the interest of humanity, surround the practice with proper limitations, and place it under the supervision and control of the State.
> At the annual meeting of 1910 a committee of the society at large was appointed on vivisection, and this committee gave much time and thought to the subject and advocated and worked earnestly in behalf of a bill which provided for the appointment of a commission to investigate the whole subject of experimentation on living animals.
>
> This bill, like other measures on the subject, failed to pass, but the worthlessness and inhumanity of the majority of the experiments to which animals are subjected, is beginning to impress itself more and more on the public mind, and must ultimately result in the restrictive legislation which humanity demands.

Horse Poisoners Run Down.

In regard to the poisoning of horses, the President's report said:

> All the energies at our command were devoted to the apprehension of horse poisoners, whose crimes became bolder and more frequent early in the year. The operations of these blackmailers became so notorious that a veritable reign of terror existed in certain parts of New York, particularly on the lower east side of Manhattan and in the Eastern District of Brooklyn. Horse owners became so intimidated that it was frequently impossible to obtain any facts from them, and aften they would fear even to report the poisoning of their horses. This made it exceedingly difficult to trace the criminals, but several gangs, and notably the band known as "The Arsenic Club," were uncovered as the result of the efforts of the detectives of the Police Department and the agents of the society. Twenty-four arrests were made, prison sentences were obtanied in five cases, ten suspects are yet to be tried, six were discharged, and three are fugitives from justice. One notorious offender, the reputed leader of "The Arsenic Club," was sentenced to fifteen years in Sing Sing Prison. These convictions have resulted in a marked decrease in this crime.
>
> The frequent failure of justice in these cases is due to the fact that many Magistrates, from sentimental reasons, ignorance, or indifference, will not enforce compliance with the laws on this subject.

KIN SEEK $2,000,000 LEFT BY MRS. EDDY

> Concord, Sept. 22, 1890.
> Dear Student: I see this morning the purpose of the enemy. It is to break my will at my decease, if this latter can be accomplished. My son in South Dakota is a victor at law, and M. A. M. will influence him to break my will. Now this I enjoin on you. Inquire of the best copyright lawyers out of Boston you can find if I can assign my copyright of Science and Health and Unity of Good to some one who could hold it if my will was broken and never name this party in my will or name him to whom it is assigned, whichever would make it legal. Find this out at once and the way of conveyance of any copyright so that if my will should be disputed or broken, the publishing of Science and Health and Unity of Good could go on without hindrance.
>
> I shall assign the copyright of these books to one or two, perhaps, of my students in equal shares who I think has done or will do the best as publishers and owners of these books.
>
> Do not delay to ask a lawyer or Judge of the United States Circuit Court all about this question of a legal conveyance of a copyright so that the ownership will take place after the decease of the present owner. This conveyance to be made outside of a will, so that if the will was broken the assignment would be valid. In haste, affectionately, M. B. G. EDDY.
> Be perfectly silent to all but legal parties about what I have written. The Boston lawyers whom I have employed are demoralized by M. A. M. Note this.

The letter from Senator Chandler to Prof. Taylor continues by describing the seclusion in which Mrs. Eddy lived and the nature of the influences about her, on account of which the letter says, "her sons naturally became apprehensive."

Mr. Chandler then reviews the facts regarding Mrs. Eddy's will and estate and the next friends suit which resulted in Mrs. Eddy placing a large sum of money in trust for her son, George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., and his children. He then tells of his signing the agreement by which the next friend's suit was settled and adds:

"Mr. Streeter (Gen. Frank S. Streeter of Concord) drew the agreement for my signature. When signing it I took it for granted that Mrs. Eddy would not, in giving away her property, undertake to violate any public law. If I had thought she had already done so, by attempting to create a church with an endowment of two millions of dollars, I should not have signed."

The petition for construction of the will was filed in the Superior Court to-day by Mr. Chandler. He questions the clause by which the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston is made the residuary legatee of Mrs. Eddy's estate. Mr. Chandler and his associate counsel hold that under the laws of both New Hampshire and Massachusetts, whereby churches are limited in the amount of funds they can receive by bequests and hold, this provision of the will is invalid, and the estate should proceed to the next of kin.

Included in the petition to the court is a prayer for an injunction restraining the executor of the will from transferring or disposing of any of the property concerned.

It is anticipated that counsel for the executor, who is General M. Baker of Washington, D. C., and Bow, N. H., Mrs. Eddy's counsin will come into court in response to this petition and that a case will be made up and transferred from the Superior Court to the Supreme Court for decision of the points of law involved.

The will comes up in Probate Court for this county to be proved in solemn form on January 17, but it is not thought that the opponents of the document will interpose any objection to this proceeding.

EDDYITES NOT ALARMED.

Think the Church Can Get Along Without the $2,000,000.

Members of the Mother Church who live here said last night that no alarm is felt over the announcement that the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Boston, may lose the $2,000,000 which Mrs. Eddy intended should revert to it upon her death.

When the news that Prof. Taylor had construed the residuary clause of Mrs. Eddy's will as null and void was conveyed last night to Eugene R. Cox, Chairman of the Publication Committee of the Christian Science Church in this State, he showed no surprise.

"While no one seems to have looked up the other side of this matter and determined whether or not the opponents of the will have overlooked something, I am quite sure than Gen. Henry M. Baker, the administrator, will take whatever steps that are necessary in opposing those who appear to be so anxious to thwart the wishes of Mrs. Eddy," said Mr. Cox. "So far as the cause of Christian Science is concerned, the final disposition of that $2,000,000 matters very little. It really makes no difference to the cause one way or the other. The cause has grown to its present stage without the money in question and it would be ridiculous to suppose that it will not keep on going without the bequest.

"As a matter of fact there has been a material increase in attendance at all of the Christian Science churches during the last month which shows that the interest in Science is increasing rather than on the wane. Such attacks as these fail utterly to injure the cause."

CROWNINSHIELD TO PAY $448.

Yacht Designer Was Sued by Yachting Writer for Assault Made in 1902.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Bowdoin B. Crowninshield, the yacht designer, was ordered by the court to-day to pay $448 to Adolphus G. McVey, formerly yachting editor of a Boston newspaper, for an assault committed upon McVey in July, 1902, at Manchester-by-the-Sea. McVey sued to recover damages of $10,000, claiming that his health had been impaired by the assault.

The case had been on trial in the Suffolk County Superior Court for several days. Crowninshield admitted the assault, but held that he was justified because McVey had made an insulting remark to Mrs. Crowninshield, which prompted the defendant to take the law into his own hands.

WOMAN KILLED BOY, IS POLICE THEORY

A RUBBER SHOE IS FOUND

"Georgie" Was Written Inside It—This and Boy's Shoes May Provide Trails—Stomach Under Analysis.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—The police are baffled at almost every step in their investigation of the mystery surrounding the murder of the six-year-old boy whose frozen body was found in a swamp on the Schenectady Road yesterday, but late to-night they profess to have a clue that may lead to the arrest of the person who committed the crime. This clue came to the police through the story of a woman whose name has not been disclosed, but in whom Chief Platt seems to have every confidence. It has led the detectives to believe that a woman was the slayer.

The woman came to Police Headquarters to-night and told the Chief that last Friday she had seen a woman and a child answering the description of the dead lad in the drug store of Dr. F. B. Lewis, whose name appeared on the label of the bottle of carbolic acid found under the body.

"The child seemed to to be six, or, perhaps, younger," she said. "The woman bought a package of chocolate creams, and then I heard her ask for something else which prompted the druggist to ask her if she had a small bottle. I think the word 'acid' ocurred in the conversation. I am certain she paid the druggist 10 cents in all. The chocolates were 5 cents."

Chief Platt said to-night that the woman would return to headquarters tomorrow, when she will be taken to the undertaker's shop where the body lies and where a throng of people have sought in vain to identify it.

Dr. Lewis himself was questioned by the police. He declares that he cannot recall, nor can any member of his family, the sale of any carbolic acid recently. Nor can the druggist recall any woman or the child having visited his store on Friday, when, the police believe, the murder was committed.

As time passes without any message from the parents of the missing boy the detectives say they are beginning to believe that the crime may have been committed by the boy's natural guardians.

The autopsy showed conclusively that the acid had been forced down the child's throat, causing death. Director Ordway of the Bender laboratory and his assistant, Dr. Bernstein, assert that sears on the windpipe and escophagus point to some of the poison having been inhaled, while the burns on the face suggested a struggle. The stomach was taken to the Bender Laboratory for chemical analysis. The blood indicated that the murder was committed a short time before the body became frozen.

To-day a boy, George Fisher, found a well-worn rubber of the garnet brand between the Schenectady road and the swamp. Written inside it was the name "Georgie," and the nail impressions suggest that the child's shoes had been half soled. The police to-night recovered the child's shoes, which Harry Frost saw along side the road on Monday, a mile or so west of where the body was found. They learned that the shoes were picked up on Tuesday by Bushtel Wachtel, who gave them to another boy whom he knew only as "Joe." The shoes and the rubber may have no connection with the crime, but the police look upon them as possible clues.

The shoes were soled as the rubber indicated, and fit the feet of the dead boy. There are no marks on them by which they could be distinguished from the general make of children's shoes.

Detective Reed learned from John Jacoby to-night that Jacoby, as he was passing along the Schenectady road about 5 o'clock on Monday afternoon saw a man crossing the swamp carrying a bundle which looked like a child's clothes.

There was a story current in the neighborhood that one of the curious women who visited the swamp picked up a check on the Schenectady road, drawn on a Springfield, Mass., bank to the order of a Mrs. Trenton. The police are following out this clue, if clue it be, but have not yet succeded.

Any idea that the boy might have taken the poison himself, either by acicdent or design, is negatived by a number of circumstances, chief of which is the fact that the body was without shoes and the stockinged feet showed no trace of mud, as they would had the child walked to the place where he was found dead.

Thus far the police have received word of no kidnapping involving a boy of this description. Their search is embracing the entire country. Had the boy come from this vicinity, they believe that they would ere this have found his home. Every mark that might have served as an identification had been removed from the child's clothing. Everything about the victim, however, indicates comfortable, if not wealthy, circumstances.

Two possible clues as to the slain boy's identity came to nothing to-day. A message sent to the police of Ogdensburg asking if five-year-old George Lute, who disappeared from his home there last Saturday, had been found, produced the answer that the boy was discovered unharmed after running away from home. A similar query to the police of Windsor, Ont., regarding a boy named Scott, who was kidnapped from that city on May 25, last year, brought the news that he had been found three weeks ago in the custody of his father in Memphis, Tenn., and is now in Windsor.

HIS APPENDIX TIED WITH VIOLIN STRING

Catgut, It Is Explained, Was Scarce in an Operation Aboard the Uranium at Sea.

CAPTAIN AND PURSER HELPED

Scalpel Applied to the Stricken Passenger with the Ship Going Full Speed—Patient Nearly Well.

Remarkable circumstances attended an operation for appendicitis performed on the liner Uranium while that vessel was on her way to this port from Rotterdam. The operation was so successful that when the liner arrived here yesterday the patient, a steerage passenger, was so far recovered that he was able to go to Ellis Island with his fellow-travelers.

The Uranium left Rotterdam on Dec. 30. When the vessel was not many hours from port a man named Berasch in the steerage was taken ill. Dr. Joseph Connolly, ship's surgeon, diagnosed the case as appendicitis. On New Year's Day the man's condition became such that an immediate operation was imperative.

Dr. Connolly has hardly got his sea legs. He completed his first round trip across the Atlantic yesterday, having shipped soon after completing his internship in St. Catharine's Hospital, Brooklyn. He conferred with Capt. Aggassiz and the purser of the vessel. The latter has taken part in one or two other operations at sea. Both agreed to act as his assistants.

There was no operating room on the vessel, and stewards were sent to clear the smoking room. When this was done the surgeon built an operating table in the centre of the room in a space made by clearing away tables and chairs. The room was then fumigated. When the patient was brought in the Uranium was running through a comparatively smooth sea and it was decided not to slow down. Capt. Aggassiz was selected to administer the chloroform, being instructed by the surgeon in his duties.

Dr. Connolly found that his supply of catgut was not sufficient for tying up the severed end of the patient's appendix. He was in a quandary until Capt. Aggassiz came to the rescue. He is something of a musician, and when the question was under consideration he remembered that the only catgut on board outside of the limited supply in the surgeon's kit was stretched across the bridge of his beloved violin. The violin was brought out and Dr. Connolly selected the E string as suitable for his purpose. It was removed from the instrument and sterilized.

For half an hour the patient was under chloroform while the surgeon and his volunteer assistants worked over him. The Marine Hospital surgeon who visited the vessel yesterday to inspect her passengers said that the operation was well performed. Directing assistants by a word now and then, Dr. Connolly performed the operation as the ship reeled off the knots. With the string from the skipper's violin he neatly tied up the end of the severed appendix.

The patient was then removed to the ship's hospital and placed in the care of a special steward. No bad symptoms developed, and his progress toward recovery was steady. Dr. Connolly made a full report of the operation to the Government surgeon.

Berasch is an Austrian, 22 years old, with a rugged frame. He came over to visit an uncle living in this city.

NEW SUBWAY STATION.

The Public Service Commission will probably grant at its meeting to-day a request received yesterday from the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the formal opening of the new 191st Street station on the Broadway branch of the Subway at noon to-morrow. The work on the construction of this station, which is done by the Interborough with funds provided by the city as an "extra" under subway contract No. 1, has been put through in record time. It was begun on July 20, 1909, and has been continued twenty-four hours a day ever since in accordance with plans made by Henry B. Seamon, former chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, and Alfred Craven, the present chief engineer.

The construction of the new station, which has been imperatively demanded by the residents in the upper Washington Heights section, who have had heretofore no subway station between 181st Street and Dyckman Street, a distance of over a mile, has involved considerable engineering difficulties. The rail base of the subway at this point is 176½ feet below the surface of the street and the space for the train platform has been excavated out of solid rock by running a new tunnel alongside the present tunnel and connecting the two when the station platform was complete. A shaft giving elevator connection with the platform had also to be cut through solid rock, 9,323 cubic yards of material being taken out of this shaft and over 10,000 cubic yards from the platform tunnel.

Eleven boys, representing as many city high schools, will compete in Earl Hall, Columbia University, to-night in the first interscholastic oratorical contest in this city. The Barnard Literary Society of Columbia conceived the idea some months ago. The eleven embryo Ciceros to be heard to-night were selected in elimination trials at their respective schools.

"The Aeolian Orchestrelle combines all the effects which can be produced by the most skillful manipulation of a grand organ with those of an orchestra." I. J. PADEREWSKI.

A Superb Organ With Orchestral Tones Played Like the Pianola

Here is a musical instrument that you or anyone can play.—

Which will enable you to enjoy in your own home, that rare pleasure derived from listening to an orchestra or a pipe-organ—

And which is so genuinely musical—so far removed from any suggestion of the commonplace, so truly artistic—that the greatest musicians of the world give it their hearty endorsement and approval. This instrument is known as the

and there are thousands of people in New York today, who would become immediate possessors, did they realize what the Orchestrelle is and what its possession means.

The Aeolian Orchestrelle is suitable in size, appearance and range of cost, for practically any home.

It virtually gives you control over many different orchestral instruments. It confers on you the ability of a trained organist and an orchestra leader, combined.

With the Orchestrelle you can play what music you like, symphony, overture, oratorio, musical comedy, dance or song. You can have an organ recital when you will, and enjoy the superb richness, the majesty, the mellow beauty of the pipe-organ.

Or you can devote an entire evening to grand opera and play your favorites, using the strings, reeds, horns and brasses to give the true orchestral coloring and charm.

The Aeolian Orchestrelle is unique. There is no other instrument like it and there is but one concern that makes it.

It is made in many different styles bearing approximately the same relation to one another as orchestras of few or many pieces.

As an example the Style O Orchestrelle has tones suggestive of "Muted Strings," "Violins," "Flutes," "Piccolos," "Trumpets" and "Basses."

While the larger model, known as Style "W," adds to these, such orchestral voices as the "Aeolian Harp," the "French Horn," the "Orchestral Flute," the "Oboe," the "Viola" and the "Trombone."

You must come to Aeolian Hall in order to hear the Orchestrelle and you are cordially invited to do so. An attractive model may be purchased for $400. Moderate monthly payments if desired.

BIG TRUSTS IMMUNE, UNTERMYER ASSERTS

GOMPERS HITS SHERMAN ACT

Classes Human Hearts with a Ton of Coal, He Says—Civic Federation Discusses Federal Regulation.

The National Civic Federation, representing in its delegates at the Hotel Astor yesterday nearly every branch of industry, large corporation, and commercial and labor organization in this country, gave the whole of the first day of its annual session to a discussion of the regulation of trade combinations and trusts.

Nearly a dozen addresses on this and kindred subjects were delivered by prominent economists and professional men from various parts of the country, but the discussions which seemed to be outstanding in holding the attention of the audience came from Samuel Untermyer, and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Gompers severely arraigned the Sherman anti-trust law in so far as it included labor organizations, and classed as subject to its penalties "human hearts human souls and the lives of men and women with a ton of coal, a barrel of pork, and the greed and avarice of corporations."

Mr. Untermyer's address seemed to create a profound impression, and he was loudly applauded when attacking the Government's attitude toward the trusts, calling it a "monstrous sham." Mr. Untermyer declared without mincing language that the "vicious" corporations go unmolested while "the little fellows are being pursued with a brass band and the greatest press bureau ever put into action." Mr. Untermyer declared that the trusts were here to stay. Their property could not be confiscated, and, moreover, there was much essential and necessary good in them. They could not be abolished, but could be regulated, and regulation was the only just solution.

Without referring to them by name, Mr. Untermyer announced in beginning his address that he approached his subject, the extermination or control of the trusts, on the assumption that the decisions of the Circuit Court of Appeals in the oil and tobacco cases will be affirmed by the United States Supreme Court. Judging, he said, from the decisions of the Supreme Court in the last five years, he believed that the highest court would emphasize the principle announced by the lower court in the most sweeping fashion, and declare every form of combination the direct purpose and effect of which is to hamper or limit competition to be unlawful.

But, unfortunately for the welfare of the people, Mr. Untermyer continued, he was satisfied that the decisions would give no relief from the dangers threatening the country because they would neither furnish nor point out a practical solution. "The companies," said he, "have nothing to fear from the result beyond possible changes in the forms of their organizations unless they are hereafter attacked under the criminal section of the statute."

Confiscation Impossible.

The properties and business are in existence, he said. They belong to the shareholders, and there was no way of companies into their original parts presented, he declared, an impossible problem. The shares that were issued for the properties were not ear-marked or identified, and having changed hands possibly hundreds of times, have been scattered broadcast among innumerable innocent investors.

Laying a foundation for his conclusion that the trusts can and ought to be regulated, Mr. Untermyer blamed the very existence, the growth and development of the trusts on the attitude of the courts during the first ten years after the passage of the anti-trust law in construing it in a way that its enforcement was almost impossible. He asserted further that the present activities of the Government and those which it threatens by way of criminal prosecution are misdirected, oppressive, and unjustly discriminative against the weak and in favor of the strong. He was convinced that the existence of those combinations which are most inimical to the community would not be imperiled under the present law and the efforts to enforce it.

Mr. Untermyer explained how easy it had been to catch the "little fellows" and how the "big fellows," with their unwritten "gentlemen's agreement," had slipped through, and would continue to slip through, under the present law untouched.

"All the criminal prosecutions of recent years," said he, "except that against the sugar company Directors, have been directed against the members of pools and trade agreements for regulating prices or production or both. The Window Glass, Bathtub, Fibre and Manila and Paper and Pulp Association cases are all of that character. In all of them the various concerns maintained their ownership and independence, except that in order to regulate prices and production they either sold through a common agency or reported to a 'commission,' and in some cases deposited money to assure the performance of their obligations.

"They were, of course, all of them clearly illegal devices to control competition, and were stupidly evidenced by written agreements, which made it a simple matter for the Government to reach them. They had resulted mainly from fierce competition between a large number of small concerns that had brought many of them to the verge of ruin, and they had been forced to band together in this temporary form for self-preservation. In some cases they had been brought together to resist the competition of some outside concern that was as large as all of them combined.

"In none of the cases had they grown rich or reaped excessive profits. They were little fellows trying to save themselves. Those are the cases which the Government is prosecuting criminally and announcing in advance through the press that jail sentences will be 'demanded' and that the Government will not be 'satisfied' with less—a most improper attitude, to say the least, in dealing with the courts.

"In the great industries there is generally one dominating factor that is so powerful as to be able to regulate prices and production without a line in writing or a money forfeit. There are many of these, all of whose understandings are reached by barely more than a word or a sign—they are known as 'gentlemen's agreements.'

"They are the most effective of all the temporary price arrangements, because these agreements are kept and they generally include the entire industry. They are quite as unlawful, and any one of them is far more dangerous than those of all the weak little fellows combined whom the Government is pursuing with such relentless zeal. Does one hear that any of them are being prosecuted?

Big Trusts Immune, He Says.

"Is there any one familiar with this general subject who does not know how the uniformity of prices and the shutting down of factories and otherwise curtailing of production in the coal, iron, steel, and other businesses is arranged? Why are these transactions immune while the little fellows are being pursued with a brass band and the greatest press bureau that was ever put in action to keep up a tempest in a teapot?"

After declaring his firm belief that there was absolutely nothing practicable in the recent suggestions that these great problems could be dealt with by the several States, Mr. Untermyer continued:

"Rigid regulation under Federal law is the only just solution. It is possible and practicable and would do away with the grave existing evils which are constantly becoming more serious. As substantially all the combinations that affect the public welfare are engaged in inter-State or international commerce, within the enlarged definition of those terms under recent adjudications, there could be no serious question of the constitutional right of the Federal Government to regulate and control their activities by a Federal license if not by a Federal incorporation. Such regulation would, however, in order to be effective have to take a very much wider scope than has yet been suggested."

In support of regulation, Mr. Untermyer declared that it would secure to the public whatever advantages are to be derived from the economy of combination, of which there were some, such as the elimination of destructive competition. It would at the same time prevent unfair advantage being taken of that situation. Such a regulation must include, he said, as its most essential feature the power to prohibit by summary process all business oppression and other unfair methods, and particularly the exaction of excessive profits. This involved, he declared, the power to limit the prices that might be charged for any commodity beyond a fair profit.

Mr. Untermyer pointed to the new Canadian law for regulating trusts as worthy of being accepted as a model in many respects for this country. On the whole, however, the problem was beset with difficulties, he said, which must be solved before the present agitation ceased.

Gompers Assails Sherman Law.

Mr. Gompers said at the offset that he had from the first viewed the Sherman anti-trust law with suspicion, fearing labor organizations might be prosecuted under it, though assured by those who framed it that such was never their intention. He frankly declared that he believed the beneficial results under it had amounted to nothing. Expressing himself in the language of a baseball enthusiast, he said they were not much more than a "goose egg."

"The combinations of wealth have gone on," said he, "despite the Sherman anti-trust law, despite cuddling, and despite opposition and prosecution, and, if my understanding of industrial development and commercial extension is not all askew, I don't think that any legislation passed by Congress is going to effectually stop it, and even if it could, I don't know that it would be desirable."

Mr. Gompers explained that the Supreme Court had decided that combinations of labor to protect itself was in violation of the Sherman act. He recalled that the hatters of Danbury, Conn., had been mulcted $200,000 and seventy-five labor organization men in New Orleans had been indicted under the Sherman law.

Mr. Gompers said these prosecutions of labor were a constant menace, and to say that they would not often be brought meant nothing to him, and did not allay any labor leader's apprehension.

"The fact is," declared he with much emphasis, "we decline to exist at the sufferance of any administration, Republican, Democratic, or any other body. Let me call attention to this one thing, and I say it advisedly and with a fair understanding of the responsibility which goes with its utterance—there is this one difference in the conditions of the popular organizations, or the labor organizations of the old days and the labor organizations of to-day. When courts decreed or tribunals ordered the dissolution of the organizations of the people, they dissolved the labor organizations. the popular assemblies of the United States are not going to dissolve at the behest of no matter whom.

"These labor organizations of America have done so much for the working people to bring them out of the slough of despondent and up from slavery and serfdom to something like a fair beginning of their right to a decent, humane existence; the labor organizations have done so much to instil character, to improve the material and the moral and social and political condition of the working people: the labor organizations have brought light into the homes of the workears and hope into their hearts—they won't be driven out of existence.

"And let me say this to you, gentlemen, who are giving the subject of trust conditions your thought and study, just look beyond the trust for a while and look at a little further, if you please, or may I suggest that you look beyond the trust for a while and look at the organizations of labor, study them, study their history—what they have done, what they have suffered in the past—and I think you will come to the conclusion that if you want some effective power—a power which has been given too little consideration in the study of this problem, the power of the working people—the economic power vested in the hands of the working people is the most potent check of capitalist aggregation.

"We men of labor have been compelled to suffer under trust conditions, and have been compelled to suffer under conditions which were never intended to apply to them and under a law that was never intended should have any application to them. We want to stand before our fellow-citizens and before the world as law abiding, as faithful and earnest and trying to contribute our share to the progress and uplift; we ask and shall work on unabated to the end that a law shall pass the Congress of the United States that shall not throw in the same category human hearts and men and blood with a ton of coal or a barrel of pork.

"We believe in natural development; we understand that the great production of life should go on, extended to the avenues of the world, but we are at first concerned in the maintenance of an American standard of life with the best concept of human liberty and justice, and in that work we are engaged, and we are contributing our mite in the great struggle, always having before us and in our minds the ideal of a greater and a better and a more human system of society and government and fellowship."

Dispute Over Bonus System.

One of the speakers at the afternoon session, presided over by Ambassador Oscar S. Straus, was H. L. Gantt, a student of industrial economics, who advocated a bonus system of work, which he described as in force in a factory near this city and working admirably. His whole theory was immediately attacked and denounced by John Mitchell and Warren S. Stone, the latter Grand Chief of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, as harmful and almost wholly unsatisfactory in practice.

Mr. Stone said the system had been tried on the railways, and had been discarded as worse than useless.

"I am a graduate of the hard knocks of experience of twenty-five years in the cab of a locomotive," said Mr. Stone. "The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers stands for efficiency, but not for the bonus system. It has been tried and failed."

"The system I have described has never been tried on any Western road," protested Mr. Gantt, and Mr. Stone appealed to the chair against further interruption, saying that he had come 1,000 miles to speak twenty minutes. His interrupter might speak again when he had concluded, he said.

"I have seen this bonus system tried for efficiency," he went on when Mr. Gantt had subsided, "where seven men under that system tried to pack a steam-box of a locomotive; the packing all came out, and I had to drive that engine over miles of rails with the escaping steam in my face. The bonus may do for an individual who can reach his employer and make a bargain with him. But he has about as much chance to get to his employer as he would to reach heaven from a rear fire escape. Even if he did get to his employer's attention once, care would be taken that he would not reach him a second time."

Mr. Mitchell was quite as positive as Mr. Stone that the bonus system was without practical value in large plants or railroads.

Other speakers of the day were William Dudley Faulke of Indiana, Prof. J. W. Jenks of Cornell, who favored regulation as the solution of the trust problem; Gilbert H. Montague, Harrington Emerson, Edgar A. Bancroft, general counsel for the International Harvester Company, and President Seth Low of the federation, who presented his annual report showing much effective work accomplished last year and many new business organizations brought into the federation's membership.

Two sessions will be held again to-day, with the annual dinner at the Hotel Astor to-night. The need for uniform State legislation will be discussed this morning, with Alton B. Parker presiding, and this afternoon Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie will discuss the Workmen's Compensation act.

Senator Albert B. Cummins, Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh, and George W. Perkins will speak at the dinner to-night.

NURSE TESTIFIES AGAINST MRS. SCHENK

INDIFFERENT TO HUSBAND

Says Mrs. Schenk Told Her She Wanted a "Young Blood;" and That Clairvoyant Predicted Schenk Would Die.

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 12.—The most sensational testimony heard to-day in the trial of Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with attempting to poison her wealthy husband, John O. Schenk, pork packer, was that of Miss Alma J. Evans, the first nurse who was called to attend Schenk, and whose suspicions were responsible for the analysis of the water and medicine drunk by the patient. During her testimony hostile glances passed between the accused and the witness, and several times there was a visible sneer in the expression of each woman.

Miss Evans became flustered under the cross-examination of F. A. O'Brien, leading counsel for the defense, and made some contradictory statements. She was on the stand practically all day. The alleged poisoned water and medicines were brought into the courtroom and introduced as exhibits. They were identified by Herbert Baer, the druggist who packed and shipped them, and by Dr. Hupp and Dr. Charles Glasser of Baltimore, to whom they were sent for analysis. Dr. Glasser said he found nine-tenths of a grain of arsenic in a pint of the water. He also found lead in the maltine cascara, sugar of lead in the hyomel quinine, and traces of arsenic in both medicines.

A special delivery letter was handed to Mrs. Schenk just before adjournment. She opened it with a puzzled expression and passed it to Attorney O'Brien without giving it more than a cursory glance. It was one of the many letters the defendant has received from all parts of the country volunteering advice as to her defense. The examination of physicians and chemists regarding the analysis of the medicines, water and blood will be continued to-morrow.

Miss Evans said she was first called to attend Schenk on Oct. 15. She found him complaining of abdominal pains, cramp, and nausea. She told of Schenk having taken mineral water, hyomel quinine and maltine cascara.

Medium Said Schenk Would Die.

A week after she came Mrs. Schenk told her of visiting a fortune teller, who predicted to her that her husband could not live. Mrs. Schenk told her that the clairvoyant had said John had stomach trouble, that the doctors could patch him up but that, notwithstanding, he was bound to die.

When she asked Mrs. Schenk if she did not feel distressed over what the fortune teller had told her, Mrs. Schenk replied: "Worse things could happen than that."

Witness said at another time she found Mrs. Schenk crying, and she tried to console her by saying John would get well. Mrs. Schenk replied: "I'm not thinking about him. I have troubles of my own."

Miss Evans further declared that Mrs. Schenk had selected the undertaker who was to have charge of her husband's funeral.

"I won't have any Dutch funeral," she quoted Mrs. Schenk as saying.

"You said that, when Mrs. Schenk told you she had been informed by the fortune teller that her husband was going to die and you said, 'Isn't it terrible,' didn't she convey the impression that if he were to die, she would rather know it than not to know it?"

Witness finally admitted this was the impression she got.

Miss Evans testified that on the first Thursday she was at the house, Mrs. Schenk said to her that if her husband died suddenly, as soon as she saw the breath go out of his body, she was to go to his trousers pocket to get his keys and then notify her. Mrs. Schenk said if she did not do this Albert Shenk would be there and obtain the keys before she could get half across the bridge from her Island home. Mrs. Schenk told her that one of these keys unlocked her husband's safety deposit box at a local bank. Mrs. Schenk said she thought her husband would die before Christmas, and that she did not care for him, as he was too old. She wanted a young blood, a society man. All John cared about, she said, was business. Witness said she told Mrs. Schenk that it would not be necessary for her to get the keys as Mr. Schenk's brothers would treat her all right. Mrs. Schenk replied:

"Oh, they won't. You don't know those Dutch devils like I do."

When the mineral water was given to the patient, Mrs. Schenk told the witness she would open the bottle herself, so that the nurse would not cut her finger.

One afternoon, witness said, Mrs. Schenk insisted on her going out to get some fresh air. When she returned she found the patient was very ill. Mrs. Schenk said she had seen Schenk in this condition many times, and she could take care of him as well as the nurse could. Witness said she gave Schenk a drink of water, and he again showed the same symptoms. She drank some of the water herself, because Schenk complained of the taste, and she became ill.

When Miss Evans gave the patient maltine cascara, Mrs. Schenk told her she was not giving him the medicine right, and said she should shake the bottle. The nurse replied, she said, that she had given medicine to patients many times before, and she knew the bottle did not need shaking. Mrs. Schenk thereupon told her to look on the bottle, where she found a label "Shake well." She did not know how the label got there. The following day she gave Schenk a drink of the mineral water, and he again became ill. She told Dr. Hupp, and he instructed her not to give the patient anything that had not first passed through her hands. She told of detecting a murky color in the hyomel quinine, which she gave to Dr. Hupp. It was then decided to take Schenk to the hospital.

Tells of Dummy Medicine Bottles.

Miss Evans further testified that "dummy" bottles of medicine were kept in the bathroom of the suite occupied by Schenk at the North Wheeling Hospital, while the real remedies given to Schenk were kept in another part of the building; that the bottles were placed there as a decoy; that the accused was given an opportunity to "doctor" them, and that Mrs. Schenk had gone into the bathroom, locked the door, and remained inside for fifteen minutes. The defense, however, apparently scored when it was declared by Dr. Hupp that the medicine in the room had not been tampered with, and also, by cross-examination of Dr. Glaser, that a second bottle of mineral water, taken from the bathroom in which Mrs. Schenk was locked for some time, had not been tampered with. Nevertheless, after the bathroom incident she said that Dr. Hupp wrote all new prescriptions and the medicines were placed where Mrs. Schenk could not get to them.

On cross-examination witness said the Schenk home was a large one. Except on Fridays, when a girl came, Mrs. Schenk did all the housework. Attorney O'Brien also elicited that Mrs. Schenk was too busy with household duties to take much care of her husband, that being the nurse's duty. Witness admitted that with the exception of from Oct. 21 to Oct. 25, Schenk was able to be about and take automobile rides. Witness also admitted that she had cut her fingers two or three times when opening bottles of water before Mrs. Schenk opened the bottle herself with the remark that she did not want her to cut her fingers.

Witness said she saw Albert Schenk frequently in the house and go up stairs. She recalled that he was often in John's room, when she always stepped out.

Witness denied she had ever quarreled with Mrs. Schenk over the children singing, "What's the Matter with Father? He's all right," and that she (the nurse) had taught them this song. She said Mrs. Schenk once remonstrated with them for singing the song loud because, she said, she was afraid John would hear them and would think they were making fun of him.

"Mrs. Kline, the detective nurse, came to the hospital to try to trap Mrs. Schenk, and you were there to aid her, weren't you?"

"I did not know if I was to aid her."

"You knew she was to trap Mrs. Schenk if she could?"

"I knew she was a detective, and I suppose that is what detectives do."

Witness, in reply to further questions, told of Mrs. Schenk sending milk, eggs, and chicken broth to the hospital, but that none of this food was given to the patient. Asked if it was poisoned, witness said she di dnot know.

ROBIN BANKER INDICTED.

W. L. Brower of the Northern Accused of Perjury.

The Grand Jury which has been investigating the relations between Joseph G. Robin and the various organizations he controlled filed an indictment before Judge Swann in General Sessions yesterday charging William L. Brower, ex-Vice President of the Northern Bank of New York, with perjury in that he filed a false statement in regard to the assets of that institution. As soon as the indictment was found his counsel, Arthur B. La Far, was notified, and at 2 o'clock Brower appeared in court and pleaded not guilty to the indictment. He was released on $3,000 bail.

It is charged in the indictment that on Aug. 31 Brower, then Vice President of the Northern Bank, filed a statement with the Superintendent of Banks in which he swore to items therein which were not true. Among these items was a statement of the aggregate amount of specie, legal tender notes, and notes of National banks held by the Northern at the close of business on Aug. 31.

According to the indictment this amount was stated to be $949,405.09, while in reality it was only $893,157.25. The difference was a long overdue check drawn on the Northern Bank by the Bankers' Realty and Security Company, a corporation owned by Robin, in the amount of $56,247, which, by Robin's orders, was carried as a cash item instead of being presented for payment.

It was also learned last night that the Grand Jury had ordered indictments against four other officials in the Robin concerns and that they would be handed up to-day. The Grand Jury yesterday started its investigation into the relations between Robin and the South Shore Traction Company, and it is said that in a few days indictments against several other persons connected with that concern will be found.

Judge Holt has appointed Peter Alexander receiver in bankruptcy for the Bankers' Realty and Security Company of Forty-second Street and Broadway, which was controlled by Robin, with a bond of $5,000. Alba K. Alford, Special Deputy Superintendent of Banks, in charge of the Northern Bank, stated that the company owes $11,766 to the bank and owes $70,000 to the Washington Savings Bank, that Robin is in the Tombs, and that the other Directors are dummies. The assets of the company are estimated at $145,000 in equities in real estate, which is mortgaged.

BIG CORONATION PLANS.

Festivities to Last Twelve Days—Royal Progresses in London.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Executive Committee having in charge the plans in connection with the coronation of King George met to-day and completed tentative arrangements.

The ceremony will, if anything, be on a more extensive scale than King Edward's coronation. The route of the procession to Westminster Abbey on June 22 will be the same as on the last occasion. A royal progress through the capital will take place on June 23. Still another royal procession, to the Guildhall for the Corporation entertainment, has been arranged for a subsequent day.

The coronation festivities will extend from June 19 to June 30, and will include a naval review at Spithead, at which the King will be present, probably a military review, and a royal reception in honor of the colonial and foreign envoys.

BRITISH ISLES STORMSWEPT.

Many Vessels Driven Ashore—Seaside Towns Flooded.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—A gale of hurricane force, accompanied at many points by a heavy snowfall, broke over the British Isles early to-day. Much damage has been done both on land and at sea.

Huge seas are running on the coasts, and many minor wrecks, but with few casualties, are reported.

The bays are filled with shipping which has sought shelter from the storm and exciting scenes have been witnessed, as many small craft dragged their anchors and were driven ashore. The life-saving crews have been busy taking imperiled sailors from their boats.

Seaside towns are invaded by the high waters and have suffered considerably. Telegraph lines have been blown down at many places inland.

Police Capt. Tappin Dismissed.

Capt. John S. Tappin was dismissed from the police force by order of Commissioner Cropsey yesterday afternoon. Tappin was charged with having tried to coerce his men, but denied it. Commissioner Cropsey investigated the denial and the dismissal is the result.

FOG FAILS TO CHECK LUSITANIA'S SPEED

Cuts Through It Off This Coast After One of Her Fastest Trips from Europe.

LORD DECIES BACK AGAIN

Didn't Have Enough Cash to Pay Duty on Mrs. Gould's Gowns—Some of the Other Passengers.

The Cunarder Lusitania, with a host of prominent passengers on board, arrived last night after one of the fastest Winter passages since her entry into the transatlantic service. Favored by friendly winds and seas the liner made the crossing in 4 days 13 hours and 35 minutes. She was abeam the Ambrose Channel light at 5:10 o'clock last night. The vessel was fortunate in getting away from Queenstown at 8:25 A. M. last Sunday.

The last forty-eight hours of her voyage she made in a burst of speed which averaged nearly 26 knots an hour. During the twenty-four hours ending Wednesday noon, she made 647 knots, and to noon yesterday 650 knots. The last was the best day's run of the voyage. She met some fog approaching this coast, but the weather was not thick enough to retard her progress.

Among the passengers was Lord Decies, whose engagement to Miss Vivien Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, was announced a few days ago. Lord Decies, who was last here as a judge at the Horse Show, expects to remain in New York about three weeks. He would not discuss his engagement. Indeed, he said, his plans were so indefinite that he could not even tell what he was going to do during his stay in America. He went to the Waldorf-Astoria.

Lord Decies did not court publicity, and he came over under his name, Major Beresford. He was met at the pier by a representative of Mr. Gould. Just before sailing he executed a commission for Mrs. Gould and brought back a number of gowns which she had purchased abroad.

Lord Decies declared them, but when the Custom House, after an appraisal, decided to assess about $1,000 in duty, he found that he did not have in cash half of that amount. He remained on the pier for quite a while after the vessel berthed, but as the Government requires cash in the payment of revenue, he decided to leave Mrs. Gould's gowns in the Government possession until to-day, when the duty will be paid.

On his first visit to this country Viscount Exmouth, a young man who succeeded to the title when he was only eleven years old, arrived on the Lusitania. He is going to visit friends in Philadelphia. He will remain on this side some months, during which, he said, he expects to see something of the country. When asked whether he was engaged he appeared startled and said that was the second time such a question had been asked him. He denied his rumored engagement and when asked whether he was on matrimony bent he smiled and said: "I may be as fortunate as Lord Decies."

Another arrival on the liner was Sir John Barran, Member of Parliament from Hawick of Burghs. He and Lady Barran are here on a three weeks' visit to the latter's father, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church.

"There are no politics in England just now," said Sir John. "Just at this time everybody is away on vacation, taking a needed rest and awaiting the coming Parliament. There is an air of suspense for it is a critical time in England, and much may happen there within the next few months. I expect to be home by the time Parliament convenes."

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mackay of Chicago arrived. Mrs. Mackay said that their homecoming would be a very brief one, as they expect to return to their estate in Warwickshire for the hunting season.

Another arrival was Dr. Paul Faber, general colonization agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who returns from a stay of some weeks in England, where he went on business.

Miss Hattie Williams, the actress, was another passenger.

Capt. Sidney A. Cloman of the Twenty-third United States Infantry, the Military Attaché of the United States Embassy in London, was one of the passengers. A fellow-traveler was Col. T. Idogawa of the Japanese Army. Others on board were J. Edward Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. William Beardmore, G. C. Blickensderfer, John Leopold Brodie, Robert H. Burrows, Reginald Burton, Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, Hugh Chisholm, Capt. A. L. Cunningham, Herman Ellis, Count and Countess Staeffen d'Ermbrache.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Gordon, E. J. Hazen, Oscar Hammerstein, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull, Clifford B. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockhart, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Macfarlane, Mrs. Harrington Mann, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Montgomery, F. J. Otis, A. Spottiswoode Ritchie, W. Beverly Robinson, A. J. Sulley, Dr. H. L. Tevis, Mrs. F. C. Van Duzer, and Gen. Stephen M. Weld and Mrs. Weld.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 12.—The results of the elections announced to-day, show the composition of the Diet practically unchanged. The Socialists, with their agrarian allies, have a majority of three, the same as before. The Christian-Laborites returned their single number.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—A Zeppelin balloon hall is to be built at Potsdam not far from the new palace. Emperor William is interested in the project, and personally intervened to overcome difficulties in the purchase of the site.

TAFT AGAIN ARGUES FOR TARIFF BOARD

SEEKS TO AVOID FRICTION

Association Had Demanded Prompt Legislation Creating a Body with Powers Like Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Significant progress was made to-day in the movement for the creation of a permanent tariff commission. Not only did President Taft, in an address at the banquet of the National Tariff Commission Association, openly endorse the Longworth bill characterizing it "as a conciliatory measure embodying all the important features that are necessary to make the commission effective," but early to-day he summoned the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee to the White House and urged them to harmonize their differences.

The President renewed his plea for harmony in his speech to-night, declaring that what he was most anxious to avoid was the failure of tariff commission legislation at the present session because of any difference as to details. He declared that he had had no part in framing "the bill that bears the name of an Ohio Congressman," but that it seemed to him "to constitute a very well-drawn compromise upon all the differences of detail that have existed between the supporters of various measures"—"a conciliatory measure embodying all the important features that are necessary to make the commission effective."

"What I am in favor of," said the President, "is a bill which will get through both houses without acrimonious dispute over unimportant features of the bill and without arousing either jealousy or suspicion or partisan and unreasonable criticism.

"The present Tariff Board is working well, but it is dependent wholly on executive order and an appropriation. It should be made permanent in some form so that any Congress which may desire to avoid the useful source of information which it will furninsh shall have to take the responsibility or repealing the laws."

The Longworth bill referred to by the President, according to the admission of its author is an incorporation of salient features in the Lenroot and the Goode bills of the House and the La Follette and the Beveridge bills of the Senate and provides for inquisitorial powers for the tariff commission as well as the safeguarding of information obtained.

The Association's Resolutions.

The National Tariff Commission Association in closing its session to-day had practically indorsed the Longworth bill in a resolution sent to Congress.

This resolution which was said to be in recognition of the "platform planks in twenty-eight states" in the recent election as well as what was characterized "as the will of the whole country," demanded of Congress the passage at the present session of legislation creating a permanent Tariff Commission "having functions and compensation analogous to those of the Inter-State Commerce Commission."

The resolution asked that the giving of testimony be properly safeguarded and that information secured by the commission be reported "to either branch of Congress or to the President, as called for." The Longworth bill before the House like the Lodge bill in the Senate provides for the furnishing of reports "at the joint request of both houses," and to-day's resolution was said to have been framed especially to secure the amendment in this respect.

A resolution indorsing "the proposal of President Taft that hereafter the work of tariff revision, whenever required, shall be accomplished schedule by schedule, or, preferably, subject by subject," had also been passed unanimously.

It was in amplification of this resolution that the President spoke to-night, many members of the Senate and House being present at the banquet, and among the other speakers were Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Cummins of Iowa, and Representative Longworth of Ohio.

"You do not desire," said Mr. Taft, "if I understand your present resolutions, that these men shold fix tariff rate or recommend rates to be fixed. You desire only that they should furnish the correct information upon which the body constitutionally charged with fixing tariff rates may properly act, so that the public may have the truth from the Tariff Commission, and then advise itself how Congress shall have acted with respect to that truthful presentation of premises for its action.

"There are those who oppose the existing tariff and criticise it severely. There are those who uphold it as a fair measure on the whole. Now, it seems to me that both may logically and properly support the creation of a commission whose findings, if the former are right, will indicate the necessity for tariff changes, and that the latter may well and consistently support the same commission with the hope and belief that its investigations will show that the present tariff is not unjust or unequal in its operation, or, if so, that it is only so in the case of a few schedules.

"I am not one of those who expect that the Tariff Commission is going to reform the whole situation in such a way that we are to receive from them with mathematical certainty the exact difference in the cost of production here and abroad, or other circumstances that are useful in framing a tariff bill. Matters of that kind are necessarily matters not of exact ascertainment, but of judgment and general average.

As a Fountain of Facts.

"But I do hope that if the bill passes, the results of the labors of the commission will be such that the Congress will have sufficient information to reach a general average of fairness and justice, and that the people will have a reliable means of judging of the correctness of the action of Congress. Then if Congress shall depart from the economic theory of a majority of the people in the action taken upon this reliable information offered, the people will have recourse to the method adopted so often in the past—that of turning out the party in power, and putting in a new party to carry out the then prevailing popular theory. But it is of the utmost importance that the action both of Congress and of the people shall be taken on reliable evidence. Anything that tends to make that evidence and the conclusions from it fair and freer from political bias ought to be encouraged.

"I quite agree with this association in favoring a consideration by Congress of separate schedules or separate subjects matter affected by the tariff so as to prevent the action upon one schedule from being unduly influenced by promised action upon another. It is impossible to avoid this in a general revision.

"What I am most anxious to avoid in the present movement is a defeat of the bill growing out of a difference as to details. There are many differences of opinion as to details of proposed bills, conscientiously entertained and regarded as very important. A discussion has arisen as to what the name of the body should be. I am indifferent to this. A discussion arises as to whether the body thus constituted should have the power of summoning witnesses and of punishing them for contempt. My own impression is that this matter of obtaining evidence is not the most reliable, and is not likely to be very productive of useful information, because the form is necessarily suggestive of hostility to the witness, and the answers of a hostile witness are not full of accurate and unbiased information.

"Nevertheless, if it is thought useful, I do not object to giving the power to the commission to call witnesses and to put them under oath. The reference of power to punish a witness for contempt in failing to answer to the action of Congress is a wise compromise. I value very highly the suggestion of giving to the commission power to assure those furnishing freely information that the details of their particular businesses thus disclosed will be treated as confidential.

"In order to secure non-partisanship in the commission it is proposed that not more than a majority of the commission shall be taken from one party. By such restrictions I have been very much embarrassed by some of my appointments, and they have made it necessary for me to try to find out the political party of the proposed candidate when I should have appointed him without inquiring at all, but for the requirements. Still I do not object to this restriction if it is thought wise, because it may give the public more confidence in the commission. Nor do I object to the increase of the board from three to five. Nor to the confirmation of the President's nominees by the Senate, for they are important officers, and should pass the scrutiny of the confirming power"

STANDARD OIL URGES HURT OF DISSOLUTION

ROCKEFELLER AS A GENIUS

So Painted by J. G. Milburn, Who Admits Many of Companies Have No Independent Existence as Values.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Standard Oil attorneys to-day argued before the Supreme Court of the United States against the proposed dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as violative of the Sherman anti-trust law. For three hours John G. Milburn of New York addressed the court. To-morrow Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota will present the Government's side of the controversy. The arguments will not be concluded until next Tuesday.

The original proceeding was in the Eastern division of the Eastern district of Missouri against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and seventy-eight other defendants.

Mr. Milburn sought to show what wrongs would be involved in the carrying out of the dissolution decree of the lower court, and in particular declared that by compelling the Standard of New Jersey to give to each of its stockholders a proportionate share in each of the corporations whose stock it held the small holders of stock would be seriously embarrassed. For instance, the man who owned one share of stock in the Standard of New Jersey would get script for 28 cents worth of stock in one company and $2.50 worth in another. This would not be marketable, he suggested.

Furthermore, he made the statement that the decree would be ruinous to much of the properties, because the companies had no independent existence. Then as Attorney General Wickersham was observed to scribble down a note, Mr. Milburn added, "From the point of view of value."

In reciting the conditions in the oil business between 1860 and 1870, Mr. Milburn introduced to the court the character of John D. Rockefeller.

"There was out there in Cleveland," said he, "a young man in the early 60's with a small amount of money which he had saved. He had the genius for business and there is a genius for business just as there is a genius for war, or poetry or painting. That man was John D. Rockefeller. He saw that this overproduction of refineries was to be met by a volume of business so as to withstand the lower profits."

He then told how Rockefeller allied himself with Andrews, a practical oil refiner, and how with the exercise of Rockefeller's genius for business and their consequent good standing among financiers, they grew rapidly.

Mr. Milburn dwelt particularly upon the period of acquisition, which he said closed in 1879, the trust agreement of 1892 and the new arrangement of ownership in 1899. Acquisition had never been made, Mr. Milburn told the court, with an intent to restrain or to monopolize interstate trade. Most of the purchases were made, he said, before 1879.

"We thought that it was only the decent thing to do if a man came to us," said Mr. Milburn, "with a proposition to sell out to buy his plant at its appraised value. Often it was practically worthless, and we could have permitted it go to dry rot in his hands."

He denied the charges of the Government that the Standard Oil had the advantages of such preferences from the railroads during the period of acquisition that it should now be punished. The contracts between the railroads and the Standard were not in restraint of trade, he contended, "when viewed in the light of the days in which they were made."

He explained to the court that the South Improvement Company was incorporated in 1872 upon the insistence of the railroads. The railroads and oil refiners were parties to it. They were to carry on a common business and distribute the profits. Mr. Milburn said that the State of Pennsylvania repealed the charter of the company before it could carry a ton of freight.

In connection with the trust agreement of 1892, whereby Trustees exchanged their certificates for the stock of the various "common owners" of Standard Oil companies, Mr. Milburn maintained that the Supreme Court of Ohio did not decide that the "trust" was illegal, but simply required the Standard Oil Company of Ohio to withdraw from the trust agreement.

Extended remarks of Mr. Milburn about the reorganization of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in 1899, which is the thing which the decree of the lower court would undo, were summarized by Justice Hughes.

"The net result," suggested Justice Hughes, "is that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey after 1899 stood in the place of the Trustees, and those who held the certificates issued by the Trustees thereafter held the stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey?"

"Precisely," said Mr. Milburn. "It is quite simple when you understand it. You see, there was the same body of common owners of the property both before and after 1899."

At this point he referred to the argument of the Standard upon which it is pinning its faith in the present controversy, that the new arrangement of 1899 did not supress competition in any way, because the properties before 1899 were not competing, being owned by the same persons.

Justice Van Devanter, who, as a Judge in the Circuit Court, passed on the case in the lower court and held that the organization should be dissolved, was in his seat to-day. No announcement was made as to whether or not he would participate in the preparation of an opinion by the court.

The Standard Oil case was taken up after the court had spent the greater part of a week listening to the argument in the dissolution suit against the American Tobacco Companies.

In his closing remarks in the Tobacco suit to-day Attorney General Wickersham declared that except for the corporate organization sought to be dissolved by the Government the American Tobacco interest would not "have come within a million miles" of the power it exerts to-day

RARE BOOKS OFFERED AT STEDMAN SALE

First Editions of Thomas Bailey Aldrich's Works Taken at Good Prices.

BROWNING LETTERS SOLD

They Refer to Differing Opinions of Robert and Elizabeth Browning in Regard to Spiritualism.

First editions of the works of Thomas Bailey Aldrich and a remarkable series of unpublished letters, written by Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning on spiritualism, were among the many interesting items in the first two sessions of the sale of the library and autograph collection of the late Edmund Clarence Stedman, held at Anderson's yesterday. The Browning letters relate to the manifestations of a clever and successful medium, Daniel Dunglas Horne, whom Browning considered a humbug, thereby differing radically from his gifted wife, who believed Horne's manifestations to be trustworthy. Horne, who was born in Edinburgh in 1833, came to America when 9 years old, and lived with his aunt at Greeneville, Conn., until after his mother's death, when there were such mysterious rappings in the house that the aunt called in the clergy to exorcise the supposed evil spirits. As they failed to do so she turned her nephew out of the house.

In 1855, after numerous séances in this country, Horne went to England, where he created a sensation. Among his audience, at one of his séances in London, were the Brownings.

In a letter dated London, July 25, 1855, Browning tells of his attending one of formance most clumsy," Browning wrote. This letter sold for $48 to G. H. Richmond.

On Oct. 30, (1855,) Mrs. Browning writes that she and her husband "differed much" about home, but "to take up a cudgel conjugally is somewhat difficult." This brought $47.50 (Richmond.) On Dec. 17, (1855,) she writes again, that she could not be mistaken about the manifestations. This sold for $48, (Richmond.) On Feb. 29, (1856,) she writes: "Home is mostly worthless, but a medium." This sold for $47, (Richmond.) The series of letters on this subject ends with a letter from Robert Browning, dated Jan. 6, 1871, declining to allow the correspondence to be published, and saying: "I should thereby give the unmitigated scoundrel a right, as well as an opportunity, to retaliate after his natural fashion by a fresh vomit of lies, such as he printed five years ago in a Spiritual magazine, wherein, referring to this very seance, he attributed all my unbelief to my ludicrous 'jealousy' of my wife, whom the spirits crowned as The Poet passing over me." This sold for $54, (Smith.) A presentation copy of "Casa Guidi Windows" from Mrs. Browning to Mrs. Kenney, sold for $200 on order.

The Aldrich first editions, all presentation copies and nearly all with letters of Aldrich inserted, sold as follows: "The Bells," New York, 1855, $21; "Daisy's Necklace and What came of It," New York, 1857, $19; "The Ballad of Labie Bell," New York, 1860, $33; "Pampinea and other Poems," New York, 1861, $26; "Out of His Head," New York, 1862, $17; "The Story of a Bad Boy," Boston, 1870, earliest issue of the first edition, of which only twelve copies were printed, $126; "Marjorie Daw and Other ePople,," Boston, 1873, $37; "Cloth of Gold and Other Poems," Boston, 1874, $22; "Prudence Palfrey," Boston, 1874, $32; "Flower and Thorn," Boston, 1877, $17.50; "The Queen of Sheba,' Boston, 1877, $61; "The Stillwater Tragedy," Boston, 1880, $30.

Suits Against Foreign Built Yachts.

United States Attorney Wise filed yesterday in the Circuit Court papers in two additional suits to recover for the Government the tonnage tax imposed on foreign built yachts under the customs law. The two yachts involved in the proceedings are James Gordon Bennett's Lysistrata, which is taxed to the amount of $13,601 under the law, and H. Clay Pierce's Yacona, which is taxed to the amount of $3,682. Both yachts were built and are registered in England.

THE "WHY" OF MACY'S LOW PRICES

For over half a century the Macy store has been known far and wide for its strict adherence to the policy upon which the success and growth of the establishment are based. R. H. Macy, the founder of the business, had one guiding idea:

To sell good merchandise at lower prices than any other house, but for cash only.

One example of the savings afforded by buying at Macy's is our price on the latest fiction—98c. These books are sold nowhere else at less than $1.08. And this underpricing of 10% on low-priced books is indicative of a much greater saving on merchandise where large sums are involved. It is not unusual for other stores to charge double our prices for fine art wares—bronzes, statuary, paintings.

But because we are the only house selling solely for cash, it is and has been easy for us to undersell all others.

Shoppers who have occasion to compare our prices with those of competitors soon realize that

In the few exceptions to this rule—as soon as we find out that the special prices of others are below our regular prices—we cut as much as is necessary to sustain the Macy reputation for underselling supremacy.

"The higher the price, the greater the saving when you buy at Macy's," has become axiomatic.

CHAIN OF NINE FIRES BLAZES DOWNTOWN

FIREMEN ARE HARD PRESSED

Kept on the Jump for Nearly Twenty Hours and Many Laid Up from Exhaustion.

Firemen in quarters south of Canal Street were forced to fight nine fires, three of them of two-alarm proportions, between 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday night and 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the last being in the Gook's Tour Building at 245 Broadway.

Chief Croker, Deputy Chief Binns, and Battalion Chief Davin, who directed the men at the last fire, had been present at each of the other two-alarm fires, Binns and Davin having only just left the ruins of 108-110 Duane Street, which caught fire on Wednesday night, when they had to turn out for the Broadway blaze. Most of the men of the engine and truck companies had been at work on the other fiers, too, and many of them, including Binns and Davin, had been burned about the faces and hands by backdraughts.

The Broadway fire, which started at 5:30, a time when homeward-bound workers thronged City Hall Park, opposite which the Cook Building stands, provided a spectacle which the police estimated was viewed by 100,000 persons. Business men, clerks, and girl stenographers thronged the park to watch the blaze, and the reserves of the Greenwich, Oak, Elizabeth, Leonard, Madison, and Eldridge Street stations were called out by Inspector Hogan to form fire lines. The lines were placed so that almost all of City Hall Park was barred off, but thousands of persons had got inside these limits before the police arrived and they could not be driven out.

The fire burned briskly for more than an hour, and in that time few who observed it continued on the way home. As a result, the Subway, Broadway, Madison and Third Avenue surface cars and the entire B. R. T. system, both elevated and surface, faced an inundation of passengers when the throng finally broke away from the fire. Cars on all these lines were jammed and schedules were thrown out of operation by the sudden influx of passengers, all of whom were in a hurry now that they had wasted an hour's time in the street.

The blaze in the Cook Building was discovered by Policeman Bennin of Traffic Squad A, who noticed, as darkness settled over the city and lights began to flash in office and store windows, that the windows on the fifth and sixth floors of the Cook Building were suspiciously bright. No flames or smoke appeared, but Bennin ran to a fire alarm box.

Several companies, still at work on the Duane Street ruins, had to come only a few blocks, yet by the time they arrived flames were shooting from the windows of the fifth and sixth floors on the Broadway side. The building is "L" shaped, its extension running through to 2 Murray Street. The flames did not work through to this side, however, and while the firemen were busy in Broadway some one noticed three girls and a man huddled on the fourth floor fire escape in Murray Street, apparently too frightened to descend the vertical ladders from floor to floor and thence to the street.

Driver John Ziegler of Truck 10 learned of the group on the escape, and with the help of volunteers lifted a twenty-five-foot ladder from the truck and raised it to the lower fire escape. Ziegler mounted to the fourth floor, where he found that one of the girls, a Miss Walsh, who, like the others, was employed in the tourist agency, had fainted. He lifted her over his shoulder and, ordering the others to follow him, started down the ladders. Smoke was coming from the windows by this time, but with Ziegler to lead them the young man and the other girls stuck to the ladders until they reached the sidewalk in safety. There Miss Walsh's senses returned and she went home, as did the others. They said they were Miss De Krueger, Miss Plunkitt, and Arnold Carter.

The fire had started, apparently, in the basement, and ascending an airshaft had spread out on the fifth and sixth floors, from which it began to eat its way downward. Water Tower 1 was stationed in Broadway, and high-pressure streams were thrown into the building from other pieces of apparatus. In the top floor, apparently, were stored quantities of inflammable materials, however, for the blaze burned briskly despite the tons of water thrown into it.

The floor was occupied by Everson & Reed, makers of rubber stamps and dealers in stationery. The fear that some of their raw materials might be of the sort to explode caused the police to drive the fire lines back nearly to Park Row. With the exception of this floor and the second, where are the offices of Edgar Tate, patent lawyer, the whole building was occupied by the tourist agency.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, when the throng was thickest about the building, the roof caved in, carrying away the sixth and fifth floors and sending a shower of burning embers and sparks from all the windows on the Broadway and Murray Street sides. The noise of the falling roof and the shower of sparks made it seem that the dreaded explosion had come, and the watching crowds fled wildly in all directions for safety.

It was nearly 7 o'clock before the fire was under control, and then the three top floors were in ruins, while everything else in the building was damaged by water. How the fire started is not known.

The other two two-alarm fires with which the firemen had to contend were at 108 and 110 Duane Street and 81 Pine Street, the former starting at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday night and the latter at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. High pressure was used in both instances, and but for this, the firemen said, these fires, as well as yesterday's Broadway blaze, would have been of four-alarm proportions. The whole fire-fighting force of the lower end of the city was called out for the nine fires, and last night substitutes had to be sent to many of the firehouses to replace men who were exhausted by nearly twenty-four hours of unceasing work.

REBUKES ESTATE APPRAISER.

Surrogate Cohalan Says H. Andrews Showed Disregard of Rights of State.

In an opinion in which he declared that the transfer tax appraiser had shown, to his mind, "a most reprehensible disregard of the rights of the State of New York," Surrogate Cohalan ordered yesterday a reappraisal of the estate of Francis H. Leggett, the wholesale grocer, who died last August. The appraiser filed his report on Jan. 3, in which it was set forth that the gross estate amounted to $2,408,613 and the net estate, after deductions for administration and funeral expenses, amounted to $2,193,874. Harvey Andrews was the appraiser.

It was in reference to the setting down of certain stocks as valueless that the Surrogate was particularly withering. In certain particulars, he said, the appraiser appeared to have acted "as if his duty were to make the amount of the tax coming to the State of New York as small as possible, rather than to arrive at a conclusion fair to both the State of New York and the estate which he had been appointed to appraise.

"The only evidence contained in his report as to the value of the shares of the Siegel Stores Corporation is the opinion of the financial expert employed by the attorney for the State Controller. The State financial expert places a valuation of $100 per share upon this stock; the appraiser reports it as having no value.

"The State financial expert places a valuation of $75 a share on the preferred stock of the Hammond Lumber Company, and a valuation of $50 a share upon the common stock of that company. Using these figures as a basis of computation, the total valuation of the stock of this company held by the decedent would be $553,500. The appraiser fixes the valuation at $410,000, without stating the basis of his valuation or the reason of his failure to accept the figures given by the State financial expert.

"The appraiser's report will be remitted to him for the purpose of supplying the deficiencies and correcting the errors above indicated."

ASK VAN DYKE NOT TO RESIGN

Princeton Trustees Name a Committee to Urge Him to Reconsider.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 12.—The Trustees of Princeton University met in the Library Building to-day to consider several important matters. One of them was the resignation from the Murray Professorship of English Literature of Dr. Henry Van Dyke, '73. The Trustees voted to refuse to accept his resignation, instead of appointing a committee to ask a reconsideration. It is believed that Dr. Van Dyke will be firm in his stand, however.

The committee on a President for Princeton made a report, but what it was could not be learned. It is believed that a President will have been agreed on by the next regular meeting in June. Dr. Wilson's family left Prospect to-night, and now have quarters at the Princeton Inn, where they will live indefinitely.

It was announced that William Cooper Procter had presented $500,000 to the Graduate College, notwithstanding that the Trustees had been unable to raise a like amount by Jan. 1. Mr. Procter had stipulated in renewing his offer to give $500,000 to the Graduate College last Spring that an equal sum should be raised by the Trustees by Jan. 1 for the endowment of the preceptorial system of undergraduate instruction. The Trustees said that $200,000 additional had been subscribed, mainly for the Graduate College.

With the Swann bequest of $325,000, the Cleveland Memorial Fund, nearly $100,000, and the Wyman bequest, the Graduate College will start with funds aggregating $4,000,000.

WHITE FOR PARDON BOARD.

Former Governor Says Executive Cannot Devote Required Time to Cases.

SYRACUSE, Jan. 12.—Former Gov. Horace White believes the right of executive clemency should rest with a tribunal especially equipped, not with the Governor. In reviewing his record of pardons he said here to-night, over his signature:

"In my opinion the Governor should be relieved from the arduous duty of investigating, considering, and deciding applications for pardons, commutations, reprieves, and restorations to citizenship. The work and responsibility should be vested in a tribunal especially equipped by training and fitness to undertake it.

"It is physically impossible for any Governor of the State to perform his other work, have opportunity for study upon it, and at the same time give appropriate attention to this line of duty. State interests require thorough scrutiny of and judicial action on these applications. Each year the need becomes more apparent from a moral, economical, and sociological point of view."

Mr. White says that during his brief term as Governor out of 820 applications for pardons he found not one which seemed to justify itself, and that accordingly he issued no pardons and no reprieves. In seventy-four cases where application for restoration to citizenship had been made, he acted favorably.

RATS AND CORSETS ALIKE.

Court Upholds Loeb in Defining Hair Supports as Wearing Apparel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Judge de Vries of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, in a case heard to-day dealing with the technical relations between rats, puffs, marcel waves, hair rolls, and other necessaries of the feminine coiffure, upholds Collector Loeb, who contended that rats are "wearing apparel of every description," subject to a duty of 44 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem.

As the rats under discussion were composed of 25 per cent. mohair, 70 per cent. metal, and 5 per cent. cotton, the importer contended they were dutiable as manufactures of metal at 45 per cent. The court did not agree with that view.

"It is well known," said Judge de Vries, "that the use of this article is as a support, by means of which the hair is arranged according to the prevailing mode. In this respect their use is not unlike corsets, which have long been held to be wearing apparel."

PURDY CALLS TAX A SCANDALOUS FARCE

REAL ESTATE MEN PROTEST

Dr. Korn Charges That Utica Conference Was Arranged to Shift Taxation from Personal Property to Realty.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The State tax conference, now being held in this city, was to-day thrown into some consternation when charges were made in open session that the gathering had been arranged in the interests of corporations, who were attempting to saddle all taxes upon real estate.

It is the first State wide conference on taxation ever held in this State. Delegates are present representing thirty-five counties and twenty cities and villages, five colleges and universities and a number of organizations. The number in attendance is about 200. New York City has a large delegation present.

Dr. Abraham Korn of New York, President of the Harlem Property Owners' Association, and a member of the Board of Directors of the United Real Estate Owners' Association of New York, wanted to know why some members of the big real estate associations of New York City were not chosen as delegates to the conference.

Mr. Pleydell, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, replied that the delegates from New York City were champions of the single tax idea, with the purpose, he charged, of transferring taxes from personal property to real estate. He urged that the real estate interests paid by far the largest proportion of the taxes and should be well represented at conferences.

Chairman Woodbury reminded Dr. Korn that the question before the house was the discussion of the papers just read and not an argument about the merits of real estate or other associations. Dr. Korn stated afterward that the United Real Estate Owners' Association of New York City, representing seven large real estate societies, had written to the committee in charge of the conference several days ago asking that the real estate associations be remembered in the selections of the delegates to the conference.

He said a brief reply was received to the effect that the delegates had already been chosen. With Dr. Korn at the conference were Thomas Krekeler, President of the Taxpayers' Association of the Tenth, Eleventh, and Seventeenth Wards of New York and resident in Brooklyn, and Ira J. Ettinger, also of Broadway. Mr. Ettinger is a member of the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the Twelfth and Twenty-second Wards, and of the Tenement House Committee, and of the Law and Legislation Committee of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations. Dr. Korn said that they came to register a strong protest against the real estate societies of New York City being left out of the tax conference.

Among the papers read was one by Lawson Purdy, President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, New York City, who spoke in favor of the abolition of the general personal property tax, which he characterized as a "scandalous farce." Such taxation, he maintained, was not only grossly unjust, but produced relatively little revenue. He said in part:

"The subject of this paper means the abolition of the general property tax on personal property. It does not mean the abolition of the special taxes on personal property, which now yield far more revenue than the miserable remnant of personal property still subject to local taxation.

"During the last thirty years the tax has been imposed, sometimes in lieu of the property tax and sometimes in addition to it. To-day we are obtaining a revenue from various special taxes on personal property far in excess of the revenue from the general personal tax. Personal taxes are rarely a burden on the rich, but they sometimes confiscate the meagre income of the poor. It is high time we made an end of a scandalous condition.

"Many instances will doubtless occur to you of men who prefer to own taxable lands of some western railroad and vote in Tuxedo rather than the bonds of our own Manhattan Railway and vote in New York. You have doubtless heard of domestic corporations who have palatial offices in New York and yet prefer to hold their annual meeting in their master's kitchen at Wading River or Painted Post.

"Why keep up the farce any longer? You can't dignify what they pay by the name of tax, for a tax is a contribution enforced by a sovereign power, and in this State no rich man need be liable for personal taxes unless he desires to be. You may occasionaly force some poor woman to pay half their income and call the payment taxes, but I don't. I call it blood money.

"In some places the law is enforced rigorously; in some it is not enforced at all. Enforcement produces gross injustice and often drives away capital. On the other hand nullification of any law is politically demoralizing. If personal taxes are too severe in one State rich men flee to another, as they have fled from Ohio and settled in New York.

"Any one who will read the Ohio assessment rolls and compare the results for the last sixty years will agree with the Ohio Tax Commissioners, who say that the Ohio law, with its demand for self-assessment by sworn itemized returns, is a failure and a fraud; that it drives capital from the State, imposes unjust burdens on the honest and defenseless, and makes Ohio a community of liars.

"The law is bad all through, bad in theory and bad in practice. The stronger it is the worse it is."

Papers were also read by Edward L. Heydecker, Assistant Tax Commissioner of New York City, and by A. C. Pleydell, Secretary of the New York Reform Association.

GOT DIVORCE AHEAD OF WIFE

Justice Goff Takes Official Note of Mr. Barton's Celerity.

Homer Barton wants to supplement his answer to his wife's suit for separation, filed last March, by noting the fact that in the interval he has sucessfully sued for divorce in the Missouri courts. He would set it up as a bar to the action in the New York courts. In an opinion handed down on two motions in the case Justice Goff refers to the "celerity of the defendant's movements."

Last April Mrs. Barton applied for alimony and counsel fees, pending the trial of her action, and at that time her husband expressed his love for his wife and his willingness to support her. The motion was denied on April 11.

Just twelve days after this denial Barton filed his petition for divorce in Missouri, and on July 12 a decree was rendered by default. Justice Goff says that there is nothing in the record to show that Mrs. Barton was ever served with process. He denies Mrs. Barton's renewed motion for alimony because the renewal was made without permission.

BALKED AT HIS CONTRACT.

Lawyer Hayes Justifies His Stand in $3,500 Suit Brought by a Realty Co.

The McClellan-Carroll Realty Construction Company lost yesterday the suit for $3,500, brought against Lawyer George B. Hayes, an amount which they contended was still due on a contract for building in West Eighth Street. It was his defense that because he balked at the terms he was met by a sort of boycott from other builders that made it impossible for him to take building loans.

According to the contention of the plaintiff the contract was originally made with a woman owner, who, when she found that the work could be done on lower terms, turned the title over to Hayes.

F. C. DALE FIGHTS WIFE'S SUIT

Deserted Him, He Says, on Return from Reno—Went There for Health.

Francis C. Dale, brother of Chalmers Dale, filed yesterday his answer to the suit for separation brought by his wife, Lillian, daughter of Dr. Frank Patterson, and Justice Goff vacated the order giving Mrs. Dale permission to serve notice of the action by publication.

When she obtained the order some weeks ago, she explained that her husband had gone to Reno, but he explains that he went for his health, and that he is back now, living at the Republican Club and still maintaining his office at 43 Exchange Place.

He declares that it was his wife who deserted him and that his letters to her from the West were all expressive of his loneliness without her.

Mrs. White is recovering from an attack of appendicitis, for which she was recently operated upon. The former Ambassador asked about the failure of the Carnegie Trust and appeared to be in favor of the central bank idea.

PACIFIC MAIL GOT PANAMA R. R. PROFIT

TO RELIEVE WEST COAST

Railroad's Annual Report Says Competing Lines Caused a 50 Per Cent. Cut in Through Freight Charge.

The annual report of the Panama Railroad, which is owned by the United States Government, tells of steps taken last year to prevent the withdrawal of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, one of the Harriman lines, from participation in the through route from the Eastern to the Westen coast of the United States by way of the Isthmus, and recites that the Panama Railroad is now practically foregoing all profit on the northbound ocean haul in order to protect the West from exorbitant rates by other routes. At the same time the report complains of the effect on the Panama Railroad earnings of the antagonistic attitude of one of the recently established East and West water and rail routes, which resulted in a cut of nearly 50 per cent. in the through rates, in which reduction the Panama Railroad had to share.

Th episode involving the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which is controlled by the Southern Pacific, grew out of the insistence by the Panama Railroad that minimum rates in effect on coastwise traffic be continued, and the refusal of the Pacific Mail under those conditions to continue through billing of cargo on the established basis of division of the through rate between the Panama Railroad and the steamship company. This division could be changed only by mutual consent.

The position taken by the Pacific Mail, the report says, threatened the maintenance of the Panama route, the continuance of which was imperative, and in order to save it the Panama Railroad conceded to the Pacific Mail a new division of rates, the effect of which was that the northbound haul from Panama to New York by the Government steamships is done at a rate which barely covers the cost of handling.

"This step, which constitutes a surrender of possible earnings," the report says, "was taken advisedly by the Directors of the company, in order to carry out the Government's policy to develop the capacity of the Panama route to its fullest extent, in order to relieve, as far as consistently possible, the commercial community of the west coast of the United States from exorbitant rates by other routes."

Regarding the competition during the past year of the other routes operated between the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts the report says:

"During the coffee season of the year this company suffered, in addition to a very important diversion of coffee traffic to the Tehuantepec and Porto Barrios routes, a large loss in its legitimately anticipated earnings upon the cargo it actually carried, because of the antagonistic attitude adopted by one of the most recently enlisted competitors for the business, which compelled all other carriers concerned to make a cut of nearly 50 per cent. in through rates, in order to maintain any standing in the traffic. This compay, under continuing agreements with its co-carriers, was obliged to accept an established proportion of rates so reduced. It is expected for the ensuing season that more satisfactory arrangements will be established through the concurrence of all the other carriers concerned. Although the Panama Railroad Company is not a party to any such negotiations, its approval is required to make their results effective."

The commissary arrangements of the Panama Railroad, which include a system of retail stores, are described in the report in even more detail than in previous years. Among other information is given the prices charged by the railroad for all kinds of food sold through its commissary department.

WARNS GIRLS HERE OF DANGERS IN PARIS

WANTS TO RAISE $100,000

Says Further Protection for American and English Girls in the French Capital Is Imperative.

The dangers of life in Paris to unprotected girls and the need of help for them was the subject of a talk given at the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, Forty-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Ada Leigh Lewis. Mrs. Lewis is an English gentlewoman, who more than thirty years ago founded the Ada Leigh homes, which have done a vast amount of good work in Parish for English and American girls. One of these homes has now been condemned, taken down, and must be rebuilt, and another, Washington House, has been injured by the floods and requires immediate repairs, and Mrs. Lewis is endeavoring to raise $100,000.

Bishop Greer was expected to preside at the meeting yesterday, but was unable to be present, and the speakers were Bishop Courtney, the Rev. W. M. Grosvenor, the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, and Seth Low. Mr. Low's family has been interested in the work for many years and has given largely for its support. There was not a large audience, but $100 was taken up in a contribution.

"I should like to sound a warning to women not to take young girls over to Paris and leave them there," said Mrs. Lewis. "One case that we came to know about, the girl was engaged by a young American woman to act as governess to her little girl. The young woman had received her diploma in French, but, like most of us when we reach Paris for the first time, she found that her knowledge didn't amount to much. It would about take her across the street. The woman then advised her to get a place in Paris, as she must have some one who could speak French.

"Imagine sending a young girl out in Paris to get a place! This one was 23, she looked it, and had beautiful golden hair. She came back in about an hour and said she had found her place and showed the paper she had signed. The American woman knew enough to see that in the contract the girl had sold herself entirely and told her she must not take the place but to tear up the paper, which the girl did, and wrote that she had changed her mind. But she had signed a papier d'etat, and when you sign one of those in France if it should be a suicide pact you would almost be obliged to keep it. Neither of them knew anything about this.

"'I'm expecting my new governess, now,' the American woman continued, 'and you had better look for a lodging.' Think of sending out a young girl in Paris, who knows nothing of French, to look for a lodging! She chanced to go to 77 Avenue de Wagram, or we never should have known anything about it. She engaged her lodging with us. She had the best of references and many friends in America. We gave her a card designating her room and she went off to get her baggage and was coming back that night, but she did not. The next we knew about it was that a policeman presented the card and asked us to come and identify a body that had been found in the water.

"The police have been very good friends of ours, we know, too, that it is a good thing to obey laws, and we went. The only thing by which we could identify that poor girl was the gown she had worn. Her beautiful hair had been cut off close to her head, and her face was so mashed in that we would never have known it. She had not kept the agreement of her papier d'etat. We tried in every way to find out more about the case, but there was nothing to do.

"We tried to get trace of an American trunk, we searched in every way, but nothing could be learned. A cabman in Paris never knows anything of anything that goes on around him. The woman who had brought the girl to Paris had engaged her apartment for six months, but she gave it up and left immediately.

"In houses where American women go and pay $80 and $100 for a hat English and American girls are employed who are paid for their services two meals a day and nothing more. If one of them goes to Madam and asks if she cannot be lodged, Madam will tell her that she has no place there. 'Where shall I go?' the girl will ask. 'Cela ne me regarde pas,' Madam will return with a shrug. That is none of her business.

"Some one slipped a little paper into my hand one day asking me to go to a certain address and ask for 'Miss Lucy.' When I reached the place I found it was an American bar and there were seventeen American girls there. I had to manage very carefully, for they watched me, but I succeeded in having a little talk with Miss Lucy, and she told me what a terrible life it was. Her father and mother in America had written and made the engagement for her to speak English in a Parish shop and learn French. They were ambitious for her. The hours were from 3 in the afternoon to 6 in the morning, and the pay was in tips, and if the girls did not succeed in pleasing the patrons there were no tips."

Mrs. Lewis told of the founding of the home when she was a young girl herself. There were cards on the seats saying that checks for the work could be sent to H. W. Munroe, 30 Pine Street.

MOTHER'S GRUDGE IN A WILL.

Mrs. Frank Leaves Little to a Daughter Who Testified Against Brother.

Out of her estate of more than $20,000, Mrs. Henrietta Frank willed $1,500 to three of her daughters, according to the papers filed yesterday with the Surrogate. To the fourth daughter, Mrs. Rosa Lowenberger, she leaves only $1,000, giving this reason;

"I did not like and I disapproved of her conduct in appearing against my son in a lawsuit which he formerly had to defend and which was of considerable importance and expense."

To this son, Samuel Frank, she leaves her real estate and the residue of the estate. Mrs. Frank died on Dec. 17.

His Old Boys' Dinner to George White.

Principal George White of Public School 70 will be the guest to-morrow night at the Hotel Savoy at the annual dinner of the George White Alumni Association. Mr. White has been a teacher in the public schools for fifty-two years and has been in charge of the big school in East Seventy-fifth Street for thirty-three years. Among his old pupils who will be present and are likely to make speeches are Justice Francis H. Scott of the Appellate Division, ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, Judge Mulqueen of the Court of General Sessions, Magistrates Steinert and Marks, ex-Borough President Jacob A. Cantor, Abraham Gruber, Senator James J. Frawley, Assemblyman Patrick J. McGrath, and ex-Senator Elsberg.

Wants Bankrupt Funds Preferred.

An effort has been started in the United States District Court to declare the funds in bankruptcy cases deposited in the Carnegie Trust Company preferred claims. Samuel J. Goldsmith, receiver in bankruptcy for Frederick Rosenzweig, doing business as the Art Novelty Company, at 75 Spring Street, who had several thousand dollars on deposit by court order just prior to the company's closing, gave several checks to pay certain expenses, but the checks were returned unpaid. He applied to Judge Holt of the United States District Court yesterday for an order directing the Superintendent of Banks to honor the checks. The matter was made returnable on Monday.

PRINCE TROUBETZKOY HERE.

Noted Sculptor's First American Visit, Although His Mother Was Born Here.

Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, the sculptor, although his mother, who was Miss Winans, is an American, landed for the first time in America yesterday. He arrived on the Adriatic, and intends during his stay here to study thoroughly the development of American art. He is a sculptor of note and has been working at it seriously for twenty-five years since he was 19, although it is related that he began to make clay models of his relatives when he was only 8 years old.

The Prince's masterpiece is a bronze equestrian statue of the Czar Alexander III. at St. Petersburg. It stands over eighteen feet high and is remarkable for the vigor of its execution and its air of life. The horse is a departure from the conventional charger of statuary, and the Prince declared yesterday that he had taken for his model a strong cob belonging to the late Count Tolstoy, of whom he was an intimate friend.

The Princess Troubetzkoy, who is Swedish by birth, accompanies her husband. An exhibition of about seventy of the Prince's works will be held during his stay here.

WINS HIS CASE, STILL IN JAIL.

Ziegler Can't Get Out Because He Failed to Pay Alimony.

Although a Supreme Court jury found in his favor in a divorce action yesterday, Herman Ziegler, an East Seventeenth Street grocer, must stay in Ludlow Street Jail until Tuesday, the expiration of the three months' confinement ordered because he failed to pay $150 in alimony pending the trial of the action. He managed to get to court and testify only through a writ of habeas corpus, and he was on his way back when the decision came in his favor.

His lawyer rather thought this of itself ought to release him, but Justice Goff denied this relief, and Ziegler must either pay or serve out the few remaining days.

QUEENS INDICTMENT KILLED.

Ex-Sheriff Goldner Escapes Trial on a Theft Charge.

Former Sheriff Matthew J. Goldner will not be brought to trial on the indictment charging him with grand larceny, returned against him by a Queens County Grand Jury, which began an investigation last May into the charges of grafting among public officials of Queens. News was received last night that a demurer made against the Goldner indictment had been sustained by Justice Kapper.

RARE AFRICAN OKAPI COMING TO MUSEUM

LONG SOUGHT BY STANLEY

Expedition from the Natural History Museum in Central Park Killed an Okapi Family in the Congo.

Three perfect specimens of the rare Central African okapi, the wondrously colored Central African animal the native tales of which puzzled and tantalized Henry M. Stanley, Sir Harry Johnston, and other naturalists and zoologists all over the world for almost a quarter of a century, will soon be placed on view here in the Museum of Natural History at Central Park and Seventy-seventh Street.

The Museum's Congo expedition, which was financed by Cleveland H. Dodge, J. P. Morgan, Jr.; William K. Vanderbilt, A. D. Juilliard, Robert W. Goelet, William Rockefeller, John B. Trevor, and Charles Lanier, and which left this city in May, 1909, for Central Africa, has cabled that it has obtained a male, female, and calf okapi. They are ruddy headed, brown bodied, and white and black striped in the legs. They were shot by Messrs. Lang and Chapin of the expedition in one of the dense African forests which, unlike all other forms of African horse or zebra, they frequent.

The skins and skeletons have been preserved and crated for shipment, according to the cablegram from Messrs. Lang and Chapin. The complete group, surrounded with trees, shrubs, and other natural accessories, will be placed in one of the halls of the mammal exhibit.

The okapi has aroused an avid interest among naturalists ever since Henry M. Stanley in his "In Darkest Africa," recorded the rumor of its existence, which he had heard from the dwarf tribes of the then unexplored regions of the Congo. All Stanley was able to learn was that it was some kind of a red-headed horse, which had the legs of a zebra and which lived in dense forests, where real zebras and wild horses never live. The natives had an especial name for it, "o'api," the apostrophe standing for a gasping, aspirating sound in the native dialect. The peculiar horse, the dwarfs told Stanley, had a dun-colored, or, sometimes, a dark-gray back and a black and white striped stomach and legs. Belgian settlers told Stanley about its unusually elongated head, and Stanley learned that native warriors thought the purplish black and white striped skin of the legs so beautiful that they made waist belts out of it.

Stanley never saw an okapi, much as he desired to do so. And Sir Henry Johnston, the London Zoological Society's explorer and collector, though his curiosity and determination were greatly excited by Stanley's story, was unable to get so much as a glimpse of one during his expedition to the Congo in 1901. Sir Harry Johnston succeded, however, in obtaining part of a skin of an okapi and two skulls from the natives and he brought these back to London, where they were mounted and written about and a great scientific fuss was made over them. In a subsequent expedition to Uganda Sir Harry actually saw one of the gorgeously striped horses, and, still later, Major Powell-Cotton and Lieut. Boyd Alexander succeeded in bringing specimens back to England. Complete specimens even at this time exist in only three European museums, and none are to be seen in this country.

So when Lang, the New York Natural History Museum's taxidermist, and Chapin, the Columbia University student, were sent to the Congo two years ago, they were specially instructed to look out for the okapi. So when the Museum received this news in a cablegram, "the okapi group is assured, not only in possession of male and female specimens and young, but materials from the animal's haunt," there was jubilation among the curators.

The okapi is a descendant of the helladotherium, a fossil animal of Greece and Asia Minor, the nearest and most familiar relative of which is the giraffe. Like the giraffe, it lives in forests instead of plains. It differs from the giraffe in that its neck has not been stretched by centuries of craning to reach the foliage of trees. It has a short, thick neck like that of a horse and it has the flanks and legs of a zebra. Like the giraffe, it has bony bumps in the back of its head, which are presumably the rudiments of the horns of some primal ancestor. Perhaps the most picturesque thing about it is its remarkable coloring—much more vivid and striking in its contrasts than that of a giraffe, horse, or zebra. The forehead, according to Sir Harry Johnston, is a "most vivid red with a thin black line along the top of the nose; its neck, shoulders, stomach, and back are a deep reddish brown; its front and hind legs and hind quarters are striped with purplish black and white; its hind legs from the hocks down are creamy."

Burglars Plead Guilty When Confronted by Them—First Such Case Here.

The efficacy of the finger-print system of identifying criminals was proved before Judge Crain in General Sessions yesterday when Harry Peck and Joseph Cohen, ex-convicts, pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree. Both men had employed counsel, but when the enlarged photographs of the impressions of their finger tips on record at Police Headquarters were introduced in evidence they gave up the fight for liberty. They were remanded until Jan. 20 for sentence.

Both men were charged with entering the home of John G. Milburn, Jr., at 35 West Tenth Street, on the night of Nov. 8. After removing a 400-pound safe, which has not been recovered as yet, they were frightened away, leaving personal property valued at $5,000 which they had piled on a bed.

Among the articles was a glass clock on which considerable dust had accumulated and upon one side of which there were several finger prints. When detectives were summoned to the house they noticed the clock, and it was taken to Police Headquarters, where the finger marks were put under a microscopic examination by Lieut. Joseph A. Farurot, in charge of the Bureau of Identification of Criminals. He found that the marks on the clock agreed in twenty separate points with the finger prints of Cohen, which were taken in Charlestown, Mass., after he had been sent to the State prison there.

Upon learning that Cohen had recently been released Inspector Russell detailed Detectives O'Farrell and Kinsler to locate him, and they arrested both Cohen and Peck in an apartment at 224 East Fourteenth Street. Several articles of value were found in the apartment, which were later identified by the Millburns.

Escapes Auto; Dies of Shock.

Shock, resulting from a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile in front of her home, is ascribed as the cause of the death yesterday of Mrs. Elizabeth Loveley, 65, a widow, who was found dead in her bed, in her home 2072 Seventh Avenue. Mrs. Loveley was crossing Seventh Avenue Wednesday night just as a large touring car came along at high speed. She had to jump out of the way and the machine barely missed hitting her.

Men's Overcoats and Suits

Which Won Praise at $25, $28, $30, $33 and $35 Regrouped at $19.50

When we chose the Clothing upon which we asked critical men of New York to pass judgment regarding the Gimbel Men's Wear Division, the task was not begun lightly.

Even to the creating of new Fabrics exclusively for Gimbels and to the special "for Gimbel" tailoring by the master-clothing producers of this country did our planning extend.

Assortments have been made so complete and diversified as to give full play for one's individual taste to find expression even within the field of this important saving.

Many of these Overcoats have convertible storm collars.

Many are three-quarter dress length.

Now $19.50 instead of $25, $28, $30, $33 and $35.

GOV. DIX'S DUTY.

Gov. Dix may with perfect propriety, for the guidance and the good of his party, declare who, in his judgment, should be elected Senator. It has been stated upon very good authority that the Governor favors the election of Mr. Shepard. In the present crisis we think it is his duty to give public expression to his views. As the chief man of his party in the State it is to be assumed that he is willing to do what he properly and consistently can for the good of his party. Mr. Murphy and the supporters of Mr. Sheehan are doing their utmost to harm the party, to doom it to defeat at the next election. That disaster Gov. Dix must desire to avert. There is no reason in the Constitution or in the laws, written or unwritten, why he should not do what lies in his power to guide the party in the right path, to dissuade it from the fearful blunder of electing Mr. Sheehan to the Senate.

Everybody knows that the Executive and the legislative departments are independent of each other. But Mr. Murphy, who is not an Executive, who is nothing but a Tammany boss, goes to Albany with the votes of thirty-nine Senators and Assemblymen "in his vest pocket," and he, as everybody seems to admit, is there to dictate to the Legislature whom it shall elect. When a Tammany boss arrogates to himself that power, it is no time to be overnice or finicky about the encroachment of one department upon another. But there would be no encroachment. As a Democrat, as a good citizen, John A. Dix has the right to speak his mind. We think he ought to speak, and without any delay. Mayor Gaynor has done what he could to avert the calamity of Sheehan's election. His example is a good one for the Governor to follow.

By what arguments or inducements, promises or rewards, has Charles F. Murphy been brought to take this stand against the wish and opinion of the great majority of intelligent Democrats in the State? Mr. Murphy says that he has consulted his own "organization" and that the district leaders of Tammany are not in favor of Shepard. Mr. Murphy knows very well that there is not a Democrat in the State so simple-minded as to be fooled by this empty talk. Mr. Murphy's district leaders will do what he orders them to do, just as his Senators and Assemblymen will do what he orders them to do. It is he that has made the decision, not the leaders. He is against Shepard because he is for somebody else. Why? Even if he is for somebody else, by reason of inducements, promises, or rewards, will the district leaders get any part of the benefits accruing to him personally, whatever may be their nature? These benefits cannot be political—that is certain. The defeat of Mr. Shepard and the election of Mr. Sheehan would insure the election of a Republican Governor two years hence, they would doubtless assure the election of a Republican President in 1912. Not party gain but party destruction would be the result of letting Mr. Murphy have his way. If Murphy should elect Sheehan would he have the impudence to ask any patronage favors either of Mayor Gaynor or of Gov. Dix? Could Tammany, after so defying public sentiment, after such a crime against the Democratic Party, expect any favors from the City Hall or from Albany? It seems to us that the district leaders and the Tammany Senators and Assemblymen must be simpletons if they let Murphy, for reasons not disclosed to them, for benefits promised or conferred in which they have no share, name the Senator from the State of New York. It may not now, or soon, be known what inducements have been held out to Murphy. It will some time be known, there can be no doubt about that. The course he has chosen is so plainly fatal to the Democratic Party that other than political motives must actuate him. What they are will some time be known.

The leaders of the Shepard forces announce that it is their intention to fight. We hope they will fight, they must fight. They are justified in declaring and in waging war to the last extreme upon Murphy and his contemptible henchmen, because they are the open enemies of their own party. No enmity can be so dangerous as that of a faction which from within the party betrays it into courses that bring it to disgrace and defeat. The up-State Senators and Assemblymen if they have any regard for the future of the Democracy, if they have any respect for themselves, if they have even a faint understanding of what submission to Murphy and to Tammany means for them, will unite with the men of Kings County and crush Murphy and his candidate. It is to them that attention should be directed. It is upon them that the pressure of the prevailing Democratic opinion should be brought to bear.

HYDE.

A friend of City Chamberlain Hyde said yesterday "that while Mr. Hyde appears to enjoy the soundest health, this appearance is deceptive." Nobody is taking much thought about Mr. Hyde's appearance. It is his disappearance that has brought him into public notice. That is not at all deceptive. The community has already made up its mind as to the reason for Mr. Hyde's disappearance. The conclusion reached is not creditable to him—quite the contrary. Mr. Hyde did not go away and stay away for his health. A man careful of his reputation, even though he were sick unto death, would have returned to New York by the swiftest train after the disclosure of such and so many urgent reasons as have made Mr. Hyde's return the most imperative duty that ever confronted him.

It is now too late to talk about Mr. Hyde's health or about any further exercise of clemency of judgment in his case. He has shown himself to be unworthy of trust, unfit for the office he holds, a man whom it would be grossly improper to retain as the custodian of the city's money. There ought to be no further delay in removing Mr. Hyde from the office of City Chamberlain.

BRANDEIS AND FARRELL.

On the same day Mr. Brandeis and Mr. Farrell made statements of economic policy which may be said to represent the ideal and the practical theories of the irrepressible conflict of the moment. The singular thing is that the practical man's theory is more ideal than the idealist's. Mr. Brandeis argues as though nothing had happened in the industrial world, and as though the conflicts of competition were the same trivial and circumscribed affairs as they were when trade was a neighborhood matter, and a man could turn from one calling to another at his will, even if not with entire facility. Accordingly, he advises war, although in terms of peace. He contends for cooperation for cheapness, rather than for higher prices, and counsels the railways to begin with demanding cheaper commodities from their supply men, especially steel. If they bought from blacksmiths working at individual anvils, the thing could not be done without friction. Under modern economic conditions it could not be done without war and economic waste of frightful proportions. Mr. Brandeis suggests specifically that the railways should insist upon cheaper rails. He doubtless knows that, quality and conditions of delivery being considered, they are receiving cheaper rails. He doubtless knows further that railways acquiesce in the price of rails because fixity implies that it shall not be raised, as well as shall not be lowered, as prices were in the years immediately preceding the stabilization of the industry.

The current number of The Iron Age contains a diagram which disposes of the argument that the railways could and should reduce their rates, or forego an advance of rates, by beginning a conflict with their economic allies. The railway world has come to see that competition should be restricted between economic opponents, and the fact has been imbedded in the statutes. The trusts think that the same theory of regulation of competition is equally beneficial to themselves, and they have enacted a trade statute to the same effect. The reason is that trade wars are as reluctantly entered upon now as wars between nations, some of which are of smaller proportions than trade wars which convulse society to its roots. If rails were to be reduced, wages would follow them down, and all the relation of prices would be disturbed. The relation of railway rates is a pretty hard sum to do, and has its counterpart in the relation of prices. The modern idea is that prices shall go up and down as an entirety, and within restricted limits. The law of supply and demand is not repealed, for obvious reasons, but its working is regulated, and with beneficial effects. The iron market was a shambles when last Mr. Brandeis's way was followed. There was a crop of bankruptcies among capitalists, and hunger among the workers. In 1907, and now again, the bankruptcies were minimized, and the labor situation was controlled by reducing the employment of the least efficient, rather than by cutting wages, and thus cheapening men as well as commodities.

Doubtless Mr. Brandeis, who is among the most amiable of men, and a humanist withal, does not desire such results of his campaign of cheapness, but experience teaches that such has been the result. Now let the practical man have his say. Mr. Farrell does not favor beginning his higher career with a war for cheapness. He is no more appreciative of the advice thrust upon the railways than the railways themselves. Mr. Brandeis does not venture to suggest that the steel corporations are inefficient, for the contrary is too well known. Says Mr. Farrell, upon his promotion to the Presidency of the world's greatest corporation, and the one most respected:

> The old delusion that there is advantage in preventing one's rival from doing business no matter what the cost may be is losing itself in the conception that success lies in the adoption of co-operative methods. The policy of these times in the steel business is one of harmony and good-will. With peace in the steel trade normal conditions may be maintained at all times to the benefit of manufacturer, consumer and laborer.

Accordingly, at this time of stress, the steel competitors sit down at table together instead of dynamiting their competitors' mills in the manner alleged of another great trust, or cutting one another's throats until the entire country is reduced to the last stage of prostration. Of course it is well known that this veteran who has risen to command from the ranks is following the policy introduced by Judge Gary, who conducts his great enterprise like an enlightened General.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS LEARNED.

A despairing teacher in this city's public schools has brought to our attention the work of some forty boys of the 8A grade, who were asked to tell in their own words the substance of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" and Burns's "A Man's a Man for a' That." The following samples are fairly typical:

> FOR A' THAT & A' THAT.'
> Is there a man who hangs his head as he along gest because he is poor and does not have fine clothes, If we see a slave who is a coward just because he is poor we pass him by, we dare to be very poor and because we are poor we need not be afraid if we work hard and are honest, What of it if eat poor food and we wear gay cloths let that be as it is let the rich have fine goods and drink all the wined they want To be honest even through is what will make you king of men
> See that man over there who walk as through he owned the world he is but a lord and yet their our many who does his bidding as through he was a king but he is nothing more than an honest man
>
> THE DESERTED VILLAGE.
> It is not good to live where richs accumulates and men fall in rank It is place like these where Princes and Lords become rich or poor a word from a King or a Queen can make him a prince or a Lord as offten it has been done but a brave and bold peasants are the ones that make a country but if once destroyed can never be built and supplied like before.
> There was a time before the sorrows and griefs began and when everybody was happy and contented where everybody had an ample supply and no more there a riches were poor.
> III
> While I was wandering around I meet with grief I always had hope that before candle within me when out that I would be sitting around that little old fire place where many a happy an hour was spent and show them that my life long hours had not been spent on doing nothing

These boys are from 14 to 17 years old. Judging by their names, they are of English, German, and Irish extraction. They have attended school at least seven years, during which time they have been periodically promoted. By the operation of what principle or policy they were placed among those considered deserving of promotion we leave to the educational authorities to conjecture or explain. We refuse to believe that the record of this class in these compositions represents the average proficiency of pupils in their grade throughout the city's school system. But if the conduct of the schools is to be investigated, the investigation ought not to stop short of inquiry into the methods of promotion from grade to grade, and the degrees of proficiency that are deemed adequate for promotion in the several schools. This question is far more important, we should think, than the question of expenditures for school sites and supplies.

MISCHIEFMAKERS.

"John Jones, Jr.," is the pseudonym attached to a letter addressed to this newspaper from the Province of Camaguey, Cuba. The writer explains the he uses a pseudonym, because if his Cuban "friends" discovered that he had written such a letter he would surely meet with a "fatal accident." Yet he must know that The New York Times, which he selects as a confidant, would not betray him, and that his letter with a false signature is entitled only to such consideration as an anonymous communication deserves. The condition of affairs it vaguely denotes in the remote parts of Cuba is not very different from what the outsider imagines it to be. Charges of police inefficiency and stupidity or worse in magistrates' courts are frequently made right here in the American metropolis. The few facts set forth by our anonymous correspondent are neither alarming nor particularly significant. He likes the climate and, doubtless, enjoys his manner of living. Utopia is nonexistent.

The object of this letter, however, is to make mischief for the present Cuban Government. The writer demands the intervention of the United States Government. That will not be undertaken on any such showing as this anonymous detractor of the Cuban Republic makes. Nobody supposes that the Cubans have yet solved all the problems of self-government, but they have an incontestable right to learn how to govern themselves in their own way, and there is plenty of good evidence that they are doing very well, in the circumstances.

To make mischief with [illegible] ernments of Latin America seems to be the principal object in life of a large number of persons who write letters to our newspapers and control various news sources. Honduras is now in the throes of a newspaper revolution. The Mexican Government seems to have the upper hand of the rioters and rebels in the State of Chihuahua, but statements have lately been printed that Chicago financiers have been backing that revolution. United States Secret Service agents, according to these accounts, have been unable to identify these financiers. Of course, they do not exist, and the object of these reports, which have been so amiably circulated, is to give the armed malcontents fresh hope and to discourage the people of Chihuahua who are loyal to the Federal Government.

THE SWAY OF ST. ANDREWS.

Undoubtedly St. Andrews has the right to make rules for the game of golf which must be obeyed to the letter by all golfers who choose to abide by the rules of St. Andrews, and if an American golfer desires to compete in matches in Great Britain he will do well to obey the rules of St. Andrews, in Great Britain. But the ban placed by the Royal and Ancient on the Schenectady putter merely amuses a golfer who is familiar with the history of the game and its development. St. Andrews stands for conservative and Scotch golf. Yet how many of its players stick to the old gutta-percha ball? There was a great outcry, not only in Scotland, but throughout Great Britain, eleven years ago, against the introduction of the American rubber-cored ball, but it made its way on its merits, and a return to the "gutty" of the nineties would seem as ridiculous now as a reversion to the leather ball stuffed with feathers which prevailed in the era when the Scotch golfers wore tall beaver hats and swallow-tailed coats on the links.

Great improvements in the golfers' kit have been made in England and America, and have frequently been accepted by the Scotch. We believe some of the older players in Scotland still cling to the baffy and the half-spoon, but the modern irons have both simplified the game and reduced the scores of competent players. We hold no brief for the Schenectady putter. The secret of the art of putting lies in no club. But the mallet-headed putter, or a variant of it, suits some players better than the old style of putter, and they will stick to the clubs they like best.

St. Andrews can regulate our golf only when its rules are wise. American golf is doing very well, indeed. Native players are beginning to equal the best scores made in Great Britain. The average of American play improves year by year, and the United States Golfing Association will do well to ignore the St. Andrews condemnation of a perfectly harmless club, which enables no duffer to run down a difficult putt, and is, to tell the truth, no more efficacious on the putting green than any other style of club that is used there.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Plagued by the Law's Diversities. So much of automobile using is what may be called inter-State or multi-State traffic that it ought obviously to be subjected to a systematized and uniform regulation. At present the driver of a motor car, however desirous and determined he may be to keep within the law, is in constant danger of breaking it because of the practical impossibility of his learning what he may and may not do. This is due to the fact that in a single day's journey he can pass through a considerable number of political divisions, each with its own ideas as to the safe, proper—and profitable—government of automobiles, and conduct that for him may in the forenoon be permissible, and even admirable, is likely in the afternoon to bring upon him arrest and a fine, if not imprisonment.

Within the several States the situation is now not quite as bad as it used to be, since in most of them the power of individual towns to make automobile rules of their own has been considerably diminished by general legislation, but when he passes State lines it is only in what are still exceptional cases that he does not come under new and widely different laws, and only too often there are imposed on him irritating expenditures, the only excuse for which that he can see is that the opportunity to extort money from him exists and has been utilized.

To remedy this annoying situation, the Legislative Board of the American Automobile Association suggests the passage of a Federal law making the automobilist who has complied with all the requirements of his own State and town free to go where he pleases without the payment of further fees. The board's alternative suggestion is that the laws of all the States be brought into uniformity. Both are good plans, but there are almost insuperable difficulties in the way of carrying either of them out. The first interferes with what is clearly a right of home rule and the raising of revenues for local use, while the second assumes the possibility of establishing a harmony of opinion that is little characteristic of human affairs. Each State would be willing for all the other States to copy its own statutes, but to give up its own habits or views would be quite a different matter. Some progress in this second direction, however, has been made, less out of a conscious desire for uniformity than because of a growing recognition of the fact that the automobilist is not a public enemy, to be hampered and exploited on general principles, and thus, doubtless, will the problem be solved at last.

Calculated to Arouse "Prejudice." From the standpoint of those whose money has been lost or imperiled by the too ingenious financiering of the man Robin, the importance of his case presumably lies in the bearing of the law on these operations, and it is as a check-kiting banker and reckless speculator that they chiefly think of him. What fixes the attention of a vastly greater number of people, however, is the strange and, if not inexplicable, at least as yet unexplained, conduct of Robin, and of his sister and brother, in repudiating the old man and old woman who claim to be their parents.

The validity of this claim can hardly be said to have been thoroughly established, but its plausibility is so well supported by the available evidence that there seems to be no reason for doubting its truth, and certainly no such doubt is expressed in public or private comment on the episode. And it is this repudiation of a father and mother that shocks and amazes the great majority of observers much more than do the other accusations against Robin.

Of course, for children who have been "getting on in the world" to be more or less ashamed of parents who for one reason or another are not presentable in higher social circles is not an unfamiliar phenomenon, but rarely indeed does false pride or coldness of heart go to the extent of actual denial of the relationship when its existence has been revealed by unexpected circumstances. In this instance the denial, at first complete, has now had a belated and reluctant modification into an admission that the old couple had for years acted as parents and been recognized as such, and that doubts of their right to the title had only recently arisen. Even if true, this story is far from justifying, or even explaining, the conduct of the two brothers and the sister, for they allege no grievance and do not show that they would have been in any way injured or humiliated through returning something of the love and care which their own account only makes the more generous and the more worthy of gratitude.

All other grounds of criticism apart, the repudiation was most unwise, since it has completely destroyed, probably, such chances as Robin had of escaping from the legal toils in which he has involved himself. Naturally his lawyer is discouraged by the amount of "prejudice" which has thus been excited against his client, and he may well fear that any jurors will think the man capable of denying his father and mother also capable of committing, and likely to commit, any crime in the calendar.

Aldermen and Hatpins. Up in Rochester they apparently take the great hatpin question more seriously than do our own Aldermen, for in all seriousness the City Fathers there have passed an ordinance forbidding the extrusion by more than half an inch of the sharp end of these weapons. Why even the half inch was permitted has not been explained in the dispatches. That amount of cold steel, while not very likely to inflict fatal wounds, can still do much harm to an unoffending eye, and it could cause not a little pain elsewhere.

It would doubtless involve something of exaggeration to say that our cemeteries, or even our hospitals, are crowded with the victims of unmitigated hatpins, but it is a fact that not a few people have been wounded by them and that multitudes have been put by them into a state of fear which almost certainly has something to do with the much lamented increase of nervous diseases characteristic of modern civilization. This alone is a sufficient indictment of the hatpin as it sticketh out in elevators and crowded cars, elevated, surface and subway, after their kind, and therefore should not our Aldermen treat hatpins as jokes.

That it would not do any good to put hatpins under a legal ban or limitation we are not prepared to say. Probably it wouldn't, but it is one thing for the Aldermen to laugh and quite another for them to confess helplessness and to demand the solution of the problem by higher powers than theirs.

Incidentally, it may do some good to state the indubitable truth that women of delicacy and refinement, of that consideration for the rights and happiness of others which is the invariable mark of good breeding and good sense, never have worn and do not now wear hatpins that endanger or alarm their fellow-citizens. Frequent and tactful reference to this fact might be more effective than any action Aldermen could take in their official capacities.

Stop Awhile and Listen.

Mr. Hyde's hunting for game in Florida isn't comparable with the hunting for him in New York.

Perhaps Mr. Hyde is at Jekyl's Island. Isn't that somewhere in Southern waters, as Mr. Hyde is supposed to be?

If Mr. Hyde is not a pachyderm he should come home.

Will the simplified spellers please state whether there is much difference between spelling it hide or Hyde?

Hidden is past, but Hyde isn't present, though it sounds that way in the grammar books.

The Trained Nurse Fund.

Acknowledging receipt of a marked copy of The Times in the matter of contributions that "a nurse's life may be saved," I have now to remark that this incident forms an admirable example of the efficiency of The Times, the confidence of its readers in its purposes, and their confidence in one another on the strength of its indorsement or introduction.

I observe with great pleasure in this morning's issue that the needed sum and more has been raised. JOHN W. EDMONDS.

Contributions received yesterday for the trained nurse, an appeal for whom was published last week, came from R. R. P., $1; a Times reader, $5, which with the amount previously received, $532.50, totals $538.50. This is $38.50 in excess of the estimate of expenses contained in the letter of appeal.

Commuters' Complaints.

Those Erie commuters who howl in the public prints because a train is three minutes late on one single day, should try the New Haven Railroad, where a lateness of less than three minutes causes the formation of a betting pool as to which member of the train crew will be fired for this flagrant breach of the company's rules. The Erie kicker should try the 7:48 "express" from Bridgeport. This train is practically never on time, and when it is they hold it up in the tunnel for a few minutes before letting it into the station; they are so surprised to see it so early in the day and are unprepared for it. NUTMEG.

Begging Newsboys.

There is a marked increase in begging on the part of newsboys, who ask if we will not help them buy shoes, &c. A good many of us would be glad to buy them shoes if we knew that the money would not go for drink to some one else, but it is the principle which requires attention. If these boys are successful as little beggars, it ruins their entire prospect for good development in life, as every penny not earned leaves a stain where it touches. The societies having the matter in charge should be awake (perhaps they are) to the very rapid increase in begging on the part of newsboys. Up to three or four years ago the habit was not common. This year it seems to me almost universal. M.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ON TRIAL.

Conditions in Western States Thought Not to Commend It.

Whoever read my letter and Miss Gruening's answer can judge whether I said what I said or what my opponent says that I said. I did not, for instance, mention negro enfranchisement, whose wisdom or unwisdom is another matter. The great movement which I quoted from Miss Carleton's first letter was the deliverance of the negro from slavery, whose righteousness and permanence few would question. This movement, in its beginnings, was parallel to that for the education of women and also to many other really valuable movements for women, as well as to the suffrage agitation. Those which the majority has accepted are the choice of this democracy. Woman suffrage, sometimes retarding, sometimes helping, the educational and other movements, has, through more than two generations, been accepted only by a very small minority, who have, as Mrs. Rowe justly suggested in your columns, no right whatever to ask our legislators to thrust this unfit responsibility upon us, the majority.

It is not my place to defend anti-suffragists or their calendar from the usual undiscriminating personal attack. But may I observe that "All's right with the world," is meant in the calendar in just the sense in which it was written by the author—and no one has yet suggested that Browning didn't "think."

Miss Carleton seems not to know that Montana and other States having no more of a child labor problem than Colorado, have yet passed laws to prevent such conditions from arising, which the suffrage States have not done. Nor does she mention why the children of Colorado need no help from the all-powerful voting women, when Colorado has one illiterate child to every sixty persons, whereas, Oregon, more Western and as sparsely settled, has one to every 240 persons, Nebraska, with twice Colorado's population, only half as many illiterate children, and so on, the suffrage States making a poor showing beside their neighbors. Nor does she tell us why, with juvenile crime alarmingly on the increase there, not one of the suffrage States, according to Mr. Barry, has any society for the placing of destitute children in homes—the best modern antidote for juvenile delinquency.

Nothing is "proved" by Mrs. Rowe's opinion about the conditions in the suffrage States. Partisan opinion is no more than partisan opinion, and must be set over against such words as those of Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, National President of the Florence Crittenton Homes for Wayward Girls: "In all the seventy-eight Florence Crittenton Homes in the United States I never saw such a collection of young, innocent girls of the better class as there are in the Denver home."

My own opinion is founded on the observations of a relative who lived in Colorado, combined with such public evidence as the above, and it leads to the conclusion not that "woman suffrage has been brought about," but that it is severely on trial even in the untypical communities where it has been tried, has accomplished nothing that it says it will do, but has retarded progress elsewhere attained.

The Anti-Suffragist Meeting.

The performance outside the Lyceum Theatre last Monday, when Mr. Barry was lecturing, should be a cause of congratulation to the anti-suffragists. It shows up better than any argument so far what election day would be if the vote were extended to women.

May I offer a new suggestion for woman suffrage banners?

In the City the Basis of Wealth Is Land.

Thank you for your pertinent comment on "The Personal Tax," though small good will such timely utterances do us denizens of "the costliest city of the world to live in" while Mr. Up-State Farmer can swing our legislative sentiment at Albany.

Every one who pays his own expenses for lodgment in this town knows that the greatest single item of his burden is rent. It makes no difference how he pays it, whether for a house, an apartment, or just as "board and lodging." He knows that if he doesn't pay up he will have to get out. He knows also that the scale is a rising one; and if he is good at a guess he feels fairly well convinced that the rising scale is due to the ever-increasing popularity of this city as a place of abode, and the consequent enhancement of land values.

The owners of real estate may grumble at their "hard lot," but they cannot dodge the fact that their investment is a sound one, and that it is more productive to-day than ever before.

Some house owner will doubtless start up at this and exclaim: "I occupy my property. My taxes are higher, and so are my living expenses. What do I get for it?" My answer is that his remedy is plain; sell out at a profit and remove to a cheaper place.

Hence, it is evident that the wealth of New York City is in its land, and that every one living within the city's limits is contributing to the general support on the basis of that wealth, exclusive of the personal tax. Consequently, it is also evident that the personal tax is an extra burden upon those against whom it is assessed.

An example of its unfairness is to be found in the first group of names in the list you publish to-day. Under the initial A there are arrayed five names, the second of which is that of a lady whose assessable property appears as upward of half a million dollars. Now, this lady may be accounted wealthy, but I don't believe she owns and operates a steam yacht, nor do I believe that her dollars will run beyond seven figures. But her husband has died within a few years, his will has been probated, and so his widow, though deprived of his further earning capacity, has been "caught" for all she had of personal property. Does anybody believe that this lady is more justly subject to the personal tax than many of the men of known great wealth who are listed for less amounts? E.

Results of Vaccination.

The letter from Mr. Poultney Bigelow in regard to his experience with vaccination, as well as your editorial comments thereon, came under my notice. About three years ago my little girl became of school age, and I, being law-abiding, bethought me to have her vaccinated. I chose the Health Board in preference to my own doctor, as I reasoned that they had large experience, fresh vaccine, would take proper precautions against sepsis, and, in short, were experts in the manner of this operation. Indeed, I was astonished when I got there and watched them perform it, at the mechanical precision and dispatch with which it was done, but felt misgivings when my little girl's turn came. Within twenty-four hours she was stricken with a very high temperature, rash all over her body, swollen arm, and, more agonizing than all, a stomatitis set in that rendered her incapable, except with the greatest difficulty and terrible pain, of partaking of even fluids for more than a week. I notified this particular branch of the Health Board, and they sent one of their physicians, who assured me that the child would not die, to notify them if she got worse, and made light of her condition. My own physician diagnosed it as cowpox, brought on by carelessness of the operator.

I have a little boy soon to be of school age, but I dread to go through the ordeal of having him vaccinated, as the memory of the sufferings of my little girl is still with me. J. B. F.

The Senator from Rhode Island.

Let all who favor the election of Judge Le Baron B. Colt as Senator from Rhode Island read and recommend to others Miss Ida Tarbell's article in the American Magazine for January, entitled "A Tariff-Made State." If generally read, it should force the conviction of the evil and fallacy of protection as represented by Aldrich. No doubt Lippitt would be his faithful follower if the mantle of the Senatorship should fall upon him. L. T. B.

A DISCOUNT ON DUTIES.

A Measure Discussed Twenty Years Ago Is Again Advocated.

During the first session of the Fifty-first Congress, in the year 1890, a measure for the relief of American producers and consumers was proposed, which in the House of Representatives might now find a favorable majority, as it then received the vote of every tariff reformer.

As now applicable the proposition would find expression in a law which should provide that, upon exportation of products of the United States, customs certificates should be furnished, entitling the holders to discounts from duties now collectable upon imports at the rate of 10 per centum of the duty assessed upon imports, equivalent to the certified amount of American products which had been exported.

The beneficial influence upon production would be somewhat similar to that resulting from the present drawbacks allowed upon exportation of products which have paid import duty.

Under such authorization the American farmer could secure the export price of his surplus, and save 10 per centum of the assessed duty upon the return trade, either directly or through selling his certificate, or through the certificate value of his crop in addition to its foreign money value.

The American manufacturer exporting part of his product would receive a 10 per cent. allowance from the amount of the duty levied upon his imports of material, and this without any red tape or temptation to fraud.

In practical operation the total amount of tariff rate reductions obtainable through the use of such certificate would be secured upon the articles upon which a lower tariff is most urgently required and demanded, automatically distributing the benefits of the allowance according to trade conditions.

A distribution of deductions following from the operation of the natural laws of trade might well furnish valuable and really reliable information in regard to actual trade conditions such as is much to be desired in the framing of a reasonably balanced tariff, and as distinguished from the highly sophisticated statistics of which Congress and the people have long suffered a surfeit.

Whether a 10 per cent. deduction from the rate of tariff taxation would result in a loss of revenue or in its increase is a question upon which opinions may differ, and concerning which I will not now express any view. Increases in the rate of allowance might follow until the proper basis of taxation should be found. WALDO G. MORSE.

Retardation of Pupils.

No fewer than eight committees of Principals earned a crown of immortality by deciding authoritatively that retardation of pupils occurred in our schools for such reasons as ignorance of English, sluggish mentality, petty defiance of law in the streets, (no where else, I suppose,) part time, varying standards of rating pupils, (some Principals are said to have too high a standard!), lack of thoroughness, obsolete aims and methods of older teachers, unnecessary holding back of pupils, and not promoting with sufficient frequency. These are but a small portion of the troubles which cause retardation, and while some are so obvious as hardly to need telling, a good many are such as to make one suppose that the authors were paid a dollar a word for reasons produced.

The eight committees, it further appears, disagreed as to what remedies would advance the stupid or unfortunate, thus further emphasizing their "professional" character, for who shall decide when "doctors" disagree? Think of Principals with too high a standard! Where are they, and who? ROBERT P. GREEN.

Savings Banks and Their Clients.

Recent letters in your paper about discourteous treatment of small depositors by bank clerks have much interested me. A short time ago when drawing funds from a savings bank in this city, my bankbook was lost by the clerks between the receiving and delivering windows. They refused to believe me when I said this must have been done, delaying payment for a week. Upon receiving the book finally, I said to the teller that I thought the matter deserved thorough investigation. I was asked: "Who's running this bank?"

In another case, although it did not affect me personally, the line of those drawing was unusually long, and the clerk exceedingly slow. The woman immediately before me drew several hundred dollars in less time than it had taken three or four persons previously to get their money, and the clerk said to the latter that her amount was worthy of quick attention. The others were "small depositors," and it did not matter if they did have to wait some time. O. S. De L.

Loan Sharks and Others.

It is with great satisfaction no doubt that a number of unfortunate people read of the prosecution by the Russell Sage Foundation of the loan sharks of this city, and the public owes a debt of gratitude to the press for widely publishing the facts and especially to The New York Times for its well-timed remarks for more stringent laws to cope with these parasites.

The present has the purpose to draw the attention to another set of swindlers who are equally thriving on the unfortunate and ignorant people.

There are a number of sharks who advertise for people with small amounts of capital ostensibly to be used for the establishment of new business enterprises, very often under corporate names, who are finally simply swindled of their money through trickery and loopholes of the laws governing corporations. And that there are many such loopholes every one knows who is familiar with the subject.

It is usually the case that these people have not enough money left to procure the services of a lawyer to take up their case. In their unfamiliarity with the laws they very often make a prosecution by the District Attorney impossible by accepting promissory notes for the amount they have invested, when it finally develops that they have been misled.

If the Russell Sage Foundation would take steps to put these swindlers out of business it would perform a great service to the community.

The writer knows of two cases of this kind.

THE BLUE BIRD.

He carols merrily;
"No search has ever yet revealed
Where I may captured be!"
And on the moonbeam's utmost height
He sings and trills with glee.

Who seeks for happiness shall seek
Through all the worlds in vain;
It will not come to any call,
But ever free remain!
Yet he who follows Light may see
It pause,—and flit again!

"All lights I dwell in, moon or stars,
Or light of memory;
The light of future golden deeds
That unborn souls shall see,
And in the dawn above the dead
I gleam ineffably!"

O Love, as wind and spirit free!
Nor life, nor any tomb
Can hold thee in captivity—
To cage would be thy doom;
But where thy blue wings once have flashed
Can never more be gloom!

Deep in the Garden of the Night
The song floats merrily—
I may not captured be;
But come at will where falls the Light,

THE BOSTON ORCHESTRA.

Schubert, Beethoven, and Humperdinck Played—Mischa Elman, Soloist.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is in New York for its third visit, and its first concert was given last evening in Carnegie Hall. There was a change in the programme from that which was at first announced. In place of the overture by Handel, the andante from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" was played at the beginning of the concert, in memory of James Jackson Higginson, late of New York, brother of the founder and supporter of the orchestra, whose death occurred a few days ago. The observance was fitting, as was the music that was chosen for it, the performance of which was poetic and in every way delightful.

The symphony was Beethoven's seventh, which does not seem to have been played in New York very recently, and which came as a delight and a refreshment. Mr. Fiedler presented a finished, clear, and vigorous performance, one by no means academic, elastic in tempo, beautifully shaded in dynamics, warm and rich in tone. At the end of the concert came a movement from Prof. Engelbert Humperdinck's "Moorish Rhapsody," entitled "Tangier: A Night in a Moorish Café." It is an interesting piece of music, brilliant and genial, and shows the composer's remarkable skill in writing for the orchestra. Prof. Humperdinck has been to the North African coast, and therefore presumably embodied in this music first-hand impressions, and not hearsay or contributions levied from the folk-tune collections. Yet the "local coloring" can hardly be accepted as very convincing. It is more like the ingenuity of Humperdinck than a transcription of Moorish rhapsody; and one or two passages at least suggest more the inn at Hellabrun than the café at Tangier. It is much more to the point, that the music is delightful, as music, and holds the listener's attention. The opening passage, in imitation for the various wood wind choirs in succession, is very effective. The composition is not highly important, but it is capable of pleasing greatly.

Mr. Mischa Elman, the violinist, made his reappearance in New York as the soloist of the concert, and it was a notable occasion. This is the third season that Mr. Elman has played here, and his return has each time showed him as a more finished artist, with ideals a little higher and with the anxieties of a mere virtuoso a little more subdued. Greater technical mastery he hardly could have; yet it may be thought that in a way his less obtrusive accomplishment of astonishing things is in itself a sign of greater mastery of them. He played Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole"; he put great fire, rhythmic incisiveness, a large sweep into it; reproducing the spirit of Spanish romance and the character of the dance movement with which Lalo filled so much of this concerto. His tone is remarkably full, poignant, and searching, and his elastic, free, and energetic bowing gives his playing a very distinctive style. He delivered the cantilena of the andante movement with especial beauty. Mr. Elman's playing made a deep impression, and he was repeatedly recalled after he had finished. It is unquestionably the playing of one of the most remarkable artists now before the public.

"ARMIDE" SUNG AGAIN.

133-Year-Old Opera Likely to Continue to Grow in Favor.

The third performance of "Armide" at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening was listened to by a large audience. Much enthusiasm was expressed after each of the acts, and it is probable that this 133-year-old opera will continue to grow in public favor.

The cast on this occasion was the same as that which has appeared in the other performances, including Mme. Fremstad in the title part, Mr. Caruso, Mrs. Homer, last night in a new and much-improved costume and headdress; Mrs. Gluck, Mrs. Rappold, Mr. Amato and Mr. Gilly, also in a new costume. Mr. Toscanini conducted.

LORD SWAYTHLING, JEWISH LEADER, DEAD

An Orthodox Jew Who Advanced Many Jewish Institutions and Founded New Synagogues.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Lord Swaythling, the banker, died here to-day. He was 78 years of age.

Montagu Samuel-Montagu, the first Baron Swaythling, was born Dec. 21, 1832, and was the son of the late Louis Samuel, a watchmaker of Liverpool. For over fifty years he conducted business in London, and until September, 1909, was head of the banking firm of Samuel Montagu & Co. In 1894 he received a royal license to assume the surnames of Samuel-Montagu, and was made a baronet, and in 1907 he was elevated to the peerage, taking the title of Baron Swaythling of Swaythling, County Southampton. Lord Swaythling took a great interest in advancing Jewish and other institutions and in founding new synagogues.

Lord Swaythling, one of whose most salient characteristics was his orthodoxy, was known among the Jews of London as the "King of the East End," where he lavished great wealth for the welfare of the Jewish community, being second to Lord Rothschild alone in liberality as a donor to the children of his faith.

The mutual respect in which they held each other was illustrated by the fact that Lord Swaythling was a life member of the United Synagogue, of which Lord Rothschild is the head, and Lord Rothschild is the Honorary President of the Federation of Synagogues, which was considered Lord Swaythling's most important contribution to the history of Anglo-Jewish sociology. Lord Swaythling's achievements in the cause of his co-religionists were many. Among them were his Dispersion Committee, to relieve the overcrowding of the East End, and the reduction for a time of the naturalization fees, which enabled hundreds to obtain British citizenship.

In April, 1908, Lord Swaythling engaged in a controversy involving the Jewish Religious Education Board, which looks after the welfare and religious education of more than 10,000 Jewish children in the East End of London. He declared at that time that he would withdraw a fifteen-hundred-dollar contribution he had promised for the work of the board unless the free-thinking element in the board was eliminated from administrative work. In fact, he sought the resignations of two of the greatest authorities on the Hebraic Scriptures, Claude Joseph Goldsmid-Montefiore, known as the author of "The Origin and Development of the Religion of the Ancient Hebrews," and Israel Abrahams, reader in Talmudic and Rabbinic Literature in the University of Cambridge and editor of the Jewish Quarterly Review.

Abrahams and his followers had refused to accept a literal interpretation of several of the miracles, the divine origin of the Decalogue and the Pentateuch, or the first five books of the Old Testament. At the time Lord Swaythling said: "Personally, I am a friend of both Montefiore and Abrahams, but I do object to their continuing in administrative positions on the Jewish Religious Board of Education, where they have such a rich field for perverting the ideas of young Jews."

In January, 1909, Lord Swaythling, then President of the Russo-Jewish Committee, caused much comment by upholding the action of the committee in deprecating the issue of the Finnish ten-million-dollar loan, destined for the construction of railroads in the Grand Duchy, in England, and strongly advised his co-religionists and others to keep aloof from all investments in securities of that Government.

THOMAS BROCKLEBANK DEAD

PITTSBURG, Penn., Jan. 12.—Cable dispatches to this city announce the death in Liverpool to-day of Sir Thomas Brocklebank, Bart., father of Mrs. George Westinghouse, Jr., of this city. He was 63 years old, and was made a baronet by Queen Victoria. He leaves a widow, three sons, and three daughters.

For more than forty years Sir Thomas Brocklebank, who was a large shipbuilder of Liverpool, and George Westinghouse, Sr., of Pittsburg, inventor of the airbrake, were close friends, having met when young men at Liverpool. The families exchanged visits from time to time, and on one of these visits Evelyn Violet Brocklebank, daughter of the baronet, met George Westinghouse, Jr., at his father's home. When the engagement of the young couple was announced romance was lent to the stories by reports that young Westinghouse's bride-to-be first saw him claid in overalls at work in the shops of the Westinghouse airbrake works at Pittsburg. The wedding took place in England in March, 1909.

Henry Burr Barnes.

Henry Burr Barnes, President of A. S. Barnes Company, publishers, and a director of the American Book Company, died suddenly last night of apoplexy at his home, 112 East Fifty-sixth Street. Mr. Barnes was born in Brooklyn in 1845, the son of A. S. Barnes, who founded the old publishing house of A. S. Barnes Company, part of which was later merged with the American Book Company. He was President of the Barnes Real Estate Company and a director of the Central Real Estate Association. Mr. Barnes was graduated from Yale with the class of '66 and in 1869 married Miss Elizabeth Dixon of Brooklyn. He is survived by his wife and six children. Mr. Barnes was an elder of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Century and University Clubs, the New England Society, and the Sons of the Revolution.

Surgeon General WILLIAM GRIER, one of the oldest officers in the Navy, is dead in Washington. He had the relative rank of Commodore at the time of his death, which occurred in the ninety-fifth year of his age. Surgeon Genetral Grier was born in Ireland, and was appointed to the naval service from Maryland March 7, 1838. He was a veteran of the Mexican and the civil wars.

AUTO SHOW DRAWS BIG SOCIETY CROWD

So great is the interest of the public in passenger-carrying motor cars that the doubled admission fee yesterday on the second "society day" of the automobile show in Madison Square Garden was no bar to the throngs of visitors from opening until closing time. This year's show has already surpassed all former exhibitions of motor vehicles in this city so far as the interest of the public is concerned, and when the Wednesday tickets were counted yesterday morning it was ascertained that 30,000 persons had visited the Garden on the third full day of the show.

The building was well filled with prominent members of the social sets of New York City, Long Island, and Westchester County from noon until the closing hour last night. In a great many instances these visitors placed orders for cars that they had examined on Tuesday. Not all of their orders were for higher priced machines with elaborate coachwork, as numbers of them ordered smaller and lower priced runabouts or roadsters they will use for short trips to and from their country homes.

While the doubled admission fee benefits the exhibitors of the higher priced cars in that it assures the presence of a larger proportion of men and women interested in the luxurious types of cars than on regular days, it has the effect also of bringing a lot of modistes and milliners who go for the purpose of sketching the gowns and hats of women visitors.

Some of the women visitors made two trips to the Garden yesterday, as they wanted to see how the colors of their evening gowns matched the finish or upholstery of some particular car they contemplated buying. The scene from the balconies last night was an inspiring one to the men in the automobile business, as all the aisles were filled and most of the finely finished cars shown in spaces on the main floor and elevated platform were filled with finely gowned women visitors.

A trio of visitors to the show was composed of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, and Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs, who arrived during the afternoon. They made several tours of the main promenade, visited the two galleries and the exhibition hall, and even took in the odds and ends in the basement. The blue tint of the superb Stevens-Duryea limousine car caught their eyes, as it has the eye for fine shades in every feminine visitor. "I had no idea they could make this old barn so attractive," observed Mrs. Fish, as she took in the general scheme of the decorations. Miss Helen Gould made her visit to the show for a purpose. She ordered a superb car with a limousine body.

Another visitor was Adrian Iselin. Other visitors seen during the day and evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Iselin, Mrs. Edward Dietz, her daughter, Miss Ethel Dietz, and her fiancée, Mr. Nichols; Charles Lanier, Leonard Jacobs, Richard Peters Frank R. Lawrence, who presided at last night's banquet at the Astor; Edward Lazansky, Secretary of State, who was among the speakers at the A. L. A. M. dinner; Stephen Van Rensselaer, . Townsend Burden, Jr., Francis Roche, Howard Hitchcock, F. Burrall Hoffman, Jr., Edward Crowninshield, Sheldon Whitehouse, F. Townsend Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wagstaff, Byne Frelinghuysen, John R. Drexel, Jr., and Jay Gould.

This year's show, in a greater degree than any of its predecessors, has been an educational one, and the exhibitors have catered to the individual buyers of cars rather than to agents and dealers, as was the case at the earlier exhibitions of motor driven vehicles. Many of the exhibitors of cars have a chassis of one or more models, and in many cases the cylinders are cut away to show the operation of the valves and pistons.

The Premier people have a four-cylinder chassis at their space and also have a vermillion finished torpedo touring car fitted with a Jones live map that attracts much attention. Even the lamps and spare tire covers are finished in the same color as the car. A. L. Westgard, who made a transcontinental route-finding trip in a Premier car, spends a lot of time at the Premier space. The Cadillac people are so careful to educate buyers that they have a lecturer at their space. A young woman created some excitement yesterday by starting the engine of a Cadillac car that had been shown since Saturday. The gasoline had been taken out of the tank, but there was enough left in the cylinders for the engine to make a few revolutions when the fair visitor began pushing all the buttons in sight.

One exhibit on the elevated platform always surrounded by a crowd is an enlarged model of a splitdorf magneto that is driven by an electric motor to show its workings, while a stand attendant answers questions about magnetos and other ignition apparatus. At the Buick space on the main floor there is a white enameled chassis with its cylinders cut away and a glass plate over the left side of the crank case, so visitors can see the operation of the engine lubrication system. A Royal Tourist chassis excites a lot of comment, as it has two small differential gears mounted on the equalizing bars of the two sets of rear wheel brakes. This has been a feature of the Royal Tourist for three years and has just been adopted by one of the leading French constructors.

FORD GREETED BY RIVALS.

Love Feast Between Rival Motor Manufacturers at Astor Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers was held last night in the north ballroom of the Astor Hotel. The chair was occupied by Col. Clifton and almost every company in the association was represented by one or more of its officers. Nearly 200 members and guests sat down.

The feature of the evening's entertainment was the reception to Henry Ford of the Ford Motor Company, who was escorted to the seat of honor by W. Benton Crisp and Alfred Reeves, General Manager of the A. L. A. M. The greeting between Mr. Ford and George B. Selden was of the friendliest kind, and the spirit of good fellowship reigned throughout, the reference to the litigation between the two manufacturers being confined to humorous pleasantries.

The speech of the evening was delivered by Secretary of State Edward Lazansky, who made a plea for an inter-State law recognizing the licenses granted by all States in the United States. He also advocated the issuing of licenses to owners as well as chauffeurs. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Lazansky said that although 63,000 licenses were issued last year, only 20,000 had been applied for in 1911. He urged the owners of motor cars to renew their licenses before Feb. 1. The Secretary of State also called attention to the fact that with but three weeks before the issuance of new chauffeur licenses, only 4,000 applications had been received out of 60,000 on the registrations books.

The other speakers included Henry M. Duncan, who presented a loving cup to Col. Pope, President Charles Clifton, and James Schermerhorn of Detroit.

Commerce Swimmers Beaten.

The swimming team of the High School of Commerce was defeated by the Barringer School team of Newark in a dual meet at the Commerce swimming pool yesterday, 30 to 23. The match was closely contested, and was finally decided by the last event—the relay race. Commerce gained a commanding lead in the early events, but the Jersey boys came back strong, and when the relay teams were called out for the final event Commerce was leading, 23 to 22. The relay race meant 8 points to the winner and nothing to the losing team. Barringer won by a close margin, thus deciding the meet. Lemcke was the leading point winner for Commerce, and Chandler did good work for the New Jersey boys. The summary:

28-Yard Swim.—Won by Lemcke, Commerce; Chandler, Barringer, second; Sklarz, Commerce, third. Time—0:16 3-5.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by Lemcke, Commerce; Barling, Barringer, second; Reaske, Commerce, third. Time—0:33 3-5.

Plunge for Distance on Time.—Won by Nuese, Commerce; Kallman, Commerce, second; Vail, Barringer, third. Time—0:09 4-5.

MOTOR LEGISLATORS FOR UNIFORM LAWS

Automobilists watch with much concern the progress of legislation in New York State as it relates to motor vehicles and highway laws, for these statutes serve as models for adoption in other States. Particularly has this been the case with the New York highway law, under which more money is being expended than in all the other Eastern and Middle States combined. The recent suggestions that radical changes be made brought about the adoption of the following preamble and resolution by the Executive Committee of the American Automobile Association at its monthly session held yesterday at the National headquarters, 437 Fifth Avenue:

Whereas, The American Automobile Association, having for one of its main objects the construction and maintenance of properly developed systems of good roads, and such association having successfully worked for years in securing comprehensive State laws, liberal appropriations to make such laws effective, and the appointment of competent highway officials, has found that the best results have been obtained by intrusting the control of highway affairs to appointive officials, who have long terms of office, thus assuring continuity in policy and retention in office of experienced men.

Whereas, The policy of placing highway construction and maintenance in the hands of short-termed elective officials has resulted in frequent changes of policy, a repetition of mistakes of former officials, and has by reason of short tenure of office not attracted capable highway engineers, and, in short, has been found by good roads advocates everywhere to be undesirable; therefore be it

Resolved, That the American Automobile Association urge John A. Dix, Governor of the State of New York, to oppose the movement to transfer the work of construction and maintenance of good roads in New York State to the office of State Engineer and Surveyor.

President Robert P. Hooper presided, and the others present were J. P. Coghlin, Massachusetts; F. G. Webb, New York; C. M. Robinson, Connecticut; John Bancroft, Delaware; David Beecroft, Illinois; J. N. Brooks, Connecticut; C. H. Gillette, Connecticut; J. H. Edwards, Illinois; H. M. Rowe, Maryland; S. A. Miles, N. A. A. M.; C. E Doe, Rhode Island; F. E. Edwards, New Jersey; A. E. Lerche, Massachusetts; also A. G. Batchelder, Chairman Executive Committe; Charles Thaddeus Terry, Chairman Legislative Board; Howard Longstreth, Chairman Touring Information Board; George C. Diehl, Chairman Good Roads Board, and S. M. Butler, Chairman Contest Board.

The reports of the Chairmen of the various boards indicated that the general work of the association was progressing vigorously in various parts of the country. Chairman Charles Thaddeus Terry of the Legislative Board suggested a plan whereby Americans might procure the international plate of identity for touring abroad. Chairman George C. Diehl of the Good Roads Board reported that matters were progressing satisfactorily in relation to the next Natinal Good Roads Convention in which the association will be involved. Chairman Howard Longstreth of the Touring Information Board made clear that the enlarged activities of this branch of the work will exceed anything ever before accomplished in this direction. Chairman S. M. Butler explained the situation in regard to a National endurance tour, and the entire subject was left to the decision of the Contest Board.

The growth of the association having made it necessary, it was voted that the Board of Directors be increased one hundred more, while the Executive Committee itself was increased to fifty-five members. The Hokomis Motor Club of Hokomus, Ill., was admitted to membership. It was reported by the Illinois Directors that extensive plans are under way for making the State association most effective, and applications from nearly a dozen clubs are in immediate prospect.

The Kentucky State Automobile Association, for failure to meet its dues, was dropped from the membership roll. Recruiting work in Kentucky will undoubtedly result in the formation of a new State body in the near future.

The present membership of the American Automobile Association is over 35,000, and it is predicted that the number will be in excess of 40,000 within the next thirty days, because of applications which are in immediate sight. The next meeting of the Board of Directors will take place at Chicago Thursday, Feb. 2, during the National Automobile Show in that city.

New Auto Bill in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Jan. 12.—Among the bills introduced in the Senate Tuesday afternoon were two by Senator Walter Edge of Atlantic County, in which New Jersey automobilists are much interested. One requires that all vehicles besides automobiles must be equipped with lights that may be seen in foggy weather at a distance of 250 feet in both directions. The bill carries a penalty of not less than $5 nor more than $10. The measure was the Automobile Reciprocity Act, which permits motorists of other States to use their machines fifteen days a year in New Jersey, if they display licenses obtained in any State that grants the same privilege to autoists of this State.

The winners led all the way through the contest, the tally at the end of the first period being 21 to 6 in their favor. Tracey led in the matter of goal getting, as the right forward for the St. John's boys caged seven baskets from the field and augmented this work with 2 points from fouls. For the Indians Wheelock proved the best point getter, three goals falling to his share. Last night's win makes the eighth straight for the St. John's five, whose next match will be against St. John's Alumni. The line-up:

Two Teams Lead Cyclists by a Lap.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Two men were forced to quit and a new combination was formed as the result of the remarkable pace maintained in the six-day bicycle race at the Broadway Arsenal to-day. The shake-up affected the tail-enders only, the Hehir-Goulett and Lawson-Root teams successfully defending their premier position against all onslaughts from the second division. In one of the numerous sensational sprints, Fehn of the Boston team and Floyd Krebs of the Jerseys were forced out. Their partners, Lawrence and Drobach, formed the new combination.

The score at 9:30 P. M., the thirty-fourth hour of racing, was: Lawson-Root, 804-3; Hehir-Goulet, 804-2; Walthour-Walker, 8041; Clarke-Pye, 804-1; Wiley-Mitten, 804-1; Hill-Fogler, 804-1; Galvin-West, 804-1; Lawrence-Drobach, (new team,) 804; Krebs-Thomas, 803-9.

In the regular weekly run of the Armada A. C., held last night, W. Meyers, Fancourt A. C., proved a rather easy winner over the less than three-mile course, his time being 15:30. The order of finish of the first ten was W. Meyers, Fancourt A. C.; H. Jacobson, Fancourt A. C.; G. Cuneo, St. Joachim Lyceum; J. Perdue, Deerfoot A. C.; J. Caponi, Liguria A. C.; P. ## Harvey Wins Fancourt Run.

The weekly invitation road run of the Fancourt A. C., which was held Wednesday night over a three-mile course, resulted in a victory for George Harvey of the Kiviat A. C., a new organization named in honor of the Irish American A. C. runner. H. Lichtenstein, also of the Kiviat A. C., finished second, and Jack Winter of the Fancourt A. C., was third. From the start to a point about one-half mile from the finish Harvey, Lichtenstein, and Winter furnished a great three-cornered battle, and the lead changed often. Harvey led all the way during the last half-mile. The mud handicapped the runners greatly. The order of finish and the time for the ten leaders are as follows:

Has Come Into Its Own

Page after page of automobile advertising has appeared this week, but five minutes after the show opened the crowd was with us and has been increasing day by day until a vast mob now endeavors to get just a peek at the car that popular opinion has stamped the leader of them all.

TRUTHS

Buick cars are the best finished cars selling at a moderate price. Every little detail of each car is worked out to a nicety never before approached in a moderate price automobile. We invite any one who questions these statements to make a side-by-side comparison.

Buick cars hold the American mileage records. Three cars carrying U. S. Mail covering 110 miles a day, 300 days a year, have run over 160,000 miles each. Hundreds of Buicks are in daily use that have run over 80,000 miles.

Over 60,000 Buick cars have been sold, more than have been made by any other company or combination.

Our entire line of Buick models are proven leaders; their power gives you choice of position on the road; all other cars at or near their respective prices must eat Buick dust on hills and on the level. Buick cars and Fort George Hill are the terror of New York's Automobile Row.

The Buick Motor Company has the largest auto factory and the third largest factory of any kind in the world. The Buick Motor Company is the largest shipper of first-class freight in the world.

One maker says he has "The one advanced car at the Garden Show." He is badly advised. All 1911 Buick cars are new with changes that stamp them a year ahead.

GUARANTEE

The Buick Motor Company is financially one of the strongest industrial companies in the United States, and its one year guarantee backed by Branch house shops, stockrooms and agents in every hamlet is the safest offered by the industry.

JUST TURN FOUR NUTS

DORIAN REMOUNTABLE RIMS

But first scrutinize all other rim propositions—store up the criticisms, favorable or otherwise, examine the other rims thoroughly—and then—come to us.

We will show you by actual demonstration where and how Dorians positively excel all the others at every point. We'll show you what has caused the sensation in the rim business.

Compared with Dorians, other rims are antiquated. Dorians simply do the things all remountable rims ought to do—only they do it simply and without the complications of the others.

Try to find a Q D Rim that can be immersed in water for 48 hours without letting the inner tube get wet—you can find only one—and that's the Dorian Q D.

Come to us to see the Q D that may run for miles if necessary with the tire deflated. Once a Dorian Q D is in place it is on to stay under all conditions. It is so practical, so simple, so easy to handle that its simplicity almost staggers you. In the Dorian Q D there are no delicate adjustments, no snap rings, no bayonet joints to stick and freeze, no "dogs" to bend, rust or clog.

Dorian Q D's take quick detachable or clincher shoes of any make without special adjustments. After you have seen all the others you will see that there is none so simple—so simple that all you have to do to mount, or remount is to turn four nuts. No other so safe, so positively secure as Dorians are, with steel wedges—no other so adaptable to all conditions; so dependable that they will work equally well under any condition in mud or snow, and that will not freeze, stick or jam.

A Dorian Rim has been changed on the race track in 14 seconds. Any amateur can make the change in less than a minute. It is a lot easier to change a Dorian Rim than it is to fill your gas tank.

And then with all these points of superiority, found only in Dorian Rims, we maintain our position in a class by ourselves by making you the following unqualified guarantee:

OUR GUARANTEE.

We guarantee the material, workmanship and service ability of Dorian Rims. If, during a period of Five Years, any part should become broken or worn, such part or parts will be replaced by us, free of charge.

MURRAY GETS HARD BEATING IN FIGHT

Young Wagner Punishes Brooklyn Bantam, but Cannot Make Him Give Up.

Fighting Jimmy Murray, the Brooklyn bantam weight, failed to live up to his terror-inspiring monicker in his ten-round bout with Young Wagner of the west side before the Long Acre A. C. last night and practically all of the fighting of the bout was furnished by the west-sider. Murray took a hard beating throughout the fight, but proved to be a second edition of the famous Joe Grim, and the hardest wallops which Wagner could hand out failed to even stagger the Brooklyn boy. Murray failed to win one of the rounds, but seemed as strong at each bell, including the final, as his opponent.

The opening round was the quietest of the bout, both boys being very slow in warming up. Near the close of the period Wagner handed out a series of hard jabs and managed successfully to evade all that Murray handed out. In the second round Murray started to dance around the ring and from this time to the sixth he spent most of his time close to the ropes, dancing away as much as possible and only fighting when cornered. Murray covered up poorly and had to take a hard beating when caught in the corners. He generally assumed a crouching position and held it until straightened out by Wagner's stiff kidney punches.

In the third round Murray showed up a trifle stronger than in the second and landed two or three hard swings on Wagner's head, but he had to take several wallops for every one he handed out. Wagner showed a straight left jab in this round, and he landed often on the Brooklyn boy without getting a return. Wagner led in this round and also in the next, although Murray, in the fourth, tried rushing tactics and ofted backed Wagner against the ropes. The west side boy blocked cleverly as Murray rushed in, and the Brooklynite got over a few stinging jabs. Murray again showed a tendency to double up in the corners instead of standing up to fight, and paid the penalty.

The fifth round was a slugfest from bell to bell. Murray got over more of the wallops than in the previous rounds, but he also received more. The pair took turns in rushing each other to the ropes, and there was plenty of hard fighting in the clinches, with Wagner showing the way at this style the same as in the open fighting. In the sixth Wagner jabbed Murray with his left until that arm tired, and then changed to a right jab, which he was able to land as effectively. But Murray refused to show any sign of weakening, and was smiling the same as in the opening round.

The last four rounds were nothing but a procession for Wagner, who chased Murray around the ring, doing all the leading and landing hard with both hands. But Murray took the trimming gamely, and it was not until the ninth round that any blood appeared. Then Wagner opened up a small cut on Murray's lips. In the tenth Wagner had Murray on the ropes twice, handing out hard swings as fast as he could, but as soon as he backed away Murray danced out, as strong as ever, apparently.

Young Crosby, who was substituted for Young Seiger in the semi-final bout, gave a pretty exhibition of boxing, in which he outpointed Jimmy Curtis. Crosby was at a disadvantage in both height and weight but he made up in science and had a lead at the finish. Curtis, however, gave him a hard fight. Young Packey Hommey fought a fast four-round draw with Mike Clancy and Danny Thomas went over the same route for a draw with Battling Henry. Bert Davidson outpointed Jeff Burns in four rounds and Young Keefe was stopped in one round by Young Rose.

STEIN WINS OVER SEIGER.

Denver Boy Takes Severe Punishment, but Lasts the Ten-Round Limit.

Through sheer gameness and ability to stand punishment Joe Seiger of Denver stood up under a terrific fight for ten rounds against Joe Stein of this city in the star bout of the Clinton Athletic Club last night. Stein exhibited what little cleverness he possessed, while the Denverite bored in at all times and furnished a chopping block for jabs and swings which the local boy sent in from all angles. Despite his efforts and willingness and almost having his man out in the eighth round, Seiger managed to last until the final gong.

Stein did all the leading and work at long range, where he on various occasions got over some good blows, but his opponent only showed good in a few mix-ups at close quarters, where he landed heavily, but this could not stop Stein, who was never in danger.

The contestants did not take long to get going, for as soon as the first gong sounded the men went at their task hammer and tongs, and mixed it at a fast clip that indicated their calibre.

Stein took the upper hand in the second round, and by doing all the leading carried the work to Seiger, who not only bored into the punches withuot a pause, but came near going out several times. Seiger made only one real flash, this being in the fifth, when he got over some telling blows at close range, but this was the only round he showed to advantage, although he held his own in the succeeding period.

The eighth round was a bad one for the Denverite, as he was floored twice, and it looked as though the bout would end in this period, but he managed to last to the end by holding and dodging Stein. Stein caught Seiger in a clinch with a hard right and left hook on the jaw that sent him to the floor, and after getting back to his feet, in a dazed condition, Stein came on in a rush and with a right swing that landed on the jaw, again sent Seiger down, but it was so near the close of the round he was unable to finish the task.

Stein tried hard in the last two rounds, but his strength was failing him and the Denverite managed to last until the end.

BOXERS AND WRESTLERS.

Josh Kelly, a Brooklyn middleweight, and Jack Clifford of Chicago will meet to-night in the main bout of ten rounds at the Eastern Parkway A. C. Young Packey McFarland and Young McPartland are carded for the semi-final at six rounds, and Charlie Dipples versus Young Rudolph will meet at six rounds.

To-night at the New Polo A. A., 129th Street and Park Avenue, Joe Maroney and Young Fitzsimmons meet in the main bout for ten rounds. The semi-final will bring together Young Eichler and Young Leonard in a six-round go. Leonard and Eichler have both scored thirteen straight knockouts to their credit, and each says he will make it one more; so a great bout is anticipated. Young Cooper, Jack Kayser, Battling Reddy, Jimmie Carey, Kid Corbett, and the Fighting Janitor will meet in four-round bouts.

Jimmie Moran and Yankee Schwarz will furnish the chief bout of ten rounds at the Metropolitan A. C., 245 and 247 East 151st Street, to-night. Moran is a Brooklyn featherweight, who has fought a draw with Champion Abe Attell in Memphis and beat Young Britt in Baltimore. Schwarz has met such clever boys as Johnny Coulon and Willie Beecher, and beat Tommy Maloney, who lately defeated Joe Hyland. In the semi-final bout of six rounds Young Buckley will appear against Young Brown. There will be three bouts of four rounds each.

Zbyszko, the Polish champion wrestler, who hopes to force Frank Gotch to meet him in a "finish" match for the world's championship title, has a contract on his hands now that will force him to extend himself to the full limit of his skill and endurance to escape defeat. Pilakoff, the powerful young champion of Finland, known as the "Finnish Lion," will meet Zbyszko on the mat at Prospect Hall, Prospect Avenue, above Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, next Monday night. Johnny Dunn, who has persistently endeavored to force Pilakoff to the front, feels confident that the latter will verify every statement he has made regarding his prowess by his aggressive wrestling.

Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, whose bout with Joe Coster has led to considerable discussion as to whether he has hit the toboggan or was simply stalling against the Brooklyn boy, will have a chance to settle the question himself to-night when he meets Patsy Kline in a ten-round bout before the National Sporting Club. Attell says that he sized up Coster too cheaply. Those who have watched the crafty Abe perform for several years are of the opinion that the champion did not exert himself as much as he might. The champion will meet a dangerous proposition in Kline, who has a hard punch. The two have met twice, and Abe says that Kline came nearer to putting him away than any of the featherweights whom he has met. Charley Bender and Jimmy Glavin, the Fighting Sailor, will meet in the semi-final bout.

At the Bedford A. C. to-night the star bout will show Eddie Powers of Brooklyn, and Ben Reilly of Baltimore for ten rounds at 118 pounds. In the semi-final of six rounds Willie Ray and Smiling Sacks will battle at 125 pounds. The preliminaries are Stanley Jacobs vs. Jack Burges, Eddie Murphy vs. Jim Buckley, and Jack Gammell vs. Matty Travis.

Packey McFarland and his trainer will arrive in New York this morning to prepare for the ten-round bout with Jack Goodman at the Fairmont A. C. next Tuesday night. Just before starting from home McFarland wired to Billy Gibson that all he required was a few days' work, as he was in excellent condition when he boxed McCarthy last Monday. This bout was just a training gallop for the Chicago wonder. The weight question is no longer a drawback with McFarland. He got down to less than 134 pounds for McCarthy, and could make 133 pounds at 6 o'clock for Goodman if the latter had demanded it. Goodman is so confident of winning from McFarland that his friends fear that overconfidence may cause an upset.

WINTER BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Matty McIntyre, the Staten Island boy who has played with the Detroit Club several years, was obtained by the Chicago Americans yesterday. Some time ago it was reported that Matty had been sold to the St. Louis Americans.

The success of Christy Mathewson and Chief Meyers on the vaudeville stage in their new act, and of Joe Tinker, Doc White, Jimmy Callahan, and many other ball players who have met with success before the spot light, has aroused much opposition from the White Rats, an organization of vaudeville performers, and well-known members of this organization in Chicago say that an effort will be made to keep baseball stars off the stage. It is said to be the intention of the White Rats to increase their annual dues and bar ball players and members of other branches of sport from their organization. The ball players now in vaudeville have met with much success this season, and the regular vaudevillians believe that such popularity injures their chances behind the footlights.

Arthur Devlin, the Giants' third baseman, is wintering in Chicago and has a position as claim agent in the law department of the Chicago Street Railway Company. Devlin recently gave out the information in the Windy City that the star of the Chicago Cubs had set and that the teams for the fans to watch during the coming season were New York and Cincinnati. Says Devlin: "The Cubs have reached the critical stage of their greatness. To my way of thinking, the defeats sustained in the world's championship games will sap the old-time dashing spirit and confidence for which the Chicago Club has long been noted. No, they won't be as formidable this year. Watch New York and Cincinnati."

Johnny Evers, who broke his ankle at the end of last season, has sent good news to Chicago in the form of a note to President Charles Murphy, in which he says that his injured ankle is well again and that he is on skates every day at his home in Troy, strengthening the ankle that was injured. Evers says that he will get into the game in the early Spring practice. He is going to Chicago about Jan. 20, and is anxious for cold weather so that he can keep up his daily skating exercise. Evers says: "Skating is helping my ankle wonderfully. The stiffness is going out, and I feel sure now that I will be ready to play ball in the first game."

BILLIARDS AND POOL.

Joseph Mayer of Philadelphia, last night defeated Al. Garnus and Dave Lauderbach of Brooklyn, by the score of 50 to 29 in eighty-nine innings in the game of the three-cushion carrom billiard series of the National Intercity Billiard League at the Knickerbocker Billiard Academy of Brooklyn. It was a very one-sided contest throughout. Garnus started the game for Brooklyn, but evidently was not in good form, and the Brooklyn manager took him out in the thirty-fifth inning and put Lauderbach in against Philadelphia's representative. Although Dave played a good game, Mayer had too much of a lead to be overtaken, and the contest ended in the latter's favor. Mayer made the high run of 7, while the Brooklyn team's best efforts netted them each a high run of 2. This evening Mayer and Lauderbach will cross cues.

William Clearwater, who is matched to play Alfredo De Oro for the pool championship of the world, played two games of pool yesterday at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy with H. P. Stofft of Cleveland, and won both matches. In the afternoon game Cleawater won by the score of 100 to 83, and in the evening by the score of 100 to 84. De Oro will give exhibitions this afternoon and evening.

They like its noiseless running, due to the silent shaft drive. This is a luxury seldom to be had in any motor car—never in a chain driven vehicle.

And besides all of these advantages, the Baker Electric is the most efficient. None other can go as far on a single charge of the battery. It has made one world's mileage record after another, with either lead or Edison batteries.

PRINCETON FOOTBALL SHOWS BIG PROFIT

Football at Princeton last season, according to a report just issued by the general treasurer of the Athletic Association, gathered in the tidy sum of $42,588.69, with disbursements which left a balance of $16,838.97. The profit from the Yale game was $25,498.48, and from the Dartmouth game $8,664.07. The training table cost $2,180.95, the coaching $5,333.

The receipts from the training table, viz., the money paid in lieu of board by the candidates, was $327.75, as against similar receipts for the 1909 team of $1,120.12. The balance left over after everything was cleared up as far as the 1909 season was concerned was $13,684.51, with the receipts $44,295.26, from which was paid $3,425.94 for suits and supplies for the 1909 team, and $2,760.39, same account, 1908 bill; $1,969.08 was expended for doctors and drugs during the 1909 season, and but $305.39 for 1910, which reflects credit upon the training methods of last year.

The baseball receipts were $26,832.51. The principal disbursements in this department were guarantees and traveling expenses, $9,044.40; training table, $3,071.44, and coaching and pitching, $2,314.99. The balance was $10,361.37.

Receipts from track meets were $2,132.26, and at the end of the season the books showed that $5,219.55 was taken from the general expense fund to make good the track deficit. Both basketball and tennis showed losing balances, these being $117.51, and $81.07, respectively.

LUSH TO COACH YALE NINE.

Professional Ball Player to Instruct Elis Another Season.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—Yale has decided to retain professional baseball coaching and has reappointed Billy Lush, the former big leaguer, as coach of the team for next season. Capt. Alan Corey of the team to-night announced that he had signed Lush for the year. This will be Lush's sixth season as Yale's coach. Two nines coached by him won from both Harvard and Princeton, two were beaten and last year's nine won from the Crimson but lost to the Tigers.

Lush's selection has been delayed several weeks owing to correspondence between Yale and Harvard relating to the continuance of professional coaching, but the universities have decided to cling to paid instructors for the baseball candidates. Lush resides in this city. He has been a member of Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit nines in the major leagues. He is Yale's basketball as well as baseball coach and is now in charge of the basketball five.

SALE OF BROWNS FAILS.

St. Louis Syndicate Deal Fails to Go Through—Hedges Still at Helm.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 12.—Robert L. Hedges, who last night, it was announced, was elected President of the St. Louis American Baseball Club by the prospective owners, stated to-day the proposed sale to a syndicate has temporarily fallen through.

Later Mr. Hedges's attorney said: "Mr. Hedges has agreed to grant an extension of time to the St. Louis syndicate. In the meantime he will remain in control and the plans for next season will proceed."

The syndicate has paid $30,000 to Hedges and was to have paid a like amount yesterday. Hedges would not discuss the financial end of the deal, which he called the legal end. He would not deny, however, that he was going to offer the managership of the team to Wallace. Members of the syndicate refused to talk to-day.

TOM CHIVINGTON RE-ELECTED

American Association to Have Schedule of 168 Games, Starting April 12.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Tom Chivington was elected President, Secretary, and Treasurer of the American Association of Baseball Clubs to-day, his term of office being fixed at one year. William R. Armour of Toledo, Ohio, was made Vice President for the same period.

President Chivington was appointed to draft a schedule of 168 games for next season, with two stipulations: That the season start April 12, and that no double-headers be scheduled. Postponed games may be doubled later in the season, but none of these will be on schedule. He later was instructed to arrange that teams make four trips around the circuit, instead of three.

Crescents to Play Hockey Club.

A fast, exciting hockey game may be looked for at St. Nicholas Rink this evening when the Crescent A. C. meets the Hockey Club of New York in an amateur league game. Both teams are much faster than last season and have shown up strong in the few games already played. The Hockey Club was beaten by the New York A. C. only after a hard fight. The Crescents will play hard to win because a victory will enable them to tie the New York Athletic Club in the championship race.

Boston Loses in Billiard Tourney.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Kansas City defeated Boston in a three-cushion carom match of the National Billiard League tournament here to-night by the score of 50 to 40. Backus of Kansas City made a high run of 6, while Mosser, who represented Boston, made a high run of 3.

WON'T CONTEST DECISION.

Licensed Manufacturers to Accept Ruling in Selden Patent Case.

At a meeting of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, held yesterday, it was unanimously voted that as the Selden Patent reversal only involved a part of the work of the trade body and as it is only one of a number of patents controlled by the association the organization should continue with its various lines of work, including automobile shows, freight matters, metallurgical work, advancement of mechanical ideas, standardization and similar objects that are of benefit to the whole industry.

The Selden Patent, which the Court of Appeals last Monday declared valid, but which, the opinion stated, did not cover the modern gasoline automobile, has only about a year to run before its expiration and has served a very useful purpose during past years in strengthening the trade, bringing about improvements in proper materials for cars, advancing the experimenting and testing of designs and making largely for the completion of the comparatively perfect cars such as are now displayed at the Madison Square Garden Show.

While in the aggregate the royalties on the Selden Patent amounted to a considerable sum, they were comparatively small on each car, members paying last year from $2 to $14, according to the price of the car. Considering the fact that only in a few instances was more than $14 paid on the high priced cars, the reversal of the patent will have little effect on general trade conditions. Members of the association paid a net royalty of eight-tenths of one per cent., but with the refunds in many cases it made the royalty as low as $2 on the low priced machine, and in very few instances more than $14 on the very big cars. Any idea that there can be any change in prices because manufacturers are no longer required to pay royalties is therefore eliminated.

National League Rules Committee.

President Lynch of the National League has appointed the Committee of Playing Rules for next season. The committee is composed of S. M. Robison, Chairman; Charles W. Murphy, and August Herrmann. At the time of the schedule meeting in New York, in February, the Rules Committee will hold its first session.

No Radical Changes in Baseball Rules

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—Chairman August Herrmann of the National Commission, whom President Lynch has appointed a member of the Baseball Rules Committee, will oppose radical changes in the code, especially the proposed three-ball and three-strike rule.

"Nothing disgusts fans so quickly as a procession of batters getting to first base on balls," said Herrmann in explaining his attitude. "The pitching records show it is difficult to get three strikes over the plate before four balls. Reduce the number of called balls to three, and there would be too many bases on balls."

Such a revision of prices as that which has swept through our men's suit stock is no mere matter of "raking up and burning dead leaves."

Suspenders at 25c. are a little bargain as an extra reward to the man who comes to make a suit saving.

Get Away from the Advertising Novelty, the Immaterial, the False and the Misleading---The Dust Thrown Up to Cloud Your Vision---

This is to You, Mr. Automobile Tire Buyer

Look to what counts most, what costs the manufacturer most, and what determines the service you are going to get for your money. It is the quality and quantity of materials used, the quality of workmanship employed in their assembling, and the knowledge and character of the men behind the guns.

We make the assertion that with the reduced prices on Diamond tires now in effect, even the manufacturer of low-priced cars will not resist giving you Diamond tires if you specify Diamond and stand firm.

Their Twelfth Triumphal Year

Diamond TIRES

Have yet to offer a feature adopted for advertising purposes

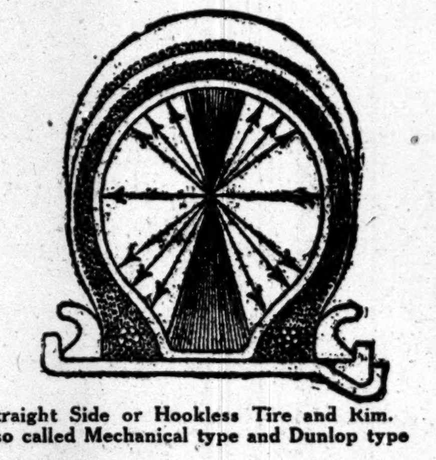
Quick Detachable Clincher Tire and Rim



Straight Side or Hookless Tire and Rim. Also called Mechanical type and Dunlop type

Arrows in both tires show the radial lines of air pressure working from the center and how the radially acting forces balance each other. The black portion shows that part of each tire in which this pressure is not equally balanced.

THE RELATIVE MERITS of these two types of construction, which differ only in method of attachment to the rim, have never been correctly presented to the public so far as we know. It is our purpose to correct some of the misapprehensions and some of the misrepresentations which have been heretofore current on this subject.

THE CLINCHER TIRE IS THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD. It has the benefit of ten years of development as an automobile tire by the leading manufacturers of the world and stands to-day a constructtion without a fault. It employs a simple and mechanically correct principle of the utilization of the pressure of inflation as a means of retention on the rim.

The general design and relation of the tire to the rim is such that the radial lines of force tending to cause the tire to leave the rim are almost entirely neutralized by the radially acting forces which almost balance them, thereby reducing the strain on the beads to a minimum, which is well within their capacity. The lateral lines of force in a properly designed clincher tire are all active in keeping the bead of the tire engaged in the hooks of the rim.

We emphasize the words "PROPERLY DESIGNED" because it is a fact readily seen that if a tire is badly out of balance—that is, too large in cross section for the rim—the active forces will not balance perfectly. In a properly designed clincher tire it is a fact that the higher the pressure, either from inflation or temporary shock, the greater will be the force acting to hold the tire on the rim.

Diamond Tires are Made in both the Clincher and the Straight Side or Hookless Type.

The latter was at one time quite popular because of ease in removing and applying. That was before the advent of the Quick Acting Clincher rim. Diamond Straight Side Tires are offered users of Straight Side rims who want DIAMOND QUALITY.

THERE ARE NO INHERENT POINTS in the construction of the straight-side tire which prevent its production in first-class quality. This type of tire has never ranked in quality, however, with the leading clincher tires, because its sales have been limited almost exclusively to manufacturers of low-priced cars, who could not afford to pay the price of DIAMOND QUALITY.

The straight-side rim has a wider base between the flanges than the clincher rim, therefore A GIVEN AMOUNT of tire material will enclose a greater air space. These tires are, therefore, slightly larger than clincher tires. We do not wish to deceive the public, however. The difference in size does not mean more high-cost materials, it means more INEXPENSIVE AIR.

THE CARRYING CAPACITY of a straight-side tire of any given size is exactly the same as that of a clincher tire of corresponding size. For attaching to the rim we vulcanize in the edges of the tire accurately formed retaining bands braided from the finest piano wire. These retaining bands have a tremendous strength, since the strains in this type of tire, owing to the greater width of the rim and lack of the clincher hooks, are unbalanced strains and the tire must be retained on the rim entirely by these braided wires. These braided wire bands are rigid. THEY NEITHER STRETCH NOR CONSTRICT TO GRIP THE RIM, NOR DO THOSE OF ANY OTHER TIRE MANUFACTURER CONSTRICT. THE DIAMOND STRAIGHT-SIDE TIRE WILL NOT CREEP ON THE RIM, HOWEVER, OWING TO THE FRICTIONAL CONTACT UNDER PRESSURE OF INFLATION BETWEEN THE EDGE OF THE TIRE AND THE RETAINING FLANGES OF THE RIM.

The Diamond Straight-Side Tire is the best of its kind. It is constructed not to secure initial equipment orders at a low price, but TO HOLD YOUR BUSINESS. It has not been created as an advertising novelty, but it is built with a clear understanding of the PRINCIPLES INVOLVED.

Neither the Diamond Clincher Tire nor the Diamond Straight-Side Tire will creep on their rims. NEITHER of these tires will rim cut unless they are used on seriously imperfect rims. Any tire of any type will rim cut if it does not fit the rim properly, and an imperfectly fitted straight-side tire is quite as susceptible to rim cutting as a clincher.

For many years, however, rim cutting is something which has figured much more largely in advertising matter than it has in cost to the user, and is to-day a negligible quantity. The effects of riding deflated are extremely bad, either on a clincher or straight-side tire, and it is folly to represent otherwise.

We would not advise any of our customers to run a tire flat twenty miles or one mile. As a matter of fact, rim-cutting is not ordinarily one of the results of riding deflated, but instead bruises, loosening of the tread and injuries to the fabric are likely to result. We do not guarantee tires not to be injured by deflated running, NOR DOES ANYBODY ELSE make such guarantee.

Tire Sizes—So-called "Oversize" Advertising Novelties in General

We wish it distinctly understood that Diamond Tires are neither OVERSIZE nor UNDERSIZE. Their size is not determined for advertising purposes, and it ought not to be. The size is fixed intelligently and scientifically by engineers who understand the problem involved, and Diamond Tires are all the right size for the rims on which they are to be used.

DIAMOND TIRES ARE MADE TO WIN AND HOLD YOUR BUSINESS. MANUFACTURING PRACTICE IN THEIR BUILDING HAS NEVER BEEN FRAMED TO GIVE "TALKING POINTS" OR FOR OTHER ADVERTISING PURPOSES.

Specifically, regarding "OVERSIZE," let us repeat there is no larger straight-side tire made, as compared to the clincher type, than the Diamond, although, as we have frankly told you, this means principally more air, not more rubber.

The point is, you must not fix your undivided attention on immaterial and misleading points. Remember that it is quality only which counts. A tire made of inferior material, with a thin wearing surface, is a poor thing and dear at any price, no matter how it may be attached to the rim or how much it may be "OVERSIZE."

What counts most, what costs the manufacturer the most, and what determines the service you are going to get for your money, is the quality and quantity of material used, the quality of workmanship employed in their assembling, and the knowledge and character of the men behind the guns. It means more to you that we are offering tires containing BETTER RUBBER, MORE RUBBER, THICKER TREADS,—TIRES THAT WILL LAST LONGER, PUNCTURE LESS EASILY, STONE-BRUISE RARELY,—than that we are going to give you a little larger tire,—that is, a little more air.

REVOLUTIONARY RELIC FOUND

Antiquarians Puzzled by Milestone Unearthed in Greenwich Village House.

A curious relic of early New York days has just been unearthed in the foundation walls of a Greenwich Village house at 102 Christopher Street, and the antiquarians of the New York Historical Society have been asked to throw some light upon it. The relic is an old milestone inscribed in the large letters of the type used a century or more ago:

"9 Miles to Camp."

The question that is puzzling the owners of the property, Librarian Kelby of the Historical Society and a few other investigators of early Manhattan days, who have looked at the stone is, What camp is meant? Was it one of the camps of the Revolutionary War of the Continental or British troops, or does it refer to some popular roadhouse frequented by the down town residents on their drives up the old Bloomingdale and Kings Bridge roads?

The stone is in the real estate office of Crist & Herrick, 380 Bleecker Street, agents for the Buxton estate, the owners of the house from which it was taken. The old house will soon be torn down. The stone is 26 inches high, curved at the top, 8 inches wide and 4¾ inches thick.

After the word "Camp" there is a faint scratching on the stone which looks as though an "S" had been added, a fact which strengthens the belief that the stone designated the distance from some central spot in Greenwich to a popular house or tavern in the upper part of the city.

The stone was discovered by a man named Morgan, who occupied the basement of the old house about a year ago. Morgan is a well-known Greenwich character. He attained some notoriety while occupying the basement by offering to feed the "down and outs" of Greenwich Village. As a result he soon established quite a bread line.

STATE BANKS INCREASE.

Gain of 1,346 in 32 Years and Failures Are as Few as in National Banks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The National Monetary Commission, of which Senator Aldrich is Chairman, and Edward B. Vreeland of New York Vice Chairman, is publishing a volume by Prof. George E. Barnett of Johns Hopkins University, in which he reviews exhaustively the growth of State banks and trust companies since the National banks entered the field in 1864. Prof. Barnett says he cannot find the rate of failure among State banks is any higher than that among National banks.

Prof. Barnett bases his assertion on an examination of the statistics of 1892 to 1909. He believes, however, that the National banks pay a higher percentage of claims. Statistics of failures of trust companies are not complete, but the writer is of opinion that their percentage of failure is higher than that of either State or National banks.

Growth of State banks has been phenomenal, according to the statistics which have been collected for the volume. They are now twice as numerous as the National banks, although their combined capital is only half as much. Their growth has been especially rapid since 1886, and the greatest increase has occurred since 1889. Their growth has been greatest in the Far West and least in the New England States. Trust companies have been on the increase since 1889. There are now approximately 15,000 State banks, private banks, and trust companies.

In 1877 the number of State banks with a capital of $50,000 and over was 634, and the number of National banks was 2,080. In 1909 the numbers of the same classes were 2,620 and 4,773, respectively.

MORE BANK CHANGES.

New Directors in Central Trust, Fourth National, and German Exchange.

In addition to the changes in bank officers announced in the earlier days of the week, meetings held yesterday resulted in the election of new directors in various banks and trust companies.

At the annual meeting of the Central Trust Company, George M. Miller, Cornelius N. Bliss, James N. Jarvie, William A. Read, and James N. Wallace were elected trustees of the class of 1914.

Morton F. Plant, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Express Company, was elected a Director of the Fourth National Bank.

At the annual meeting of the German Exchange Bank, Francis L. Adrian was elected a Director to fill a vacancy. Other Directors were re-elected.

August Heckscher, in keeping with the announcement made on Wednesday, was formally elected President of the Windsor Trust Company yesterday to succeed John Alvin Young. A. Gordon Norrie was re-elected Vice President. The election of other officers was deferred.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was:

The deficit to date this fiscal year is $6,422,183, as against $26,412,520 at this time last year.

HAVEMEYER STICKS TO SUGAR

Horace, Last Family Director to Leave the Trust, to Go Into National Co.

Horace Havemeyer, last of the Havemeyer family to leave the Directorate of the American Sugar Refining Company, has opened offices at 129 Front Street, where the National Sugar Refining Company is situated, and has expressed his intention of taking an active part in that company's affairs. The Havemeyer estate owns something more than $9,000,000 of the $10,000,000 of the common stock of the company, and the American Sugar Refining Company owns approximately one-half of the $10,000,000 preferred stock. The rest of the preferred stock, some $4,872,000, and about $700,000 of the common stock, is scattered among 200 and odd shareholders, so that the Havemeyer estate has not an actual controlling interest in the company.

President Post of the National Company admitted yesterday that Mr. Havemeyer desired representation in the board. Mr. Post said he was a good sugar man and would be a valuable addition to the company's executive force. He did not know, he said, whether, as had been reported, Mr. Havemeyer wanted to be made a Vice President of the company in charge of the raw sugar department. If that were Mr. Havemeyer's desire, he said, he had not yet been told of it. He denied that he had opposed Mr. Havemeyer's desire to take part in the company's affairs and had refused his request for the election of his friend, Charles J. Welch, to the Directorate. Mr. Post pointed out that Mr. Welch, who is a member of Welch & Co., sugar manufacturers, of San Francisco, had been a member of the National board for a month or more.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The market was very firm early, with new high levels reached. Offerings were light and prices were rather easily advanced. Late in the day, however, support was withdrawn, and accompanied by rumors that the big interests were selling prices declined about 1c a bushel and closed at the low point. Cable news was not important either way. There has been some increase in Australian and Indian offerings, and the Argentine market has weakened in face of the American advance. Argentine shipments for the week were estimated at 480,000 bushels, but it is seldom that Argentine shipments are of any volume until late in the month or in February. Indian shipments amounted to 1,024,000 bushels for the week. The United States exports for the month of December were 8,034,000 bushels, against 6,797,000 bushels in November and 9,506,000 bushels last year. For six months the United States exports have been 36,532,000 bushels, against 60,508,000 bushels last year. The shipments of Canadian wheat for the same time have been 24,000,000 bushels, against 28,000,000 bushels last year. There were some reports regarding crop conditions in the Central West and complaints of dry weather in the Southwest. Western receipts, however, have been increasing slightly this week. Cash wheat is dull and export prices are nominal. No. 2 red is quoted $1.01¼, free on board; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.24¼; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.07⅝; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.09⅛.

CORN was very firm during the morning, influenced by further sensational Argentine reports. The Buenos Ayres market was 3c higher again on reports of insufficient rains, but the violent fluctuations there have but little effect on speculative markets here. The strength in the Argentine is undoubtedly the basis for the European demand for corn. There is a good export inquiry and shipments reported 160,000 bushels. The December exports of corn from the United States were 5,120,000 bushels, against 1,833,000 bushels in November and 5,758,000 bushels last year. In six months exports have been 15,127,000 bushels, against 12,008,000 bushels last year. Argentine corn exports for the week were estimated at 2,000,000 bushels. Cash corn was firm. Toward the close futures eased off, with wheat closing at a net loss for the day. No. 3 corn was quoted at 54c; steamer, 53c; No. 4, 52¼c, all in elevator, export rate, and No. 2, free on board, 54c.

OATS were quiet, with the market very steady most of the day, easing off a little toward the close with wheat and corn. Receipts are rather moderate, however, West, and in four days have decreased 600,000 bushels. Cash oats continue firm, with standards quoted 38½c; No. 2 white, 40c, and No. 3 white, 39c.

PROVISION trading was again rather limited. Prices opened firm on small movement of hogs, receipts being 6,000 under the estimates, and packing for the week was 115,000 less than last year. Later the market turned heavy and sold off readily, closing at about the low point.

COTTONSEED OIL.

A somewhat better undertone was displayed in yesterday's market with a slight net advance recorded for the day. There appeared to be a good demand at limits just below prices which prevailed, and this stimulated scattered short covering. Although sentiment is bearish there is little disposition to operate in an aggressive way as the fact is borne in mind that futures at present are at a disparity when compared with crude, and holders in the South are quite steady in their views. After the official close, however, on the Curb, prices eased fractionally on freer offerings, thought to be for the account of refining interests against purchases of crude.

COTTON.

As a result of the trading during yesterday's session, the loss of Wednesday was completely recovered and sentiment which seemed to be bearish at the outset tended to improve slightly, due to the rallying power displayed by the market. The close was at the high point of the day, and although profit taking checked the upward movement at various times, these offerings were well absorbed.

Initial prices were rather irregular, with the near months higher and distant options slightly lower, but it was evident that liquidation had exhausted itself quite thoroughly during the session of the previous day and a better undertone immediately developed. Buying by brokers thought to be acting for bull account attracted considerable attention, while spot interests were also purchasing freely, some of which buying was credited to trade interests, who were fixing the price, so as to call spot cotton. Liverpool was also a good buyer and continued to send bullish cables relative to conditions in Manchester. Private advices from China were more favorable than otherwise, and it is apparent that stocks of American goods are unusually low, with some authorities stating that supplies are less than half of last year, which in itself was not a very prosperous season.

Demand continued good throughout the day, with high prices made in the final trade. Ring shorts were covering, with the buying inspired to some extent by expectations of a moderate decrease in the visible supply this week and also on a better spot demand at the South, which, however, was not reflected in prices there, the markets being quoted at unchanged to ¼c decline. There was still considerable talk relative to curtailment at Fall River and in some Southern districts, but many are of the opinion that conditions are not as bad as last year and there is a disposition to await the outcome of the meetings to be held to-day. New York spot cotton was quiet, 10 advance from the previous close. Middling uplands, 14.90c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was moderately active, total sales for the day amounting to 9,300 bags. Prices at the opening were steady at 3 to 6 points lower, followed by a recovery, but later values again eased off and the close was 4 to 11 points net lower. Havre was ¼ to ½ franc lower early, but the closing was ¾ lower to ¼ higher. Hamburg was ½ to ¾ pfennig decline. Rio declined 50 reis, while Santos was unchanged. A sale was reported of 5,000 bags of Santos 4s for June, July, September shipment at 13½c, compared with the prompt shipment price of 14.10c. Spot coffee, 13¼c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

Financing Seaboard Air Line.

To carry out the proposed financing of the Seaboard Air Line a syndicate is being formed which, it is understood, will underwrite an issue of $25,000,000 4 per cent. refunding bonds. This will provide enough to care for the collateral trust bonds which mature in May, and also a considerable additional sum which will be available for other purposes. The collateral now pledged as security for the collateral trust bonds will be added to the [illegible]

REORGANIZATION OF Central Foundry Company

The undersigned have prepared a plan and agreement of reorganization, and have lodged the same with Central Trust Company of New York, the depositary under said plan. Copies of the plan and agreement may be obtained of said depositary, or of the secretary of the committee, and of Baring Brothers & Company, Ltd., in London.

The plan contemplates the organization of a new company to acquire, as mentioned in the plan, substantially all of the property of Central Foundry Company, which will make an issue of first mortgage bonds and of preferred and common stock on a scale of capitalization that, while providing $1,000,000 of new money, will be about half the capitalization of the existing Central Foundry Company, and will reduce the fixed charges of the company well within what is believed to be a conservative estimate of its probable earnings. The new money provided will pay the secured debt of Central Foundry Company and the floating debt of the subsidiary companies and provide a considerable sum for desirable improvements.

Under this plan depositing debenture bondholders are to receive new preferred stock to an amount equal to the par of their bonds and interest to February 11, 1910 (being the amount provable on said bonds in the bankruptcy), plus an additional 20 per cent. of new common stock; and other creditors will likewise receive new preferred stock to the amounts at which their claims, respectively, shall be proved in the bankruptcy with 20 per cent. of new common stock.

Stockholders of Central Foundry Company, whether preferred or common, will be permitted to share in the reorganization only upon depositing certificates representing shares of stock in Central Foundry Company, and subscribing and paying, for the purposes of the reorganization, $8 for each share deposited by them, and will then receive first mortgage 6% bonds to the amount of such payment and common stock of the new company equal, in the case of depositors of preferred stock, to 24 per cent., and in the case of depositors of common stock to 16 per cent. of the par value of the Central Foundry Company stock deposited by them, respectively. Thus a stockholder of Central Fundry Company depositing 100 shares of stock under the plan will pay $800 for the purposes of the reorganization, and will receive eight $100 bonds of the new company, and, if a preferred stockholder, 24 shares, and, if a common stockholder, 16 shares, of the new common stock.

A syndicate has been organized, which, for a commission of $350,000 of new preferred stock, will, to the extent of $1,000,000, underwrite the above mentioned payments required of stockholders.

In the opinion of the committee, a speedy reorganization is the only course which will preserve to the creditors the value of their rights. A great part of the value of the properties is the existing organization, employees, plants and business and generally their value as a going concern. The value of the mere physical assets when sold upon liquidation in a bankruptcy court would be less than their intrinsic value and ruinously less than the value of the companies as reorganized going concerns. The court is not willing to continue the receivership indefinitely, and a speedy reorganization is essential to preserve this value for the creditors.

The holders of certificates of deposit issued under the deposit agreement, dated February 16, 1910, whereunder the Central Trust Company of New York is depositary, representing debentures or claims, will be entitled to the benefits of the plan and agreement of reorganization, and will become bound thereby without further action on their part, and without the issue of new certificates of deposit, except such certificate-holders as shall withdraw from the said deposit agreement dated February 16, 1910, as permitted by the said deposit agreement and the notice of the committee published in connection herewith and within the period in said notice specifed.

Holders of debentures of and claims against the Central Foundry Company who have not already deposited their debentures or claims under the deposit agreement, dated February 16, 1910, may become parties to the plan and agreement of reorganization only by depositing their debentures or claims (said debentures being in every case accompanied by the coupon maturing May 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons) with Central Trust Company of New York, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City, or with Baring Brothers & Company, Ltd., at their office, 8 Bishopsgate, London, England, receiving certificates of deposit therefor issued under the deposit agreement dated February 16, 1910, with proper notation thereon showing that the holder of said certificates has irrevocably assented to the said plan and agreement of reorganization.

Holders of preferred and common stock of Central Foundry Company may become parties to the plan and agreement by depositing certificates representing shares of such stock, duly endorsed in blank and duly stamped to comply with the provisions of law, with Central Trust Company of New York, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City, or with Baring Brothers & Company, Ltd., at their office, 8 Bishopsgate, London, England, receiving certificates of deposit therefor.

All deposits must be made prior to FEBRUARY 1, 1911, and after FEBRUARY 1, 1911, no securities or shares of stock will be allowed to participate in the plan except as may be permitted by the committee in its discretion upon such terms as it may prescribe.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

THE DEALINGS PROFESSIONAL

The main movement of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday was toward recovery from the declines brought about in the late dealings on Wednesday by the announcement of the Pennsylvania's new financing through an issue of stock. Pennsylvania itself, however, offered an exception to the general trend, for it was again heavy, closing the day a point down and at a loss of above 3 points from its quotations prior to the news of the new stock issue. The market is so professional as to make fluctuations of little significance, but it is nevertheless interesting, in the first place because it discloses the dislike of the professional element for new financial programmes and again because the dips as well as the dullness fail to provoke any real volume of selling. At the end of the session most stocks dealt in at all were up fractions or more compared with Wednesday night's level, while Union Pacific, Reading, and Steel displayed rather substantial advances.

Of definite news of financial importance the day was rather barren, an exception being the Government's return on December's domestic exports, but there was plenty of gossip of the kind which interests the Stock Exchange to take the place of the news. There was, for example, the insistent report in connection with Reading's strength that stock would be issued at attractive terms to take up some $18,000,000 of high interest bearing bonds maturing in June, and for some reason this prospect of a stock authorization for Reading prompted a rise, where the actual announcement of a similar offering by Pennsylvania dragged that issue down. Another rumor originating on the floor of the Exchange was to the effect that New York Central is about to issue $40,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds, and assertions from banking quarters that the story is premature, to say the least, failed to check its circulation. United States Steel shares responded to the unofficial decision to maintain existing price schedules by a fractional rise, and the stock was strengthened doubtless by the confirmed report of the reopening of the Gary rail plant. December's exports of domestic products made up a record total thanks to the shipment of $103,000,000 worth of cotton. This export of cotton compares with shipments valued at $53,856,000 in the same month of 1909, and $72,356,000 in 1908, and, in point of value, at least, is a record. Losses were recorded in practically all other shipments, but cotton served to carry the figures to $133,611,000, and it is safe to assume that the full foreign trade statement for the month should be highly favorable, since it is inconceivable that our exports can offset such a balance from cotton.

Further gains in cash from the Sub-Treasury were reported by the local banks, and money rates tended toward greater ease, since the unreported movements of money have undoubtedly been equally favorable. The foreign exchange market was somewhat firmer, and an influence of the moment there is doubtless the arrangements incidental to the very heavy bidding for New York City bonds expected from foreign bankers. The participation of foreigners is counted upon to offset any lukewarmness on the part of investors or investment institutions here. The weekly report of the Bank of England noted a sharp recovery from the demands experienced by the Bank in connection with the year-end financing. Its reserve percentage rose from 35.40 on Thursday of last week to 47.83.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Trading on the local Exchange was not of large volume, and transactions were limited to a few issues. Match was a predominating feature, and yielded a point. There were transactions also in United States Steel as well as Swift shares at fractionally higher figures. And dealings at unchanged prices were apparent in Commonwealth Edison, Illinois Brick, and Pneumatic Tool. Sears closed a point higher, as did Chicago Telephone. Chicago Railways, Series 2, was 23½.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The local market opened steady, and early prices were somewhat above yesterday's close. Trading after the first hour was light, however, and fluctuations were confined within narrow limits. Calumet & Hecla declined ten points on transactions of but 42 shares, but the balance of the list shows no change worthy of mention. The closing was quiet.

Gains and Losses of Small Fractions Show in Copper Issues at the Close—Bond List Neglected.

Except in a few of the copper issues and in Pennsylvania rights curb trading was sluggish yesterday. In the mining list a few stocks reported transactions in excess of 1,000 shares. The rights to the new Pennsylvania stock "when issued" appeared for the first time and opened at 2. The price rose to 2¼, and at the close, after transactions representing 90,000 shares, the price was 2 3-32. British Columbia sold 400 between 6⅝ and 6⅞, closing at the high level. Chino rose from 21⅝ to 21¾ on sales of 1,500; Inspiration gained one-eighth on the day's transactions of 1,200, closing at 8 11-16. Fractional losses appeared in Greene-Cananea, Miami and Ray Central.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Thursday.

The persistent strength displayed by the three leading stocks, Steel common, Union Pacific, and Reading, was the feature of the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The overnight announcement that the manufacturers had decided not to reduce steel prices stimulated commission house buying of the Steel shares, with the demand for odd lots very heavy in the aggregate. Transactions totaled 64,125 shares, with forty-five different issues represented on the list.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New York Central Financing.

Several times in the course of the rate hearings before the Inter-State Commerce Commission the New York Central management has outlined the company's requirements for new funds, indicating that the work it is desired to carry through this year would call for something over $40,000,000. Yesterday there was a report that the company had arranged for the issue of this amount of debentures, but the report was characterized as at least premature. It was admitted in authoritative quarters that the Directors would take up the question of financing, perhaps at an early date, but up to this time, it was said, no definite conclusion of the matter had been reached.

Importance of Chairmanships.

Time was when the transferring of a man from the presidency to the chairmanship of the board of directors of a company was looked upon as making room for younger blood at the helm. In the last couple of years there has been a distinct tendency to make the chairmanship in a number of the larger institutions the chief executive office. The action of the directors of the Chase National Bank, on Wednesday, making A. Barton Hepburn chairman of the board, while continuing in his hands the final direction of the bank's affairs and as full a degree of executive authority as he exercised as president, is in line with this tendency. It will be recalled that two years ago George F. Baker retired from the presidency of the First National Bank to become chairman of its board of directors, since which time there has been no apparent lessening of his activity. In industrial lines the United States Steel Corporation and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company are two of the most notable examples of the importance attached to chairmanships.

Lower Price for Exchange Seats.

Two Stock Exchange seats were posted for transfer yesterday and the price at which they were sold is put at $68,000. This is $2,000 less than the last sale in 1910. The failure of business to increase in any substantial way since the first of the year, so far at least as the stock division of trading is concerned, is the reason attributed for the relatively low level at which memberships are valued.

Reading vs. Pennsylvania Rights.

The rights which have not been given but only talked about were offered yesterday as the explanation of the advance of 1⅝ points which occurred in Reading, while the rights which have already been offered to the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad were advanced as the explanation of the decline of 1⅛ points which occurred in that stock. No one quarreled with the inconsistency, even to the extent of suggesting that there might be a difference in the rights. It was in connection with the fact that the Reading will soon have to provide for the $18,000,000 of bonds which mature in June that rights to the Reading stockholders were talked of yesterday. The Street has long been expecting some kind of melon cutting by the Reading Company, and it seems to some that this would be a good time to make some kind of an extra distribution to the stockholders. Some of the stockholders themselves are decidedly of this opinion, but the financial district has all along understood that President Baer was opposed to the idea. None of the Directors, it has been said, was disposed to override Mr. Baer on this point, at least up to this time. If Mr. Baer's mind has undergone any change in respect to a special distribution to the Reading stockholders, the change, it was said yesterday, had escaped the notice of his associates.

Still Talk of Steel Cuts.

The unanimity of sentiment at the Gary dinner in opposition to reductions in steel prices at this time, has apparently not discouraged those who are agitating for lower prices for steel products. There was more talk yesterday of a general revision in the price schedules to be made as soon as the business situation cleared up sufficiently to ensure a buying movement. This prediction that the price levels will be reduced for the purpose of stimulating consumption when the proper time arrives, has brought forward again the question of steel wages. There has been heavy liquidation in labor in all the allied industries of the steel trade, and there seems to be a disposition among some steel men to take advantage of this condition in bringing down wages to a level which would correspond with the lower prices of the finished product.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Pennsylvania's action in face of the coming stock allotment carrying rights to stockholders of approximately $12 was a disappointment to the local traders. The strength of Reading, Lehigh Valley, and Lehigh Navigation was a sustaining factor. In the case of the last mentioned stock it may be said that it has been practically decided to finance the maturing 7 per cent. bonds falling due this Summer by a stock allotment of probably 10 per cent. This doubtless accounts for the recent firmness of the shares in face of the depression elsewhere.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Insurance Company Reputed Buyer of Large Downtown Parcel—Ex-Senator Clark Sells Park Avenue Corner—Builders Acquire Big Plot in Midtown Loft Zone—Deal in Union Square.

Considerable activity characterized the real estate market yesterday, the more important transactions being the sale of a large downtown plot in Cedar Street and Maiden Lane, while on Park Avenue ex-Senator Clark of Montana figured as the seller of a large corner at Seventy-sixth Street. The downtown sale, which forecasts, it was rumored, the erection of a high-class office building in the insurance region, included the properties from 13 to 17 Cedar Street, running through to 86 and 88 Maiden Lane, fronting 81 feet on Cedar Street, 54.8 on Maiden Lane, and 130 feet deep. The deal was made by John N. Golding for Charlotte T. Kellogg. The City Real Estate Company was given as the buyer, but it is said the real purchaser is the Continental Insurance Company, also reported to be the buyer of other parcels in the vicinity. The property at 27 and 29 Cedar Street was sold a short time ago by Mr. Golding for the City Investing Company to the City Real Estate Company. Five old brick buildings occupy the plots just sold.

Big Park Avenue Corner Sold.

Ex-Senator William A. Clark of Montana sold one of his large parcels of New York realty yesterday. The property was the vacant plot on the northwest corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, just north of the rapidly developing private residential section, and in a locality where there has been considerable activity in high-class apartment house improvements. The plot has a frontage of 102.2 feet on Park Avenue and 55 feet on Seventy-sixth Street. Pease & Elliman effected the sale. The buyer, whose name is not mentioned, purchases for investment.

Deal in Midtown Loft Zone.

An important deal in the midtown loft district that will add another tall structure to this rapidly growing section was the sale of 19 and 21 West Thirty-sixth Street yesterday by the Holland Holding Company, of which Judson S. Todd is President.

The plot, which measures 50 by 98.9, was purchased by a firm of builders, who will begin at once the erection of a twelve-story loft building. M. & L. Hess negotiated the sale.

Mr. Todd purchased the plot last Fall from the Gale estate and Lucy Denn at a figure said to be close to $200,000. Six similar improvements have been started on this block in less than ten months.

Wysong Residence Sale Rumor.

It was rumored yesterday that the Fifth Avenue residence of the late J. J. Wysong, on the northeast corner of Seventy-sixth Street, had been sold. No confirmation could be obtained from the representatives of the estate.

Buys Union Square Plot.

The Live Oak Realty Company has purchased from Grace M. Ruggles 24 Union Square, a five-story building, on a plot 26 by 125. The parcel adjoins the Union Square Savings Bank. The buyers hold title to the adjoining property, 26 and 28. It is believed that the site will be improved with a tall loft building.

Hotel Traded for Apartments.

A deal involving about $500,000 has been concluded whereby the Hotel Markwell, at 220 and 222 West Forty-ninth Street, near the southeast corner of Broadway, has been traded for two five-story apartment houses at 607 to 611 West 136th Street. The Hotel Markwell is a nine-story structure, built about nine years ago. It occupies a plot 40 by 100.5, and has been transferred by Robert M. Silverman to the Emerson Realty Company, controlled by Edgar A. Levy. The two apartment houses given in exchange to Mr. Silverman occupy a plot 108.6 by 99.11, adjoining the northwest corner of Broadway and 136th Street. The deal was negotiated by A. & C. Levis.

Another Big Fifth Avenue Lease.

Following close on the recent lease of the Howard building, on the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, comes the report that Howard & Co., who occupy the ground floor of the building, have leased for their new quarters the Redmond & Co. uptown bank building on the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street. No confirmation of the deal was vouchsafed by either the Howard concern or the bankers. The Redmond firm leased the property from Simon Frankel, who in 1907 secured a 21 years' lease on the corner from Columbia University at an annual net rental of $14,000. The old building was extensively altered and the Redmond concern opened uptown offices there on the ground floor a year ago. Theodore B. Starr has been reported as the new lessee of the Howard building, a 21 years' lease having been made at an aggregate rental of $1,700,000.

Tenements in Good Demand.

Tenement house property for investment continues in good demand, two uptown parcels being disposed of yesterday. Eugene Cohan and others as trustees sold 526 and 528 East Eighty-first Street, a six-story tenement, on plot 50 by 102.2, near Avenue A. The property was recently secured at auction by the sellers for $53,750. In West Harlem 251 West 126th Street, a four-story tenement on a lot 25 by 99.11, was resold by William Goldstone to an out-of-town investor.

Hupfel Residence in Exchange.

Adolph G. Hupfel, Jr., has sold his residence at 59 East Ninetieth Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 19 by 100.8, to Hall B. Waring of Yonkers. In part payment Mr. Hupfel takes the Waring home at 28 Locust Hill, Yonkers, on a plot 150 by 200.

Harlem Dwellings for Business.

The Maxlow Realty Company has sold to an investor 106 West 118th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 17 by 100.11; 83 West 118th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 20 by 100.11, and 117 West 117th Street, a five-story dwelling on lot 19 by 100.11.

Samuel Krulewitch has sold for the Columbian Board of Brokers to Lewis Cohen, for investment, the five-story flat at 498 Manhattan Avenue.

Big Transfer in the Bronx.

A big transfer was recorded in the Borough of the Bronx yesterday, whereby the Oak Point Land and Dock Company transferred to Church E. Gates & Co. a plot fronting on Eastern Boulevard, west of Tiffany Street, and extending to the Sound, containing 527,332 square feet.

Brooklyn Sales.

Benjamin Adler has sold to Henry Schneider, for investment, 262 and 266 Forty-fifth Street, two four-story double apartment houses, each 25 by 75 by 100. Catharine Smith has sold to Walter Powley a three-story double flat on a lot 25 by 100.

Long Island City.

The Reliable Building Company has purchased from Frank Brosky a parcel having a frontage of 100 feet on the west side of Fourteenth Street, and 125 feet on the south side of Wilson's Avenue.

Notes.

The quesion of selecting Noble Street as a site for the Greenpoint Emergency Hospital came up before the Board of Estimate yesterday and was laid over for two weeks. The indications are that the site will be rejected, as Controller Prendergast regards the price of $24,000 as extravagant.

The Estimate and Assessment Commissioners who were appointed relative to opening and extending Church Avenue, from Stratford Road to Ocean Parkway, Brklyn, have completed their estimates, and these will be presented for confirmation to the State Supreme Court, Second Department, and at a special term in the Kings County Court House on March 8.

GILDED ALLY ARISES FOR REPUBLICANS

HAS GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Organization's Head Explains How Easy It Will Be to Garner the Reluctant Dollar—Press Agent Nucleus.

A sudden and undreamed-of ally has sprung into existence for the National Republican Party. If its hopes are fulfilled one and one-half million unlooked-for dollars are to be swept flush, free, gratis, for nothing into the Republican campaign fund every four years, and nearly twice that sum earned by the new organization. Meantime in the short month of its existence, according to its President, it has garnered in $12,000 worth of contributing members.

The new organization, under the name of the National Republican Alliance, recently started in business in a finely fitted up suite of offices on the fourth floor of 366 Fifth Avenue, and has been advertising for workers throughout the country. Its literature describes it as a membership corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York, and its objects as "to advocate, promote, and maintain the principles of Republicanism as proclaimed by the National Republican Party; to encourage and promote any legislation that shall tend toward safeguarding the purity of the ballot box; to promote the cause of good government throughout the Nation; to procure members to this alliance in every State and Territory in the United States; to keep such members in close touch with questions of politics and statecraft by means of periodical publication or otherwise; to publish and disseminate printed matter; to contribute and expend for campaign purposes such moneys as may be in the treasury of the alliance and available for such contribution and expenditure, and to perform such other work as may best conserve the interests of the Republican Party—all that.

Order of Free Lances.

The accomplishment of all these aims is intrusted to a list of officers which is, at first anyway, less impressive. In fact, the President of the Alliance, George A. Melbourne, admitted quite modestly yesterday that the officers were, for the most part, "men who have done newspaper work, publicity work, and what is called in the newspaper field, 'free lancing.'" He said they are: Himself, of some fifteen years' experience as a press agent, as President; Samuel S. Paquin, a "news service editor," as First Vice President; Henry C. Palmer, once of The Chicago Times, as Second Vice President; Stephen D. Conger, a former Chicago newspaper worker, as Third Vice President; Walter M. Seymour, Corresponding Secretary; Ralph Neilson, also once in newspaper work, Recording Secretary; William H. Carpenter, Treasurer; Harry W. Lindsley, "formerly of the New York Stock Exchange," as Chairman of the Membership Committee, and Sylvester Maguire, a "free lance" and publicity man, Chairman of the Publicity Committee.

But far greater powers are soon to be added to the organization, according to Melbourne, in the form of a great Advisory Committee, which the prospectus says, is to consist of "seven members at large, irrespective of their office, and two members from each State and Territory of the Union, who shall have each served as an officer of the Cabinet, or as the Governor of a State; or as a member of the United States Senate, or House of Representatives; or as a member of the National Republican Committee; or as the Chairman of a Republican State Committee. The President, the Vice Presidents, the Secretaries, and the Treasurer of the Alliance shall be ex-officio members of the Advisory Committee."

The Finance Committee, which is to have control of the funds of the new Republican gold mine, is, according to the same prospectus, to consist of "seven members, who shall be elected by a majority of the members of the Advisory Committee," and "the President and Treasurer of the alliance shall be ex officio members of the Finance Committee."

An Anonymous Committee.

A rather odd feature about the powerful Advisory Committee of great Republicans at present, however, seems to be that it is as yet anonymous. Melbourne said yesterday that it would consist of 105 members—"all great men of National repute, who are virtually the Republican Party," of whom about 15 have already been appointed, but whose names he would not divulge for some weeks until the list is complete.

Meanwhile, pending the announcement of the names of these responsible persons high in the Republican councils, there has been no delay in the money-making end of the scheme, according to Melbourne. The chief instrument in this end of the business is a projected magazine, entitled "The Nation's Review, The Offical Organ of the National Republican Alliance, an Ilustrated Magazine of the Highest Order Devoted to Politics, Fiction, Finance, Science, Aviation, Sports, and Drama."

An advance copy of the prospectus of this magazine lay on the table of the President of the alliance yesterday. Its covers bore a full-page portrait, in color, of President Taft. Inside were the alleged aims and purposes of the organization, and the names and pictures of authors and writers in every one of the departments mentioned, constituting the very pick of the magazine-writer field. Among others, articles were said to have been negotiated from Sir Robert Ball, Camille Flammarion, Hudson Maxim, Richard Wightman, A. Conan Doyle, Jack London, Ellis Parker Butler, Rex Beach, Eugene P. Lyle, Jr., Carolyn Wells, H. B. Mariott-Watson, Inez Haynes Gilmore, Sarah Bernhardt, David Belasco, Daniel Frohman, Henry W. Savage, David Warfield, Glenn H. Curtiss, J. Armstrong Drexel, Claude Grahame-White, Melvin W. Sheppard, Judge P. M. Babcock, and many others.

Melbourne said that from all these contracts for articles had already been obtained.

Some Trifling Denials.

Many of the writers mentioned are out of town or abroad, but some of those who could be reached in this city yesterday denied that they had signed contracts to contribute to the magazine, or that, in fact, they had ever heard of the magazine or the National Republican Alliance from which it is promised to spring. Such denials, for example, were made by Daniel Frohman, Henry W. Savage, and Ellis Parker Butler.

Nevertheless, business seems to have been booming with the embryo magazine and the Alliance that is mothering it. Melbourne explained the mode of procedure thus:

"We have already about 100 canvassers in the field, chiefly in New York, Indiana, and Iowa, and shall add others in every State. These solicit membership for the Alliance on two bases. Members of one class pay 50 cents a year and get such political letters on questions of the hour as we shall send them to keep them in touch with political affairs. The second and more numerous class pay $1 a year, for which they receive membership in the Alliance and get The Nation's Review for a year.

"Of this dollar the canvasser, in the first year, gets 35 cents; we get 60 cents for the magazine, and 5 cents is for clerical expenses. Every year after the first, however, the 35 cents that in the first year went to the canvasser will be turned over to a fund to be contributed every four years to the Republican National campaign fund. We have already in one month got 12,000 paid-in members in this way. From the great interest already manifested in the affairs of the National Republican Alliance, we estimate that it will, through its magazine, enroll more than 1,000,000 members, from which it will accumulate about $350,000 for the campaign fund. This sum, multiplied by four years, would mean $1,500,000 available for National campaign purposes alone."

Just what security is given to the members so enrolled that this vast sum will be turned over to the Republican campaign fund, Melbourne did not state. Presumably such difficulties, however, are smoothed over by the character of the officers of the Alliance and such men as may later be announced as forming the Advisory Committee. Melbourne admitted that the Alliance is not officially connected with any part of the Republican National Campaign Committee at present. He added also that none of the money collected would be turned over to the Republican State or City campaign funds.

As an evidence of the thriving business that is expected in the way of enrolling Republicans at a dollar a head, it may be mentioned that there are in a cabinet in the office of the Alliance, stacks of papers labeled "Application Blanks," numbered from 1 to 98,000.

Board and Rooms

¶ Probably no classification in the Want columns is more popular than Board and Rooms. It affords a means of communication between the great army which rents rooms and board by the week or month and the hosts of boarding and rooming house keepers.

¶ It's an easy matter to find a cozy, comfortable room in a convenient location if the Board and Room columns of The New York Times are called upon to provide you with a directory of available places.

ESSEX MARKET COURT LEAVES ITS OLD SITE

RECALL ITS GREAT DAYS

And the Silver Dollar Saloon Across the Stree Not to Mention Gloistein's, Where 'Phone Was Free.

A moving van backed up yesterday afternoon to the front door of the little building which for fifty-four years has been the Essex Market Court, at Essex Street and Essex Market Place, down in the heart of the congested east side. Three or four husky workers began to carry out furniture. The word flashed through all the near-by streets, "The court's dispossessed," and a crowd gathered to see this terribly unnatural act.

A small group in front of the building knew that the van only meant that the agust court, the embodiment of majesty and power to the east side, was being transferred to the Florence Building, at Second Avenue and First Street, until the new court building is erected on the site now covered by the Essex Market Court. The knowing ones took a last look at the inscription stone in the middle of the wall bearing this record:

> N. S. Selah, Commissioner;
>
> James Irving, Superintendent of Public Buildings;
> J. Correja, Architect.

In the group were Rosey, the lawyer, who was known when a boy as Hyman Rosensheim; the Duke of Essex Street, otherwise, but very little, known as Joseph Levy; Senator Willie Cheesecake, whose real name is Edelberg, veteran messenger from incarcerated souls to their friends outside; Mrs. Anna Doyle, matron, who was selected when she took office because she could talk German so well, the population then being mainly German, but who has acquired a complete mastery of Yiddish as the character of the population ministered to by the court changed, and Louey Zeltner, once called "Wireless Louey," though he now prefers to be known as a sociological engineer.

After a while the group got together in Rosey's office and discussed the old days. They talked about the Judges that had sat on the Essex Market bench. District Attorney Whitman had been there. Job Hedges was there when the arresting of drunkards on the Bowery was carried on with enthusiasm by the police.

Senator Willie Cheesecake recalled that Guiteau, who shot President Garfield, was once in the court, and then he ventured to ask Rosey if he remembered how easy Patrick Duffy was on all prisoners who could show the signs of manual labor on their hands. "All you had to do to get free when he was on the bench," he said, "was to hold up your hands and show callouses."

Then they all recalled the old saloon of Silver-Dollar Smith, just across the street, so called because he had imbedded a number of silver dollars in the concrete floor, and of Gus Gloestin's free telephone saloon, up at Essex and Grand Streets.

Gloestin sold so much liquor and talked so much that he never could keep track of his telephone patrons, and it came to be a custom for anybody who wanted to make a long distance call to go up to Gloestin's saloon. The rates were higher than they are now, and the monthly bills so wore out the patience of Gus that he lay one day for a man who had spent a half hour talking to Pittsburg. The customer was walking out without paying when he met Gus in the hall with a stick. Gus needed the entire Essex Market bar to get him free.

The members of the bar recalled, almost with indignation, how in the early days of the court an atendant would get days of the court an attempt would get out on the sidewalk at 6 A. M. and shout, "Hear, ye," meaning that the court was about to open for the day. They spoke about "Klondike Kate," so called, because her teeth were almost all gold, who used to sell peanuts at Grand Street and the Bowery; about Luke Unger, the pretzel man, who carried his entire stock on a string over his shoulder, and who used to get arrested because he knew that the sight of the salty pretzels would so excite the court attendants and the prisoners that he would make more than his fine would cost.

What will be perhaps the last marriage of the thousands that have been solemnized in the old Essex Market Court Building was that of Rosa Tulfech of 92 Sheriff Street and Joe Singer of 346 East Tenth Street, Rabbi Bernstein officiating, and Matron Doyle and three other members of the court staff holding up the canopy over the heads of the couple.

UNION LEAGUE HAS NEW HEAD

Samuel W. Fairchild Elected President —Nothing Said About Loeb.

At the annual election of officers of the Union League Club last night there were some important changes, but the ticket officialy nominated went through without a hitch. In spite of a desire among some members for the renomination as President of George R. Sheldon, Treasurer of the National Republican Committee, Samuel W. Fairchild was elected unanimously. He has been a member of the club for over a dozen years and is a manufacturer of chemicals.

Warren M. Healey was elected a Vice President to fill a vacancy in the class of 1912, and the class of 1913 was made up of Francis L. Hine, George W. Perkins, David B. Simpson and District Attorney Whitman. The two latter have been members of the Executive Committee.

George H. Taylor was re-elected Secretary, and Gates W. McGarrah became Treasurer in place of Albert H. Wiggin, who has joined the Executive Committee in the class of 1913. The other members of that class elected last night were Charles Hathaway, David M. Morrison, Emory S. Lyon, and William H. Porter. William E. Web was elected to the class of 1912 of the Executive Committee to fill a vacancy.

All the members of the class of 1913 of the Committee on Admissions are new men to that office. They are R. Clifford Black, William G. Bosworth, J. Edgar Leacraft, Stuart G. Nelson and William H. Remick.

To the class of 1911 of the Committee on Library and Publications to fill a vacancy Charles W. Carpenter was elected. The class of 1913 consists of John L. Dudley, Jr., Theodore E. Leeds and Albert W. von Lilienthal. Of these Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Dudley are new men to the committee.

A good deal of interest centred in the selection of a committee on art. The Union League Club in spite of its character so principally a political and social club has always taken an interest in art. As many of its own members are connoisseurs and possess fine collections of the great paintings of the world, it has been able from time to time to hold exhibitions of great merit.

An entirely new committee was selected last night, with Harry W. Watrous, Secretary of the National Academy of Design, as its Chairman. The other members are Edward C. Anderson, H. C. Bullard, W. D. Harper, M. C. Nichols, A. E. M. Purdy, and R. W. Van Boskerck.

The Committee on Political Reform lost last year its Chairman, J. Brainerd, who had held office for fifteen years. Robert C. Morris was elected to fill the vacancy. The other members were re-elected, Samuel S. Campbell, William Conant Church, Judge Rufus B. Cowing, Gherardi Davis, Alexander C. Humphreys, Stephen O. Lockwood, William Mitchell, Frank A. Munsey, John C. O'Conor, Edward C. Van Glahn, Charles W. Watson, and United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise.

Neither Mr. Taylor, the Secretary, nor Mr. Fairchild, the newly elected President, would make any statement last night as to the new members elected and declined to say anything with regard to Collector Loeb's candidacy.

Mr. Loeb himself declared last night at a late hour that he had not been informed if he was elected.
